PRICES IN ALL MARKETS RISE; COTTON LEADS

Stocks Lose Portion of Early Gains.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Shattering many long-standing records for volume and breadth of trading, and inspired by a $5 a bale advance in the price of cotton, the stock and bond markets today resumed the upward swing in prices which has proceeded almost without interruption since July 11. Profit taking checked the advance before the day was over but the close generally showed decided gains over the previous day.

Transactions were so heavy on the New York Stock Exchange that the new high speed ticker was at one time ten minutes behind trading on the floor.

Trading on the exchanges totaled 3,462,000 shares, the largest since the 4,326,918 share turnover on Oct. 10, 1930. A total of 809 separate issues were traded in, the largest number of the year.

The curb exchange set a high mark of 428,340 shares, a 1932 record. Bond trading on the stock exchange aggregated $15,189,300, the largest volume since April 8. Considering domestic bonds alone, the volume of $11,243,000 was the greatest since Dec. 18, 1931.

Set Records for Year.

Prices advanced sharply into new high ground for the current movement, and many new high records for the year resulted. There were broad recessions which failed to cut deeply into the day's early gains, and which left the market higher at the close than on Saturday. At the end prices were above the last hour's low levels as a rule.

Measured by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE average for fifty shares the highest prices attained today were $0.5 per cent above the lowest level for the year, which is also the bear market's low mark. Today's high mark average of 61.35, compared with a low of 53.98, today's close of 58.13 represented a gain of 1.89 for the day. To this advance 25 railroads contributed 2.06 points, while 25 industrials rose 1.71 points.

The ticker lagged almost from the start, and at 10:15 was four minutes late on average; at 10:35 the lag had been cut to three minutes, with about 750,000 shares having changed hands. Soon after 11:00 the ticker was seven minutes late and at 11:30 the maximum delay of ten minutes was registered.

At this stage of the trading the authorities had recourse to the bond ticker to print stock prices at intervals, and with operators working at high speed, with the volume slightly lower, the stock ticker was only a minute behind trading.

Market Opens Strong.

The market opened with stocks fractionally to two points higher, although U. S. Steel, among the leaders, was ¼ below the close. Slight selling came into the market for a few minutes, and then one of the briskest rallies of the year got under way, catapulting the leaders to new highs for the recovery with gains of 1 to 8 points.

The rails established their leadership in this advance, Santa Fe soaring 8½ points, New York Central 3½ points, Chesapeake and Ohio 2⅝ points, the Nickel Plate 4½ points, the New Haven 2⅛ points, Pennsylvania 3⅜ points, Southern Pacific 5 points, and Union Pacific 8 points. Reactions from these figures which affected the general list brought prices lower at a point half an hour before the close.

Support Comes Before Close.

In the final half hour support appeared in many of the leading issues, and "profit taking" cut only moderately into the gains for the day. A. T. & T., which reached 114¼ during the day, ended at 110¾ with a 2¼ point gain. American Can lifted to 55½ and ended at 51⅝, up 2⅜ points. Case rose to 54¾, but ended at 50¾, up 3 points. Du Pont reached 41⅝, and closed at 38⅝, up 2¼ points. Steel advanced to 44⅝, but wound up at 41¼ with a gain of ⅝ point.

The utilities showed progress, too, while oils stood still. Traction stocks declined. Declines for the day occurred in American Tobacco B, Allied Chemical, General Electric, Gillette, Montgomery Ward, Radio, Sears Roebuck and some less active shares. U. S. Steel preferred reached 67, but ended with a 2¾ point loss at 63½.

Demand for Bank Stocks.

Bank stocks were in demand in active trading over the counter. Chase gained 1½, National City 1½, First National 75 and Public 1½. Bank of New York and Trust rose 20 points.

LEADERS FLOCK TO TELL HOOVER HE'S NOMINATED

Former White House Residents Coming.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Republicans of high and low degree are arriving in Washington. They are to attend the surprise party on Thursday when President Herbert Hoover is to be informed that a recent convention in Chicago selected him as the standard bearer in the battle of ballots in November.

They will inform him that the Hoovers need not move out of the White House for four more years although Franklin Roosevelt, a Democrat of New York, has served notice of dispossession.

Early Birds Optimistic.

The early arrivals are oozing with optimism. Senator George Moses of New Hampshire put it modestly when, after a two-hour conference with Mr. Hoover, he said he could see a situation "where we could reelect him."

Mr. Moses did not directly take credit for the recent upturn in prices of stocks and commodities, but he admitted that the change surely would enhance the Hoover chances.

Coolidge Won't Attend.

One familiar face will be missing at the gathering of the clans. Hay fever will prevent former President Calvin Coolidge from coming.

In a letter received at the White House today, Mr. Coolidge expressed regret for himself and Mrs. Coolidge that they could not accept the invitation of the President and Mrs. Hoover to be their personal guests. He feared, he said, lest travel stir up his old ailment; he chose to maintain his susceptible membranes in the nonirritating atmosphere of his native Plymouth, Vt.

During his stay in Washington Mr. Coolidge was frequently vexed with hay fever. Horses were his particular bane and this fact was responsible for his desertion of horseback riding in favor of exercises on the famous mechanical horse.

Mrs. Roosevelt Coming.

But if Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge fail to return to the residence they occupied for several years, others who spent happy years there will be present. Mrs. Edith Kermit Roosevelt, widow of former President Theodore Roosevelt, will be a guest. She will arrive in Washington Thursday after giving a "Hoover tea" at Sagamore Hill the day before.

In that last act, Mrs. Roosevelt will be putting political faith above family ties. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Democracy's choice, is a distant cousin of the late Col. Roosevelt, and his wife was the favorite niece of the former President.

Another White House guest will be Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, widow of the late speaker of the house of representatives. She will be well acquainted with the rooms and corridors since, as Alice Roosevelt, she spent her early womanhood there, and it was there that she was married to the Ohioan who later ruled the lower house of congress.

Garfield Not to Attend.

One long-ago resident of the White House will be missing. James R. Garfield today said urgent business would keep him from attending. Mr. Garfield, a prominent Republican leader was a boy of 18 when his father—the 20th President of the United States—was assassinated by Charles J. Guiteau in 1881.

The 500 invitations to the buffet luncheon include the names of four Negroes. They are Charles Isaacs, real estate dealer of Natchez, who is Mississippi's representative on the committee of notification; Perry W. Howard, national committeeman, and Mrs. Mary Booze, national committeewoman from Mississippi, and Oscar De Priest, representative from Illinois.

The De Priests have been White House guests before as they have attended the annual receptions given for members of congress.

Most famous presidential instance in which the question of race entered was the dinner to which former President Roosevelt invited Booker T. Washington. Various versions of the affair are now told; in some, Washington ate dinner with Roosevelt and his family; in others, it was an impromptu luncheon in the President's office.

East Swings to Hoover.

After his long conference with the President, Senator Moses said the east, particularly New York and New

STRICKEN WHILE IN WHITE HOUSE, G. O. P. CHIEF DIES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—James Francis Burke, general counsel of the Republican national committee, died suddenly tonight in Garfield hospital where he had been taken a short time before at the order of President Hoover's personal physician. Death was caused by a coronary thrombosis following a dilation of the heart which apparently had occurred some hours earlier.

Mr. Burke had been at the White House late in the afternoon and came out, smiling at the newspaper men and telling them that he was leaving for a trip to Paris with Mrs. Burke, who was awaiting him in New York. He then climbed into the car of Capt. Joel T. Boone, the President's physician, and drove away.

President Notes Illness.

Tonight it was revealed at the White House that President Hoover, during his conference with Mr. Burke, had noted that he appeared ill and had called in Capt. Boone. At the physician's insistence, he went to the hospital, but still was unaware of the seriousness of his condition. A short time after he had canceled his sailing on the Leviathan, scheduled for tomorrow, at Capt. Boone's order, he died.

Mr. Burke, a native of Pennsylvania, served five terms in congress, retiring voluntarily in 1914. He represented the thirty-first Pennsylvania district, a section of ten wards in Pittsburgh.

Mr. Burke, born Oct. 21, 1867, was educated at the University of Michigan, from which he was graduated in 1892. While in college he organized the American Republican College league.

Organizer of Noted League.

It was his work in behalf of this league that first brought Burke to the attention of Republican party leaders. In 1902 he was chosen secretary of the Republican national committee. In congress he became a member of the banking and currency committee, chairman of the military affairs committee, and Republican whip.

President Hoover, it was announced at the White House, was profoundly shocked at the news of Mr. Burke's death.

Mr. Burke is survived by his widow, a son, and a daughter, both of Pittsburgh. The son was said at the White House to be on the way here.

Mr. Burke was extremely active in the G. O. P. national convention in Chicago last June. As usual at previous conventions, he was at the chairman's elbow much of the time as an adviser in parliamentary procedure.

BOND OF $25,000 IS POSTED AFTER SINGER GIVES UP

BULLETIN.

Reidsville, N. C. (Tuesday), Aug. 9.—(AP)—Libby Holman, released a few hours before on $25,000 bond to await trial for murder of her young husband, wealthy Smith Reynolds, made a hurried departure from Reidsville shortly after 2 a. m, today. The former Broadway blues singer came from her hotel here with two men, stepped into a waiting automobile and it sped away immediately.

Wentworth, N. C., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Libby Holman Reynolds came into court in this village of less than 100 persons this afternoon in answer to the charge that she murdered her husband, Z. Smith Reynolds, heir to tobacco millions. Within a few minutes she was free again on $25,000 bail.

Her surrender came at 2:50 o'clock in accordance with arrangements made by her father, Alfred Holman, a Cincinnati lawyer, and two local attorneys, William Graves and Benet Polikoff.

The former Broadway "torch singer," garbed in black and heavily veiled, arrived in this small town in the foothills of the Blue Ridge mountains in a limousine bearing an Ohio license and a Cincinnati tag. She had come from Reidsville, 8 miles distant, where she had arrived at 5 o'clock this morning and gone to a hotel.

Hiding Since Indictment.

Mrs. Reynolds had been in seclusion since the coroner's jury brought in an "open" verdict that her husband had come to his death from gunshot wounds on July 5. She had been in hiding since the grand jury brought in a formal indictment several days ago, but was produced on an agreement that the prosecuting authorities would not oppose bail, although first degree murder is not a bailable offense in North Carolina.

Accompanied by Dr. M. P. Cummings, a Reidsville physician, her attorneys and father, Mrs. Reynolds arrived at the home of Mrs. Harold Reid, 100 yards from the Rockingham county jail, and was rushed into a room at the Reid home.

Held Less Than Hour.

Sheriff Sheffield went into the home and within five minutes Polikoff came out and announced that the capias placing Libby under arrest had been served. He was joined by Graves and the two went to the courthouse to arrange for the hearing of the writ of habeas corpus.

Libby surrendered to authorities, but at no time was she placed in jail. She was in technical custody for less than an hour, thus her father succeeded in his determination to save his daughter from being held in jail pending trial.

The attorneys gained an immediate hearing on the writ of habeas corpus. A message was sent to Mrs. Reynolds to come to the courthouse. She made the short trip from the Reid home on the arms of her father and the physician to the click of cameras of news photographers. At no time did she raise her veil. She refused to pose for a photograph.

Libby Not Interested.

The petition for the writ of habeas corpus was read to Judge Stack by Polikoff as his client sat between her father and physician, her head resting on her right arm. She appeared to manifest no interest in the proceedings.

Judge Stack signed the papers and the attorneys immediately demanded that she be released in bail, both as a matter of principle and, secondly, because of the fact that Mrs. Reynolds' health is at stake, as she expects to become a mother within a few months.

Solicitor Higgins, acting for the state, admitted that there is insufficient evidence at present to justify a first degree murder charge, and therefore he would not oppose bail. Under the North Carolina laws second degree murder or manslaughter is bailable.

Bond Good Until Trial.

After a short discussion as to the amount of bond, Judge Stack set the figure at $25,000. A bond for that amount was signed and Mrs. Reynolds was released. The bond is not returnable at any certain date, but holds until she faces trial in Criminal court in Forsyth county.

1 Dead, 9 Hurt in Cafe Blast at Walton Place

One man was killed, and nine persons were injured, two of them probably fatally, in a terrific explosion which wrecked the Cosy restaurant at 935 North State street, near Walton place, late last night and jarred the near north side residential district. A gas accumulation in the basement, resulting from either a defective meter or one that had been tampered with, was blamed by firemen for the blast.

Seven of the injured were outside the restaurant at the time of the blast, and several of them were hurled bodily into the street. The man who was killed and the two who may die were inside the place.

Restaurant Owner Killed.

The dead man was identified as John Buzaris, 47 years old, the owner of the restaurant, by William Johnston, 937 North State street, an employe who was off duty for the night. The injured were:

JOHN MILLER, 37 years old, 3759 Ward street, burned so badly he is not expected to live.

MISS FRANCES TANDY, 18 years old, of the same address, cuts.

MRS. DELL COOK, 27 years old, 1127 Rush street, lacerations on face and arms.

Buzaris, Alex and Miller, the latter a patron, caught the brunt of the blast. The explosion shook the floor of the restaurant and burst open the sidewalk hatch upon which the Beck boys were playing. It caved in the wall separating the restaurant from the Becker cleaning shop at 933 North State street.

Boys Are Rescue Heroes.

Alex, enveloped by flames, ran to the front door, but fell unconscious before getting outside. He was dragged to safety by three boys, who suffered burns in their rescue work. They are John Carafici, 1875 Sheffield avenue, and Philip Connizzo, 1029 Townsend street, each 16 years old, and John Saleron, 17, of 447 West Oak street.

Buzaris fled from the rear, his clothing ablaze, the boys said, and finally collapsed. He died on the way to the Henrotin hospital. Miller managed to struggle through the flames in the restaurant to the outside, where he fell. He and all the others hurt were taken to the same hospital. At midnight all the injured, except Miller and Alex were taken home.

Fire Quickly Extinguished.

The fire which followed the explosion spread to the upper two stories of the frame structure, but was quickly extinguished by firemen under Chief James Doyle of the Second battalion. The loss was estimated at $5,000. The upper floor was tenanted by T. L. Butler and Ray Allen, but they were not hurt.

Chief Doyle and Lieut. George De Mar of the Chicago avenue police started an inquiry into the blast. Chief Doyle said the cause appeared "suspicious." The meter top was torn off, and it was possible, he said, that the box had been tampered with.

ELOPERS REMARRY, REVEALING NORTH SHORE ROMANCE

The elopement of Margaret Julia Robinson, 20 years old, and Henry Sincere, 21, members of the north side younger set, was revealed yesterday with the formal announcement of their remarriage last Saturday.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Robinson of 40 East Elm street. Mr. Robinson is an official of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company. Sincere is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin E. Sincere of 73 East Elm street. The elder Mr. Sincere is a partner in the brokerage firm of Charles Sincere & Co.

The couple eloped on July 31 to Waukegan where they were married by Justice of the Peace Walter Dow Wright. They notified their parents several days later. The families persuaded the couple to be remarried and the second ceremony was performed Saturday at the Edgewater Beach hotel by the Rev. R. Keene Ryan. Relatives and friends attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Sincere are making their home temporarily at the residence of Mrs. Charles T. Jawetz, 484 Sheridan road, Evanston. Mrs. Sincere, a member of the Service club, attended the Chicago Latin School for Girls and was graduated from the University School for Girls in 1931. Her husband was graduated from the Chicago Latin School for Boys, and attended Williams college. He is associated in business with his father.

Czechs Wild Over "Favorite Son"--Cermak

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 8.—Forsaking the rest cure at Carlsbad just as the springs seemed to be putting new life into him, Mayor Cermak of Chicago submitted to entreaties of Czech enthusiasts and came to Prague, this nation's capital, tonight.

He received an enthusiastic reception. Led by Josef Matousek, minister of commerce, the vice mayor and many other officials, the delegation of greeters motored half way to Carlsbad to greet the mayor and his party and escorted them triumphantly into the capital.

Invitations Pour In.

With invitations pouring in from cities and towns all over Europe asking Mr. Cermak to visit them, it became evident tonight that the mayor will get little rest on the remainder of his European trip.

He delivered a speech tonight over the radio. An official reception will be accorded him at the city hall by the mayor and representatives of the government tomorrow morning.

On Wednesday Mr. Cermak will motor to Kladno, his birthplace. He will visit Pilsen on Thursday to inspect the famous breweries there, and will probably proceed to Vienna by the end of the week. He said today that he has given up his original plan to visit Naples. Swamped by hundreds of letters and telegrams in the last few days, the mayor tonight employed a special secretary conversant with English, German and Czech to take care of them.

"Chicago Is Not Broke."

The mayor devoted most of his radio address tonight to explaining that Chicago is not a bankrupt city and is not America's leading crime center. He also appealed for Czech support for next year's Century of Progress exposition.

He told the Czechs that Chicago is the "second largest Czech city in the world," being outranked only by Prague.

Jailed for Killing Songbird; Pinchot Pays Woman's Fine

Uniontown, Pa., Aug. 8.—(AP)—The jail sentence a woman served for killing a flicker to feed her hungry family ended today after four days because Governor Gifford Pinchot paid her $17.90 fine.

Mrs. Anna Chess of Fairchance, was sentenced to 20 days in jail for violating the state game laws. Game wardens found her cooking the flicker [or meadowlark], a bird protected by the game laws last week.

2,000 Lose Homes After Violent Quake in Azores

PONTA DELGADA, Azores, Aug. 8.—An earthquake which occurred in this vicinity several days ago was more serious than was first reported. News from the surrounding country said 2,000 persons had been left homeless because of the collapse of hundreds of houses. The most serious damage was in the eastern villages of the island.

52 MOTOR TAX EVADERS SPEND NIGHT IN CELLS

Fifty-two defendants charged with operating automobiles without state licenses and also without city vehicle tags were released yesterday by Judge Samuel H. Trude on their own recognizance after they had spent a night in police cells through inability to furnish $50 bonds—$25 on each charge. Their cases, together with 356 others, were continued until Aug. 19 with a warning to defendants to get licenses.

Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court recently ordered the police to compel all persons arrested on license charges to post bonds. The step was taken because of numerous failures of defendants to appear in court, the chief justice said.

released upon the same amount of bail. Walker was a chum of young Reynolds, and although the state declined to show its hand as regards evidence, it is known that at the trial the claim will be made that Ab Walker and Mrs. Reynolds plotted and executed the killing.

Both Keep Silence.

Walker has refused to make any statement since his arrest, and Mrs. Reynolds has kept silent since her two appearances before the coroner's jury. At that time she asserted that her husband had killed himself after some months' tussling with a suicide complex.

The scene was shifted to this little town because the Superior court judges were not sitting in Winston-Salem, where the death of Reynolds occurred after a twenty-four hour July Fourth party. The trial will be held at Winston-Salem, perhaps opening around Sept. 5, as there has been some agitation for a special term of court in order to expedite the trial and save Mrs. Reynolds and Walker from long days in jail. But with both of them free on bail the state will be prepared to proceed with its case and let the trial take a normal course. The next regular term of court is Oct. 3.

Solicitor Higgins and his assistant, J. Erle McMichael, have already stated that it will take the state some time to prepare a case.

Libby Asks Solitude.

Reidsville, N. C., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Libby Holman Reynolds issued a statement through her attorneys here today asking that she be "let alone in order that she may recover her health." The statement, signed by Brent Pollkoff and William Graves, Winston-Salem attorneys, said:

"Mrs. Reynolds has requested her counsel to say in answer to requests of the press that she make a statement that she has no statement to make other than to say that at this time she wants to be left alone in order that she may recover her health."

Asked when Libby intended to leave Reidsville, and about her plans for the immediate future, Holman at first said shortly:

"We have no plans."

Hideout in Maryland.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Libby Holman Reynolds was living in seclusion for two weeks or longer at Oakington, the estate of the late Commodore Leonard Richards, between Aberdeen and Havre de Grace, Md., on Chesapeake bay.

When Sheriff Reese Bowman of Harford county went to the place today he learned that Mrs. Reynolds left there yesterday in a speedboat. The sheriff said:

"At the house I talked with Mrs. Anna Bowden, the housekeeper. She told me that Mrs. Reynolds had been at the house for the last three weeks under the care of a physician brought there from New York.

"She insisted that Mrs. Reynolds had left here Friday night by automobile for the south. However, we learned definitely from other servants that Mrs. Reynolds was playing tennis Saturday with two other women.

Leaves by Speedboat.

"We found all of her clothing in the house, and the gardeners told us she had left in a speedboat for an unknown destination."

It is not known definitely who was hostess of Mrs. Reynolds at Oakington. According to the Baltimore News, Leonard Richards Jr., a vice president of the Atlas Powder company in Wilmington, over the phone from his office said:

"This is all news to me. I did not know Mrs. Reynolds was there. I did not know who was there. Oakington is a part of the estate of my father, the late Commodore Leonard Richards. I knew that the executors had rented it, but I do not know the identity of the lessee."

GETS DAY'S DELAY ON 2 CHARGES OF MOLESTING GIRLS

Stanley Richards, 27 years old, 2021 West Huron street, was granted a continuance until tomorrow when arraigned yesterday in the Domestic Relations court before Judge Joseph A. Graber to answer two charges of contributing to the delinquency of minors. The continuance was given because Richards asked for an attorney.

Richards was arrested at the Oak street beach last Thursday night when two 12 year old girls complained to a Lincoln park policeman that he had attempted to force them to look at obscene pictures he was carrying. Richards was arraigned on a similar charge six months ago and given probation by Municipal Judge James F. Fardy. Eugene D. Sullivan, Republican committeeman in the 32d ward, vouched for Richards at that hearing.

Richards, who has boasted of his political connections, said he wanted to get Sullivan to act as his attorney in this second case. Judge Graber set his bond at $6,000 and Richards was taken back to a cell.

GARNER DENIES BOLTING SMITH IN 1928 RACE

Boston, Mass., Aug. 8.—(AP)—The Boston Globe says Speaker John N. Garner has denied, in a letter, widely circulated rumors that he failed to support Alfred E. Smith in the 1928 presidential campaign or refused to talk with Smith at the 1932 Chicago convention.

The Globe says these charges have been circulated against Garner in New England, particularly in Massachusetts and Rhode Island, since Garner's nomination for the vice presidency.

In answer to a letter from a Salem woman, the Globe says Mr. Garner wrote, in part:

"I never bolted a Democratic ticket in my life and I have voted it ever since I was 21 years old. The fact is I was an enthusiastic supporter of Gov. Smith in 1928.

"In reply to your inquiry as to whether or not I refused to talk to Gov. Smith by phone in Chicago, will say that I did not, excepting so far that I do not talk to any one over the phone after 6 o'clock in the evening."

WALKER WANTS FORMAL HEARING IN SEABURY CASE

Insists on His Right to Quiz Witnesses.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Mayor James J. Walker completed his paper work this afternoon, placing his surrebuttal to the removal charges filed against him in Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's hands. So he is ready, he professes, to fight for his political life next Thursday in the executive chamber at Albany.

The mayor's final written statement, as made public by Gov. Roosevelt, was a plea for the right to cross-examine witnesses produced to support the charges drawn by Samuel Seabury and call others in his defense. The statement, about four thousand words long, contained several stinging denunciations of Mr. Seabury, and included a blanket denial of "any alleged misfeasance, malfeasance, nonfeasance, or other misconduct."

Cites Precedent for Trial.

The demand for a full trial that might take a week or more to be concluded was based on a New York state case in which a mayor sought to remove a police chief from office. In the case cited by Mayor Walker the court held that "the power of removal is not an arbitrary one and may not be exercised except upon specific charges, sufficient in their nature to warrant the removal, and then, unless admitted, be proven to be true."

The case cited by the mayor further stated that "defendant might also cross-examine the witnesses produced to support the charges, call others in his defense, and in these and other steps in the proceedings be represented by counsel."

Mayor Walker met reporters this afternoon after he had forwarded his reply to the governor in his usual smiling manner, but at the first mention of the removal proceedings assumed a grave face. His questioners gave him numerous openings for wisecracks, but no quips were forthcoming.

Demands Right to Examine.

"I have been charged with all manner of crimes," he declared, "and so far have been given no opportunity to examine my accusers. I want this right just as any person accused of any legal misdeed or faced by any suit is entitled to a fair trial. All I am asking is that I be permitted to cross-examine my accusers."

The mayor, standing behind his reception room desk, flipped his half consumed cigaret into a carpeted corner of the room. An aid, apparently there for just such emergencies, smothered the ember with a number 11 shoe.

"I do not know what the proceedings will be except that I am on trial. There is only one way in which the facts can be determined and the truth ascertained. That is by calling these witnesses on whose testimony the charges against me have been based. I have demonstrated that Mr. Seabury's statements cannot be relied upon."

Charges Distortion of Answers.

The mayor in his statement expressed amazed injury at Mr. Seabury's attitude toward Tammany.

"His reference," wrote the mayor, "to the political organization of which I am a member as a 'political hierarchy' speaks volumes."

Mr. Seabury's recent statement that "the record clearly proves the mayor is guilty," was described by Mr. Walker as "un-American, unfair and in violation of every principle of constitutional government."

Mayor Walker charged "deliberate distortions" of his previous answers to charges and "willful misrepresentation of the evidence" by Mr. Seabury. Several specific charges, including one that the mayor accepted "$26,000 in bonds from J. A. Sisto when Sisto was interested in bringing about a limitation of the number of taxicabs in New York City," were taken up in the statement to Gov. Roosevelt. The mayor pointed out that he never had caused to be enacted legislation limiting the number of taxicabs.

Pleads for Full Trial.

The statement, which was sworn to by the mayor, closed with the plea for a full trial. The case at law cited by the mayor was considered a slender reed on which to base such a demand by those versed in the law. It was pointed out that the case of the mayor who sought to remove his police chief came under the civil service laws and consequently would not hold binding in the present case of a governor considering removal charges against an elected mayor.

Gov. Roosevelt, according to Albany reports, has indicated that he does not intend permitting a long cross-examination of witnesses by the mayor. It is demonstrated in the record that most of the witnesses were personal friends of the mayor and that their testimony was wrung from them rather than being given freely.

Holding that Mayor Walker, in view of circumstances surrounding his case, should resign as a protest, former Mayor John F. Hylan issued a statement tonight.

Mr. Hylan suggested that Mayor Walker resign both as a personal sacrifice to his party and as a legitimate protest against "the unfairness and injustice of being forced to defend serious charges in a political atmosphere."

Mr. Hylan made it plain that he was in no way reflecting on the character nor integrity of the governor, whose career he described as "unimpeachable."

"In my opinion," said the former foe of Jimmy Walker, "Mayor Walker might resign today without any loss of honor or prestige so long as he takes the personal responsibility of assuring that, while he declines to be tried under present conditions, he will find some proper way of putting his case before the bar of public opinion after the presidential election."

Mr. Hylan said if the mayor insisted upon standing trial that he would, without any intent on his part, be contributing a death blow to the chances of his party in the November elections."

BARKLEY, DEMOCRATIC KEYNOTER, LEADS FOR SENATE IN KENTUCKY

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Senator Alben W. Barkley increased his lead to more than 2 to 1 over Former United States Senator George E. Martin as additional returns came in tonight from Saturday's Democratic primary.

On the basis of returns from 1,829 precincts out of the state's 4,195, Senator Barkley had 59,897 votes, compared to 25,958 for Martin and 2,764 for Dr. J. F. Wright.

Barkley reiterated he stood on the Democratic repeal platform, while Martin long has been a wet. Dr. Wright also stood for repeal. The Republicans will select their senatorial nominee in a state convention here Sept. 7.

In the contest for Kentucky's nine seats in congress the unofficial Democratic administration slate had the edge over opponents.

DOWIE'S WIDOW FACING OUSTER FROM SHILOH

The Rev. A. J. Gladstone Dowie, son of the late Dr. John Alexander Dowie, founder of Zion City, was given until next Monday by Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady at Waukegan yesterday to show cause why he should not make payments on a mortgage on Shiloh house, his present home at Zion, or be ousted.

Shiloh house was built by the Zion founder. It was purchased by the Rev. Mr. Dowie two years ago and has been occupied by him and his aged mother, 77 years old, the widow of John Alexander Dowie. Theodore Goldsmith, Waukegan real estate dealer, holds a $10,000 mortgage on the home which he has been trying to collect.

Friends of Mrs. Dowie said she had inherited an estate in Australia from her sister but that because of financial conditions there the funds may not be sent abroad.

SHOTS WOUND TEN NEGRO CHILDREN ON PLAYGROUND

Two Negroes quarreled last evening in East Chicago. Words failed to settle their dispute. So Robert Herell, 25 years old, 4028 Alexander avenue, seized a shotgun and tried to shoot Hallas McGee, 26 years old, 4010 McCook avenue.

McGee fled. The chase led into Smith park, a small playground near Herell's home. In the park he fired twice. Both shots missed McGee, but ten boys and girls playing on the swings and in the sandpits were struck by from one to a half dozen buckshot each.

The combatants escaped. The children, all colored, were taken to St. Catherine's hospital in East Chicago, where it was said none was seriously hurt.

A "COUNTRY GIRL" WANTS HER CITY WEDDING VOIDED

Mrs. Helen Payne, 22 years old, was just a little country girl who came to a big city and met a man of commanding personality. Because she was "ignorant of the realities of life," she says she married him last April 23, while under his hypnotic influence.

These were the charges which Mrs. Payne included yesterday in her bill for annulment of her marriage to James Payne, 35 years old, of Glenview. The bill was filed in the Superior court by Attorney Vlan Westbrook. The bill also stated that Mrs. Payne never lived with her husband after the ceremony. She came to Chicago from Clinton, Ia., two years ago, the bill stated.

BOTH HOTELS UNDER RALPH HITZ DIRECTION

Former Residents of White House to Attend Party.

Hampshire were swinging to the Republicans.

"I told the President," Senator Moses said, "that I could plainly see a situation whereby we could reelect him. Of late we have seen signs which tend to hearten the Hoover people. The situation did not look good a month ago. Now the business situation has improved and I look for it to expand. With the return of better business conditions the chances for reelecting a Republican President have improved. The woolen, shoe and cotton industries in New Hampshire have shown some improvement.

"The Democrats have by no means salved the wounds made at the Chicago convention. In many eastern states the animosities stirred up during the primaries will run on into the election. The only enthusiasm being shown for Gov. Roosevelt in New Hampshire comes from those who worked for him before the convention. All these hope for office if he is elected."

Hull Also Optimistic.

Earlier in the day Representative William E. Hull (Rep., Ill.) sent word to the President that Republican chances for success were improving in Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, and Minnesota. Mr. Hull, who recently was defeated for renomination, is in charge of the foreign language department of Republican national headquarters at Chicago.

Other callers at the White House offices today were Mr. Garfield, who was head of the resolutions committee at the Chicago convention; E. A. Van Valkenburg of Philadelphia, former newspaper publisher and one of the President's contacts with the organized drys of the country, and Raymond Robins of Chicago, a member of the dry board of strategy which has been attempting to influence the President's prohibition views.

Senator Moses and the other White House callers found President Hoover still struggling with the prohibition section of his acceptance speech. According to one of the President's visitors, Mr. Hoover is finding the framing of this section so difficult that he may not write out the language he expects to use for another day or two. It seemed probable that the final address will not be in the hands of the printers before Wednesday night.

Strive to Hold Dry Vote.

Indications at the White House were that the President is taking great care not to alienate the dry support which he had in 1928.

An indication that President Hoover has accepted the Republican plank as his own was seen in the statement of Senator Moses to some of his friends that he had seen the rough outline of the acceptance speech and had found no fault with it. Senator Moses was one of the framers of the Republican plank offering a vote modification of the 18th amendment, but not a vote on its repeal. He voted for return of beer in the last congress.

Up to date the President has discussed the prohibition section of his speech with several members of his cabinet and a number of eastern Republicans. All who have talked with him have left with the impression that the President will adopt the Republican prohibition plank in toto and stress the fact that it would prevent the return of the saloon.

The Republican plank would allow a vote on modification of the 18th amendment to permit wet states to have liquor under certain conditions. Dry states would stay dry, theoretically with a promise of government help. The plank does not give the electorate an opportunity to repeal the 18th amendment.

COOLIDGE WILL AID HOOVER IN CAMPAIGN, SANDERS ANNOUNCES

Chairman Everett Sanders of the Republican national committee, announced upon his return to Chicago yesterday that former President Calvin Coolidge will take part in the campaign for reelection of President Hoover.

Mr. Sanders, who conferred last week with the former President at Plymouth Notch, Vt., said that the part Mr. Coolidge will play in the campaign has not been determined, but indicated that he will make several speeches.

The campaign manager revealed plans for carrying the President's speech to all parts of the country by means of radio parties in public halls, theaters, and other community centers. Mr. Sanders and others from the Chicago headquarters will attend the notification ceremony, at which he will preside.

Attorney Lehr Fess, Toledo lawyer and son of Senator Simeon D. Fess, was appointed assistant to the committee chairman yesterday.

FARM PROBLEMS TOLD ROOSEVELT BY CO-OP CHIEFS

Would Limit Activities of Farm Board.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—The problems of the American farmer occupied most of the attention today of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate for President.

The governor received ten members of the executive committee of the national coöperative council, which represents itself as acting for practically all the farmers' selling organizations in the country, except those distributing grain and live stock.

Tell Ideas on Farm Board.

The council stands for an absolute end to the government-in-business policy of the federal farm board, Governor Roosevelt was told. But the farm co-op leaders do want the federal government to continue the farm board as an agency to grant loans to coöperative farm organizations.

The governor did not announce any different stand on the question; he explained that he wishes at a later date to make a public address in which he will fully outline his hopes for helping the farmers of the nation.

Should Help Themselves.

The governor made it plain that he felt the farmers should take most of the initiative in organization for their own protection.

"We can't do everything by government decree," he remarked at one time. "We must encourage voluntary coöperative measures among the farmers themselves."

The governor conferred at length over the luncheon table today with Senator Robert Bulkley of Ohio, discussing with him the Ohio political situation and the speech which Gov. Roosevelt will deliver at a Democratic rally in Columbus on Aug. 20. Last night the governor held a hurried conference on various campaign matters with James Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, who returned at once to New York.

TEN MEN SUE RAIL FIREMEN'S UNION; DEMAND $750,000

Cleveland, O., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Suit asking a total of $750,000 from the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen was filed today by ten Logansport, Ind., men.

The plaintiffs, all employes or former employes of the Pennsylvania railroad, claimed they were injured to that extent when the brotherhood permitted them to be transferred from the Louisville division to the Michigan division of the road in 1918. They lost certain seniority rights and took pay cuts, they said.

Attorney Don Miller, who filed the suit, said the men had appealed to all the brotherhood's tribunals before resorting to the courts.

The plaintiffs are W. T. Wolf, L. M. Kistler, Fred Wouster, W. A. Weaver, E. A. Craig, E. B. Hyatt, W. H. Payton, H. B. Demoss, J. F. Nickels and R. M. Stauffer.

JOHN BAIN PRAYS FOR DEPOSITORS, HE TELLS COURT

Wrangles Through Another Day with Prosecutor.

"I sympathize with my depositors. I have prayed for them," John Bain told Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber yesterday before Judge John M. O'Connor, where the politician-banker is on trial on a charge of conspiracy growing out of the crash of his bank chain last summer. Judge O'Connor is hearing the case without a jury.

To prove his contenton that while the depositors may have got Bain's prayers, Bain got the depositors' money in a series of illegal real estate deals, Prosecutor Raber wrangled with the witness through a day of cross-examination, the second Bain has undergone.

Frequently Raber appealed to Judge O'Connor, charging that the witness was making evasive answers. Frequently Bain fell back on the assertion that he didn't know, or that some transaction in which he was doubly involved as the owner of property and as head of the bank which lent money on it had been put through without his knowledge of the details.

Crowd Hears Testimony.

The cross-examination drew a capacity crowd to the courtroom, recruited largely from former depositors in the banks. Despite the press in the courtroom the spectators were orderly. They smiled frequently at Raber's sallies, but there were no demonstrations.

Prosecutor Raber finally broke through Bain's cautious denials. At the end of a long day of questioning, he abstracted from the witness the admission that the Brainard apartment building adjoining the Brainerd State bank building, 8646 South Ashland avenue, was worth only $221,500. Then, quoting from the records of the Bain banks, Raber accused Bain of having placed on the property mortgages totaling $240,000, which were sold to Bain banks, and demanded an explanation.

Bain's reply was, "I think not."

Questioned on Realty Deal.

Under the prosecutor's questioning, Bain explained that he, Eric Wiegel, an official of various Bain banks, and Frank A. Mulholland, who was named in the indictment with Bain but who won a separate trial, purchased 175 feet of land on Ashland avenue at 87th street for $115,000 in 1925.

They sold the inside 50 feet of this, on which a building had been erected, to the Brainerd bank for $335,000 when the bank was organized in 1929. Bain was questioned about the stockholders' meeting on Oct. 29, 1929, at which the sale was arranged. The amination follows:

Q.—Did you have a figure on the cost of the building? A.—Wiegel gave me a memorandum at the meeting that the building was worth $222,500 and the land $112,500, a total of $335,000.

Tells Who Fixed Valuation.

Q.—Who fixed the valuation on the land? A.—Mulholland, Wiegel, and myself.

Q.—You as president, and Mulholland and Wiegel as vice presidents of the Brainerd bank, and at the same time the owners of the property, agreed to sell yourselves the property for $335,000? A.—After full discussion of the ownership, we agreed to sell. I left the room while the directors discussed it. Mulholland and Wiegel stayed.

Q.—As a matter of fact, wasn't this transaction just the same bunch of fellows shifting property back and forth, winding up at the end just as they were at the beginning? A.—No, no, no, no. [To Judge O'Connor] He doesn't pay any attention to me.

A Question of Records.

Q.—You say you went over these figures at the stockholders' meeting. As a matter of fact, you can't get the figures on those costs from your books anywhere, can you? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Don't you know your own auditors looked them up while you were preparing for trial? A.—They probably did.

Q.—Did Robert Bain [Bain's son who is on trial with his father] ever tell you that after he had made a search of the books he could find no place which justifies these figures? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Don't you think there should have been an appraisal on that land? A.—The valuation on the land was $213,000 all told—$112,500 for the bank's 50 feet inside, and $101,500 for the 75 feet on the corner.

The $240,000 Mortgages.

Q.—What was the cost of the Brainerd apartments which were building on the corner? A.—$120,000.

Q.—Then the total valuation on the apartments, for building and land, was $221,500. According to the records, you placed a $150,000 first mortgage on the property when it was built, and later put a $90,000 second mortgage on it. In other words, you put $240,000 in mortgages on property which you yourself say was only worth $221,500. What about it? A.—O, I think not.

Q.—What you did was this, wasn't it? You had had the land for some time, transferring it back and forth between yourselves. You put up the buildings. You had taxes to pay, and interest on the mortgage. So you put a price on it to the bank which would cover the whole thing? [Bain did not answer.]

The Morning Session.

At the morning session of court, Prosecutor Raber accused Bain of having used John Bain, Inc., as a means of taking $900,000 of depositors' money from the banks and using it to buy up stock in the Drexel-Western corporation, another Bain company, from the stockholders. The questioning was as follows:

Q—Didn't the clearing house report show that the Drexel-Western stock was very slow and doubtful, and yet you took $900,000 out of the banks, transferred it to John Bain, Inc. and then used it to pick up this company's stock? A—I deny that this stock was without value.

Q—Why did you use "gold notes" of John Bain, Inc. instead of ordinary notes? Wasn't it because they had nice yellow backs? A—Oh, no particular reason.

Q—Wasn't it a good fetch-on for the public? A—[Bain shouting]—No! I wanted to put these securities on the same standard as those of other banks.

Q.—Why didn't you pay off the Drexel-Western notes instead of retiring its stock? A—I had nothing to do with that myself. It was because of the action of the bank directors, who approved retirement of the stock.

Stock Good in 1929, He Says.

Q. [Prosecutor Raber yelled it]—You didn't want the Drexel-Western stock to go sour did you? A.—That's not so. I'll acknowledge here and now that I've made some mistakes, but the Drexel-Western stock was good in 1929.

The next subject discussed was the Lews company, another Bain subsidiary, which Bain asserted made large profits on dividends in its dealings in New York and Chicago bank securities. This Prosecutor Raber disputed, as follows.

Q.—You know that the Lews company lost $29,000 during its entire existence, don't you? A.—I don't recall.

Q.—Didn't you borrow $53,000 from the banks to pay the 1930 dividend of the Lews company? A.—I don't know. I think that the company always had sufficient earnings to pay its own dividends.

"Sympathizes with Depositors."

Q—Don't you realize that you were working a hardship on your depositors in borrowing from the banks to pay dividends? A—I sympathize with my depositors. I would pay all of them if I could. I have even prayed for them. I want peace and harmony.

Q—Didn't you have to keep up the Lews company good will by paying dividends? A—No.

Q—Weren't you milking all your banks to handle the transactions of your other concerns? A—No. [Bain was red faced and shouting.] You are distorting the facts. The Lews company owed the banks $257,000, but at the time the loans were made the company's assets were ten times the liabilities.

Quizzed on Normandy Hall.

Bain was also subjected to a lengthy examination regarding Normandy hall, an apartment building which was erected at 79th street and Evans avenue. Bain, Former Senator Charles S. Deneen and Dr. Walter S. Buhlig, who was indicted with Bain but obtained a separate trial, bought the site of this building for $75,000, completing the purchase on May 14, 1925.

Six days later the property was sold to the Chatham State bank, of which Bain was then president, for $108,000. Prosecutor Raber charged that Bain never paid a cent on his original private purchase of the land until May 21, the day after it was sold to the bank as the prospective site of another Bain bank.

According to the evidence, Bain later repurchased the property from the bank, giving $20,000 cash and $147,765 in first and second mortgages, which the bank accepted. He sold a half interest in the property to Dr. Buhlig. They built an apartment building, financing it and paying off the outstanding mortages by a new $375,000 loan which they obtained from Bain banks.

Denies Knowing of Appraisal.

Bain denied that he knew that a clearing house appraisal had placed the worth of the property at $284,000, less than the amount of the loan. The state banking act requires that a loan shall not exceed 50 per cent of the appraised value. The appraisal furnished to the Bain banks valued the property at $767,500, the evidence showed.

He likewise denied knowledge that the First Union Trust and Savings bank had appraised the property and had refused to lend more than $200,000 on it, and that the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company had refused to lend more than $225,000.

DROWNS IN LAKE AT 80.

REED DECLARES LAW TERRORISM FAILS TO MAKE PEOPLE GOOD

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 8.—(AP)—James A. Reed, former United States senator, today told 400 delegates to the biennial convention of the supreme lodge of the Knights of Pythias and the supreme temple of Pythian Sisters, it was a mistake to try "to make the people good by terrorizing them with the law."

"They pay attention only to the moral law and not to the laws written by man," he said.

Increase in Value Is Not Taxable.

It was found yesterday that scattered holdings of listed securities in the estate of the late John W. Scott, vice president of Carson Pirie Scott & Co., have increased in value $32,370 in the current bull market. Stocks quoted on the exchange at $185,000 on May 6, the date of Mr. Scott's death, were quoted at $217,370 yesterday, a gain of about 18 per cent.

The inventory of the estate was filed before N. J. Bonelli, assistant to Probate Judge Horner, by the law firm of Butler, Pope, Ballard & Elting. The value of the estate was estimated at more than $1,500,000.

$11,500 Gain on Bonds.

In addition to the stock gains, it was estimated that the estate gained about $11,500 on bonds. The bond holdings at the time of Mr. Scott's death were quoted at $57,500. Yesterday they were valued at an estimated $69,000. The bulk of the estate consists of 2,195 shares of common and 9,660 shares of preferred stock in Carson Pirie Scott & Co., with a par value of $1,185,000. This stock is not listed on an exchange.

Under state and federal laws the heirs will not have to pay inheritance taxes on the increased value. Taxes are assessed on the value of an estate at the date of death. Heirs of many large estates have suffered because of depreciation after death in falling markets.

New York, Aug. 8.—[Special.]—If Wylie Blount Miller Jameson had not survived his father, Wylie M. Jameson, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, the flyer, and James J. REPORT EDITH M'CORMICK "NOT DOING SO WELL"

Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, who has been ill for some time, was reported somewhat weaker last night. She is a patient in her suite at the Drake hotel, where she is under the care of physicians and nurses.

No official communication was given as to her exact condition. Hotel attaches reported, however, that Mrs. McCormick "was not feeling well." Special instructions were issued that the McCormick menage be not disturbed by late calls or visitors.

Because of her health and as a measure of economy, Mrs. McCormick recently closed her home on Lake Shore drive and moved to the hotel. She is visited frequently by her daughter, Muriel, the wife of Maj. Elisha D. Hubbard, and her son, Fowler. It is reported that her other daughter, Mrs. Max Oser of Switzerland, is coming to visit Mrs. McCormick.

LAY DOWN ARMS BY TOMORROW! U. S. TO BOLIVIA

Washington Joins Move to Enforce Peace.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Bolivia was called upon tday by representatives of the United States and other neutrals to lay down her arms in the Chaco boundary dispute with Paraguay by daybreak Wednesday. Paraguay was informed of the terms of the note to Bolivia and requested to prepare to suspend all hostilities and warlike preparations.

Mexico, Cuba and Colombia joined the United States in this latest effort to avert war in the South American jungles. Uruguay also was understood to have concurred.

The text of the note to Bolivia was not made public, but it was learned that the neutrals "insisted" on compliance with their suggestions and requested a prompt reply. It asked cessation of hostilities under an armistice based on the position of troops in the Chaco on June 1, and gave until Aug. 10 to comply.

Bolivia Recaptures Fort.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Fort Carlos Antonio Lopez, scene of the clash which precipitated the present conflict between Paraguay and Bolivia over the Gran Chaco territory, changed hands again today for the third time within seven weeks, the Paraguayan government said.

Bolivian forces took the fort away from the Paraguayans on June 15. The Paraguayans took it back again in July. Today an official communique announced that the fort once more was in the hands of the Bolivians. No casualties were reported.

Foreign Minister Higinio Arbo sent Secretary of State Stimson at Washington a message, notifying him that "Bolivian forces attacked Fort Lopez anew" and asking him to inform the other neutral American nations which lately have attempted to bring about a peaceful settlement of the Paraguayan-Bolivian dispute. The foreign minister reported that the "Paraguayan garrison retired, the fort remaining in the aggressors' possession."

Bolivia Denies Report.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Reports that Bolivia had recaptured Fort Carlos Antonio Lopez in the Gran Chaco territory from the Paraguayans were officially denied here today. The denial suggested that the Paraguayan announcement might mask an intended attack.

Report Bolivia Gets Poison Gas.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Aug. 8.—Unconfirmed reports here state that secret service men have discovered that Bolivia has acquired a quantity of poison gas from Switzerland, which has been imported through Brazil and has been taken clandestinely across Paraguayan territory.

DEMAND TRIAL OF FACTOR DESPITE MILLION REFUND

Although John [Jake the Barber] Factor, alleged swindler of thousands of British investors, has agreed to turn over $1,000,000 to investors in certain of his companies, it was asserted last night both in Chicago and in London that the British crown will continue its fight in the federal courts for the extradition of Factor.

The $1,000,000 payment, according to a London dispatch last night, will settle claims of $7,000,000 against Factor, relieving him of civil liability. Shareholders in the Broad Street Press, the Vulcan copper mines and the Rhodesia Border Mining corporation, all Factor promotions, will share in the distribution of the funds. The settlement was approved by the high court in England after 90 per cent of the shareholders agreed to it.

here for the British crown, declared the payment would result in no slackening of the effort to have Factor sent back for trial. The District court refused to order him extradited and the crown took an appeal, which is pending.

10 BATHERS LET SHOULDER STRAPS SLIP; ARRESTED

Ten bathers at the 12th street beach who had allowed the shoulder straps of their swimming suits to slip down, were arrested yesterday by South Park Policeman Leo Murach on charges of indecent exposure. They were arrested to provide test cases in court and will be arraigned today before Judge Harold P. O'Connell, in the Boys' court. Capt. Timothy Hqward, of the south park police, explained that the south park board does not forbid loosened shoulder straps, but that in the cases of the bathers arrested by Policeman Murach the suits had been lowered to extremes.

TERMINAL COMPANY SUES SEC. HURLEY FOR 'UNFAIR' COMPETITION

Washington, D. C., Aug. 8.—(AP)—The New York Warehouse, Wharf and Terminal association has filed suit in District of Columbia Supreme court against Secretary Hurley charging the war department is in unfair destructive competition with the warehouse industry.

The action was disclosed today when attorneys for the department obtained a postponement of hearing until Aug. 22.

A writ of mandamus is sought to compel the secretary to evict from the $11,000,000 Port Newark army base the Mercur corporation which the association said holds a dollar-a-year lease to the property and employs it for commercial warehousing.

The association also charged surplus war properties are being used in unfair competition with private business at Boston, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Norfolk, Jacksonville and New Orleans.

The Estonian debt covers the relief afforded during the Estonian war for independence.

The debt settlement agreement contains a paragraph permitting Estonia to request a two year moratorium, but the government also wishes a similar postponement of interest payments.

The cause for beatification was introduced last month before the Congregation of Rites. The newspaper said that few causes have been introduced "with documentation so complete and evident."

WANING MARKET IS BACK OF COAL WAR IN INDIANA

Has Been Dropping Into Lap of Other Fields.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Wage readjustments to recapture some of Indiana's coal market, which has been dropping into the lap of the low scale nonunionized fields of West Virginia and Kentucky, are at the bottom of the troubles in Indiana bituminous fields.

The ranks of the old union miners are divided. Some groups are seeking employment on a coöperative profit sharing basis. Others have been working at lower wages than the old scale in order that the mines might run, and some of these groups have been forming unions of their own. On the other side is the membership of the United Mine Workers, which is still sticking out for the old $6.10 day wage basic scale, which the other labor groups and the operators point out means a high wage rate but no work.

"Sick" For Years.

For years Indiana's coal mining has been a sick industry; it has never recovered from the strike of 1922. It has been going down hill so fast that last year the shaft mines produced only one-third the tonnage they did eight years ago in 1923; only 9,869 workers were employed as against 31,074 eight years ago.

Eight years ago 174 shaft mines were operating, all union on a $7.50 basic scale. Last year only sixty-seven shaft mines were running. The union scale was $6.10, and of the sixty-seven mines, thirty-four—or one-half—were not working under the United Mine Workers.

The readjustment process has been going on for the last three years. The recent hostilities which culminated in the battle at the Dixie Bee mine, in which a miner was killed, was not provoked by a new condition. The mine has been operating for some time under the same arrangement, off the union scale, as had several others.

From all accounts, there was no importation of outside labor as at Herrin ten years ago, and the workers were the regulation old type miners, ex-union men, recruited from nearby towns in Indiana and Illinois. The state line has only a geographical value. The rate is said to have been approximately $4.

Started with Contract Ending.

What is deemed to have precipitated the outbursts was the expiration of the old $6.10 basic contract on March 31. It was not renewed. Since then the situation has technically been one of strike. Being the dull season, however, it looked more like a normal shutdown than a suspension due to labor controversy.

For some three years groups of miners had been dropping out of the old union and getting jobs in profit-sharing ventures in which coal was sold for what it would fetch in depression prices and the profits, if any, were divided among the workers and the management. Others were going into nonunionized mines. There had been little open violence.

But when the "strike" went on April 1, pressure soon began to be applied, the argument being that the mines operating under lower scales would reduce the chances of getting through a high scale agreement with the operators of unionized mines.

Reject Communism.

It has culminated in troubles in several spots, mostly in Vigo and Sullivan counties, where the old union is strongest. At the Dixie Bee the besiegers are said to have been led by a radical element from the Indiana and Illinois coal fields, and the general talk is that some of the ringleaders were communists. Officials of the United Mine Workers have besought the membership throughout to abstain from acts of violence on persons and depredations on property.

One recent bulletin sent out by the mine workers said:

"The United Mine Workers is now and always has been a legitimate and peace pursuing organization in the conduct of its affairs and we admonish our membership to conform to this long established policy and to have absolutely nothing to do with any acts of violence or lawlessness at any time or place whatsoever."

The general view here is that the hostilities came from an element of disturbers, drawn far and wide from the coal area, who blocked the roads and started the shooting. Pimento itself, where lies the Dixie Bee, is only a little country hamlet where sentiment seems to be with the workers in the mine. The besiegers were battling miners drawn from the coal area itself, not from outside, who formerly were with the old union.

Attack Profit Sharing.

At Princeton, in Gibson county, where there was a surprise attack on the Francisco mine last night that resulted in the burning of a garage, the mine had been working since January on a profit sharing basis—what they call "coöperative mining" down here.

After the $6.10 contract expired March 31 there were conferences about a new one. In June, the operators declare, a new scale was agreed on, putting it on a $4 basis. The scale committee posted it for a referendum and printed the ballots, but rescinded this action and later a delegate convention of miners indorsed the action in refusing to submit it to a referendum.

It is said to have been the first time in forty-two years that a subcommittee of the miners failed to put over an agreement. As it stands now, no new union scale has been negotiated. Union mines which desire to operate do so under the old $6.10 basis. Nearly all are closed down.

Both Sides Claim Victory in Miners' Vote Over New Wage

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—With indications pointing to announcement of the official vote tomorrow or Wednesday, uncertainty tonight surrounded the result of balloting by Illinois miners on the proposed new wage scale. Union heads who supported the new basic wage scale of $5 a day expressed the belief that the proposition had been adopted by a narrow margin. From the opposition came the verbal statement that it had been defeated.

Tellers began the official count in the office of the state organization today, but the tabulation was not announced. Walter Nesbit, Belleville, secretary of the Illinois union, expressed the opinion that a final vote would show that the wage scale had been approved. President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America, was optimistic, but awaited the official count before issuing a statement. President John H. Walker of the Illinois district No. 12 was hopeful but, like Lewis, maintained his silence.

A. T. Pace, international auditor who has been conducting an unofficial count at Herrin, sent a statement to Springfield that his tabulation shows 18,221 votes had been cast for the wage scale and 17,998 against. He added that only a few locals were to be heard from. Proponents of the scale base their belief of adoption on the fact that southern Illinois miners who opposed the proposition several weeks ago were for it in the main when they cast their ballots last Saturday.

A group of "watchers," who said they were asked to leave the offices of the state organization, declared later that "the new scale would be defeated by a fair count."

Violence Spreads to Indiana.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Disturbances in the southwestern Indiana coal mine fields took in a larger area over the week-end. Twelve hundred union miners from Indiana and southern Illinois met today at the county fair grounds at Princeton.

A parade around the public square was led by the Petersburg Girls' band and the Oakland City High School band. William Mitch and Samuel Caddy, international organizers, made addresses and free lunch was served.

At the Francisco coöperative coal mine, six miles east of Princeton, a fire which mine guards asserted was incendiary destroyed a garage. The tipple and other property of the Oak Grove coöperative mine near Dugger was destroyed by fire. This mine has been closed since April, when union sympathizers visited it.

Employés in a strip mine near Brazil were halted today by men who arrived at the mine in automobiles and demanded that the mine be unionized.

Judge Louis Fitzhenry in federal District court here today refused to "take up the time of the court" with the dispute involving the Dixie Bee mine near Terre Haute "so long as the state is in charge." He, however, set Sept. 19 for arraignment of union miners and officials on contempt of court charges growing out of mine disorders last spring.

750 JOBLESS MEN START PULLING RAGWEED TODAY

Rowland Haynes Here for Loan Parley.

Seven hundred and fifty unemployed men go to work today pulling ragweed in order to eradicate the plant before the start of hay fever season on Aug. 13. Before that date some 8,000 jobless men are expected to be at work destroying the weed.

The campaign will be conducted by the special works division of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, with Walter C. League, superintendent of the Goodwill Industries, in charge. The men will be enlisted from shelters and heads of families on the relief rolls. They will be paid out of the $240,000 fund allotted to the special works division for this month.

Rowland Haynes, representing the relief division of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, conferred with Chicago relief officials yesterday regarding information which is needed before Illinois can obtain further advances from the federal agency. He left last night to confer with Gov. Emmerson who requested a $10,000,000 loan for Illinois. Mr. Haynes formerly was secretary of the University of Chicago.

RAILROAD FORCED TO SLASH PAY TO GET R. F. C. LOAN

Washington, D. C., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—"The field of managerial discretion" among railroads was invaded again today by the interstate commerce commission. The commission required as a condition to its approval of a three year $99,200 loan to the Missouri Southern railroad from the Reconstruction Finance corporation that the company agree not to pay its executives and officials more than $10,000 a year during the life of the loan.

It was the second time that the commission used its authority over reconstruction corporation loans to influence the policies of railway management. It required in approving a loan to the St. Louis San Francisco railway that the road bring about material reductions in its capitalization and fixed interest requirements.

The commission made no statement concerning the justification of salaries paid to Missouri Southern officials but had before it the report to the senate on amounts paid by all roads to their executives.

$17,500,000 LOAN SOUGHT BY IOWA FROM THE R. F. C.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—John Fletcher, attorney general of Iowa, and Ray Johnson, state treasurer, today began preliminary negotiations for a $17,500,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to meet outstanding obligations against the state's public fund for guaranteeing depositors in closed banks.

Mr. Fletcher said today that no formal application had been filed with the corporation. He is conferring now with officers of the government loan agency to ascertain whether the state's public deposits sinking fund can be construed as a "self-liquidating project" under the relief bill. It has been generally thought here that "self-liquidating" projects as intended in the bill meant only construction projects.

CHAPIN SWORN IN AS PRESIDENT'S COMMERCE CHIEF

Washington, D. C., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Roy D. Chapin of Detroit today took formal office as secretary of commerce in the Hoover cabinet, replacing Robert P. Lamont of Chicago, who last week resigned to become president of the American Iron and Steel institute.

The new Hoover appointee, who fills a position occupied by the President himself in former years, was sworn in in brief ceremonies at the commerce department.

Replying to the congratulations of Mr. Lamont, who told him that business men throughout the country approved his selection, Mr. Chapin said:

"Naturally, like every other American, I am gratified by the unmistakably better tone that now prevails in our industries and marts of trade. Concerning the future trend, I will not be so bold as to venture prediction now, but one thing is certain—we must all exert ourselves to the utmost striving to strengthen all favorable factors and to make the inevitable turn come as soon and with as much security as possible."

Mr. Chapin's appointment must be confirmed by congress when it convenes in December, but he will assume active duties tomorrow.

RUVELL DEFENDS HIS ACTIONS IN M'GINNESS CASE

Assistant State's Attorney Nat S. Ruvell appeared yesterday at the Criminal Court building and disclaimed any responsibility for the dismissal of two confidence game charges against Attorney Wilbur J. McGinness. Ruvell had been summoned from his vacation in Lac du Flambeau, Wis., after an investigation of the McGinness case.

McGinness was indicted on charges that he had taken money from firemen and policemen on the promise that he would secure promotions for them. The charges were dismissed for want of prosecution. State's Attorney Swanson stated the case was dismissed on July 13, on recommendation of Prosecutor Ruvell, who called attention to the absence of the complaining witnesses. The next day policemen and witnesses appeared and an investigation of court records showed that the case had been set for July 14.

Ruvell said yesterday that he possessed signed statements from complaining witnesses in which they expressed their wish to drop the charges. State's Attorney Swanson said he would make no statement until the matter had been further investigated.

In a dazed condition he was taken to County General hospital. A gash in his forehead was sewed up.

2 BARRIERS PUT IN WAY OF PAY FOR TEACHERS

'32 Warrant Sale Blocked —City Withdraws Aid.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Two barriers were raised yesterday which appear to make it practically impossible for the school board to raise cash on 1932 tax anticipation warrants. These high hurdles are:

1. Informal word from Chapman & Cutler, security experts, that they have not and probably will not, approve 1932 educational tax warants while the "N.S.F. check" law is operative. Without that approval these tax warrants are not saleable to banks, investment houses, insurance companies or other large purchasers.

2. Notification from the city that the council has ordered the city controller to discontinue financing school pay rolls from the city's "aggregate of funds." If that order is obeyed, it means that the city will not invest its alleged surplus cash in 1932 educational tax warrants.

Single Prospect Remains.

The two sources of cash, on 1932 educational warrants, have thus been cut off, unless the ban is somehow lifted. The city council has adjourned until Sept. 28.

There remains one prospect of obtaining cash for pay rolls without actually taking cash out of the city treasury. This is the posibility of selling 1931 educational tax warrants now held in the city's aggregate of funds, and substituting 1932 warrants in the city treasury. Local banks have promised to buy $10,000,000 or $12,000,000 more of tax warrants of all of the local governments. The school board's share would be less than a month's pay for its employés. That may be obtained, although it is not yet assured.

City Controller M. S. Szymczak, who has been in the east for more than a week endeavoring to create a market among bankers there for Chicago warrants, announced last night in New York that he had succeeded in selling a block of warrants to a group of bankers. The amount and kind of warrants involved in the transaction and the identity of the buyers was not revealed.

The announcement raised some hopes of future pay days for school employés. It was considered that there would be little hope of future pay days unless the controller succeeded in making sales in the east.

Warrants Sell at Discount.

On 1931 wages and salaries, the school board owed its employés $5,428,340 before it began paying off this debt last Thursday in tax anticipation warrants, which were quoted on the market yesterday from 81 to 83. That means a discount of 17 to 19 per cent if the warrants are sold in the open market by teachers and other employés.

On its 1932 pay roll the board owes its employés approximately $12,950,000, and it has been estimated by School Auditor Brackett it will require $18,185,000 to meet the pay rolls for the remainder of the year at the present rate of spending. That was the figure he presented to the Reconstruction Finance corporation in Washington when an effort was being made to obtain a loan.

13 Millions Past Due.

This $12,950,00 debt to the teachers and employés takes into account that $2,244,145.37 was distributed Saturday and yesterday to employés as compensation for the last half of March. Several hundred were compelled to call at the board offices for their checks yesterday because they had not left addresses to which the checks could be mailed. It is after this payday that $12,950,000 will still be owing the employés.

This sum, plus the estimated pay roll requirements for the remainder of 1932, gives a total of $31,000,000. In its recent retrenchment scheme, the board gave it out that it would save about $2,000,000 of this sum. If this promise is kept the board will have a pay roll of $29,000,000 for this year yet to meet, with a prospect of one payday from local bankers and the unknown possibilities of getting cash in the east.

The school board meets tomorrow afternoon. It may decide how it will attempt to get the $29,000,000 for salaries. While waiting for their checks seven or eight teachers said yesterday that they are "nearly at the end of the rope," "can't go much farther," "must have money to go on," and similar expressions. They gave the impression they have wiped out their reserves and accumulated debts which are pressing.

May Open with Warrants.

It would be possible for the board to reopen the schools on Sept. 12, as scheduled, and offer the teachers and employés 1932 tax anticipation warrants. The discount rate probably would be larger than on the 1931 warrants and that loss would be in addition to an approximate 10 per cent cut in the teachers' pay, already ordered.

One bank official said yesterday that an effort to distribute $29,000,000 in educational tax anticipation warrants, by handing them out as pay to employés, is "extremely hazardous."

"By this process," he went on, "the West Park board has run its tax warrants down to 60 cents on the dollar, with only a relative small amount of warrants in comparison with the schools. The 1932 educational warrants might hit 50 cents on the dollar, which would give the school tax warrants a bad reputation."

LIQUOR STILL TRACED TO ANGELUS TEMPLE; IT'S A GIFT, THEY SAY

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Clashes between David L. Hutton, husband of Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, evangelist, and R. A. Watkins, deposed Angelus temple commissary head, revealed today at a city social service commission hearing that temple charity workers were entitled to 30 per cent of all funds they collected.

The investigation of what officials termed "charity racketeering" started after police arrested a man on charges of possessing a still. The still, police said, was traced to Angelus temple where parts of it had been assembled from odds and ends solicited for charity by temple workers.

EX-WIFE SEEKS INSURANCE OF B. E. F. VICTIM

Mrs. Frances Krivenko, divorced wife of William Hushka, Chicago veteran who was killed in the bonus rioting at Washington, swore out a warrant yesterday for the arrest of Charles Hushka, brother of her ex-husband, charging larceny of William's $2,000 insurance policy. Mrs. Krivenko, who lives at 2015 North Winchester avenue, charges she is named as beneficiary in the policy, but that Hushka refuses to surrender it.

Hushka lives at 2316 West 23d place. His brother lived with him before he joined the bonus expeditionary forces. Mrs. Krivenko said she needs the $2,000 left by William Hushka for the support of their daughter, Lauretta, 12 years old. The warrant was issued by Judge Leon Edelman in the Felony court.

200 Want Transportation.

While this was going on some 200 bonus marchers who have reached Chicago on their way home from the east awaited word as to whether they will be given free transportation to their homes.

This remnant of the B. E. F. held forth at 17 West Pearson street, in a two story brick house owned by three brothers, J. Frank, George C., and William H. Lyman Jr. The bonus marchers had plenty of food yesterday, but expected a shortage by today. Yesterday morning about ten stragglers arrived on foot, and in one automobile.

100 Plan to Remain.

Commissioner of Public Works A. A. Sprague, who arranged for three marchers to their homes in the west on Saturday, said yesterday he presumed the arrangement is still in effect and that the arrivals of Sunday and yesterday will be sent home today without charge. About 100 of those living in the Pearson street house plan to remain there indefinitely, it was said, as they have no homes.

PERSONALTY TAX RETURNS BREAK RECORDS IN CITY

Yesterday was the last day for filing personal property tax schedules. G. H. Bollman, chief of the personal property division under Assessor J. L. Jacobs, estimated 221,248 schedules were returned in the city up to 5 o'clock last night. Taxpayers were given until midnight last night to mail their returns. All schedules filed after midnight are subject to a 50 per cent penalty.

The return is five times greater than for any other year in the history of the city. The office mailed out 654,922 schedules. Returns will be classified on receipt of the last minute filings. In addition 125,000 schedules have been received from the country town areas.

More than 7,000 persons appeared at the assessor's office yesterday to file returns and 12,000 schedules were received by mail. The total gave the office its heaviest day since filings began.

In the afternoon Mr. Jacobs conferred with a delegation of loop bankers on the assessments of their institutions. The delegation included Melvin A. Traylor and William R. Dawes. They were said to have taken the position that the banks should not be assessed on flat valuations as of April 1, 1931, as events occurring since had changed these assets greatly. It was agreed that a subcommittee of bankers would present figures that might justify a new basis of assessment.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Aug. 9.—[Tuesday.]—The swollen Sungari river flooded Harbin, Manchuria, yesterday afternoon and caused a $3,000,000 property loss, according to a Rengo news agency dispatch today. Two hundred and fifty persons were drowned or injured.

Sand bags are being piled up to save the city. The waters, rising twenty feet, flooded Harbin's busiest street. Thirty-five thousand houses were flooded and 1,000 destroyed.

Chiefs Gather to Settle Fate of Republic.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 8.—Chancellor Franz von Papen is ready to share the government of Germany with Adolf Hitler's National Socialists and Dr. Alfred Hugenberg's Nationalists. Both parties—the mighty Nazis and the small but determined group which favors the restoration of the monarchy—today were invited to participate in Von Papen's cabinet.

The chancellor, who is determined to remain as head of the government and to maintain it on a "no-party" basis, returned to Berlin today from a post-election vacation. Leaders of the powerful political factions are assembling in the capital and it is expected that the republic will know the character of its future government by the end of the week.

Prepare for Negotiations.

Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, minister of defense and the power behind the Von Papen government, is on hand, while Hitler, Dr. Heinrich Bruening, Catholic Centrist leader and former chancellor, and Dr. Hugenberg are preparing for the negotiations.

President Paul von Hindenburg is due to arrive from his estate in Neudeck, East Prussia, on Thursday to take part in the celebration on the anniversary of the promulgation of the republic's constitution of Weimar.

Chancellor von Papen today curtly announced that he will remain as head of the government—an indication that he intends to establish the Nazis and Nationalists in the lesser important posts.

The Hitlerite organ, Der Angriff, immediately voiced a demand for full governmental control under Hitler.

"If we are not allowed to direct the government, we will fight to the finish," it warned.

Up to Hindenburg.

The decision as to whether Von Papen or Hitler will be chancellor lies in the hands of President von Hindenburg, the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung pointed out, "as the president is the sovereign authority in the choice of a chancellor."

Meanwhile political violence continues unabated. Two political murders, many bombings and shootings were reported over the week-end in Silesia. The slain men were officials of the republican reichsbanner men.

Two more reichsbanner men died of wounds in Nordhausen and Sachsa today.

Von Papen has called the cabinet together for tomorrow to consider the terrorism. The chancellor is reported to be determined to end the political crime wave with all the means at the disposal of the state.

Death Penalty for Gun Toters.

Political circles predicted the issuance of a new emergency decree imposing the death penalty upon persons carrying arms, as in 1919. Special courts to deal swiftly and drastically with terrorists will be established under the powers granted in the emergency decree of Oct. 6, 1931, it is understood.

Franz Bracht, Prussian home minister appointed by Von Papen, today warned all officials that their duty is to the public, not to political parties. He declared he will not tolerate the state being harmed by political acts of terrorism.

In Brunswick it was announced that 40% members of Hitler's "brown army" will be enrolled in a "self-defense organization to afford sufficient protection for the populace."

FRENCH MARINE KILLS SELF FOR LOVE OF ACTRESS

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

NICE, Aug. 8.—Marine Lieut. Victor Point, who committed suicide yesterday at Agay, in southern France, did so because of jealous love for Alice Cocea, French actress.

Point was a nephew of Philip Berthelot, the French statesman. He had been in love with Mlle. Cocea for three years and she had consented to divorce her husband, Count Stanislas de la Roche Foucault, in order to marry him.

Mlle. Cocea today said Point came aboard her yacht at Agay yesterday and after a scene of jealousy jumped into a dingy, pulled a few strokes, and then, standing up, shot himself in the mouth. His body fell into the water. It was recovered later.

Mlle. Cocea, who spent all last night in a vigil beside her lover's body, declared she would leave the stage and enter a convent.

NO NEW TREATIES NEEDED TO END WAR—STIMSON

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, Aug. 9 (Tuesday).—The Japanese foreign office today expressed indignation at Secretary of State Stimson's statement in New York yesterday before the council on foreign relations inferring that Japan was the aggressor in the hostilities with the Chinese. The foreign office spokesman hinted that Japan might protest.

New York, Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Consultation among signatory nations to mobilize "moral approval" of acts of aggression is implicit in the Briand-Kellogg treaty outlawing war, Henry L. Stimson, secretary of state, declared tonight in an address before the council on foreign relations.

The speech, the first public declaration by the secretary of state on important aspects of foreign policy in more than a year and a half, was regarded as significant, not only because it declared American adherence to the principle of consultation but also because it was delivered when the assembly of the league of nations is preparing to wrestle once more with the knotty problem of peace in the far east.

Denies Need of New Pact.

Since the four year old pact of Paris which was signed by sixty-four separate nations became operative, European nations have held that it should be supplemented by a consultative pact. To this demand the American government has officially remained aloof.

Mr. Stimson took the position tonight that a definite compact providing for consultation was unnecessary because the principle involved had already been recognized by this government as inherent in the treaty which depends upon world public opinion as a sanction. As an example, the secretary of state referred to the American protest to Japan against hostilities in China. Such a protest would have had far less weight, he pointed out, had it not been supported by "the entire group of civilized nations."

Discussion Is Understood.

"Any effective invocation of the power of world opinion," Mr. Stimson asserted, postulates discussion and consultation. As long as the signatories of the pact support the policy which the American government has endeavored to establish during the last three years, of arousing a united and living spirit of public opinion as a sanction of the pact. Consultations will take place as an incident to the unification of that opinion."

Continuing, Mr. Stimson said:

"That the pact thus necessarily carries with it the implication of consultation has perhaps not been fully appreciated by its well wishers who have been so anxious that it be implemented by a formal provision for consultation. But with the clarification which has been given to its significance by the developments of the last three years, and the vitality with which it has been imbued by the positive construction put upon it, the misgivings of these well wishers should be put at rest.

Both Parties Indorse It.

"That the American people subscribe to this view is made clear by the fact that each of the platforms recently adopted by the two great party conventions in Chicago contains planks indorsing the principle of consultation."

"The change of attitude on the part of world public opinion toward former customs and doctrines, which is evidenced by these two treaties," he said, "is so revolutionary that it is not surprising that the progress has outstripped many observers. The treaties signalize a revolution in human thought. They are the growth of necessity, the product of a consciousness that unless some such step were taken modern civilization would be doomed.

"Under its present organization the world simply could not go on recognizing war, with its constantly growing destructiveness, as one of the normal instrumentalities of human life.

Can't Fool World.

"As it stands, the only limitation to the broad covenant against war is the right of self-defense. This right is so inherent and universal that it was deemed unnecessary even to insert it expressly in the treaty. It exists in the case of the individual under domestic law, as well as in the case of the nation and its citizens under the law of nations. Its limits have been clearly defined by countless precedents.

"A nation which sought to mask imperialistic policy under the guise of the defense of its nationals would soon be unmasked. It could not long hope to confuse or mislead public opinion on a subject so well understood or in a world in which facts can be so easily ascertained and appraised as they can be under the journalistic conditions of today."

Their total loot was about $200. Four police squads searched the district for the bandits. The drug store invaded by the bandits was that of Sidney Weinstein at 924 North Cicero avenue. They forced Weinstein and several customers into a back room and escaped with $60.

C. work in high schools here will be relieved of their assignments and from further active duty on Aug. 15. A war department order to this effect was made public yesterday by school officials.

HOLD CHICAGOAN AND 4 NEGROES ACCUSED BY GIRL

Benjamin Barras, 24 years old, 5424 Harper avenue, and four Negroes, two of them women, were being held by Wabash avenue police last night on charges of contributing to the delinquency of a 17 year old Milwaukee school girl. Another Negro woman is being sought. They are to appear in Morals court this morning.

Police said Barras is a partner of his father in the Economy Glass company at 4620 Cottage Grove avenue.

The girl, whose name was withheld because of her youth, charged that young Barras took her to a flat and kept her there after her flight to Chicago following a quarrel with her parents.

Later, she said, a Negro, Carl Lester, held her a prisoner at 224 East 43d street and at other disorderly houses. The others under arrest are Hattie Boyd and Hattie Jones, 4858 Vincennes avenue, Negresses, and Collins Fox, Negro, 4521 Calumet avenue.

BOOK DR. O'BRIEN AS WIFE SLAYER DESPITE JURORS

Fail to Name Physician in Coroner's Verdict.

Dr. William A. O'Brien, 41 years old, pathologist and radiologist, will be arraigned in the Felony court today on a charge of slaying his wife, Vera, 26 years old. A coroner's jury yesterday decided that Mrs. O'Brien died of an overdose of amytal, a barbituric acid sleeping powder, but was unable to decide from the evidence who administered the powder.

Despite the verdict, Capt. Joseph Goldberg took Dr. O'Brien to the North Damen avenue police station, where he was booked for murder. A writ of habeas corpus pending before Judge James J. Kelly in the Criminal court was dismissed. Dr. O'Brien's attorney will attempt to have him admitted to bail today.

Refuses to Testify.

Dr. O'Brien refused to testify at the inquest under advice of counsel. The physician has been subjected to intermittent questioning ever since his arrest last Wednesday. He has steadfastly insisted that his wife committed suicide or died accidentally from an overdose of the sleeping powder.

Four supposed "suicide notes" were found beside Mrs. O'Brien's body when police arrived at the home at 4043 Melrose street last Monday morning, Capt. Goldberg testified. Only one note had hitherto been made public. None of the 4 had been written by Mrs. O'Brien, according to the testimony of J. Fordyce Wood, handwriting expert. All bore indications that they had been written by Dr. O'Brien, he declared.

One note was incomplete. The second had the same beginning as the first and had been finished. It read: "Dear mother and dad: As I see it now, it is the only way. The world is better off without me. My insurance policy is made out in your favor. Please help Bill pay my funeral expenses. I love every one, but no one loves me. I am better off dead. Loads of love to every one. Vera."

The third note was to her husband and read: "Dear Bill: Please forgive me. I am taking my own life so you may be happy. Take care of Wanda, poor dear. Forget me real soon. Love, Vera. P. S.: I love no one but you."

The fourth note, the contents of which police had revealed immediately after the killing, was also addressed to the husband.

Believes Him Guilty.

"Dr. O'Brien has changed his stories so many times in details as to his actions between 6 p. m. and midnight the morning before his wife was found dead that I believe he is guilty of killing her," said Capt. Goldberg when he booked the physician.

There was much discussion at the inquest regarding the sleeping drug which was named as the cause of death. Dr. Alex S. Hershfield testified that an overdose of amytal would cause death within 12 hours. Dr. Clarence Muehlberger, coroner's physician, said he had found 17 grains of the drug in the stomach, kidneys and liver of the dead woman. He said he believed the entire contents of an empty amytal box, containing 41½ grains of the drug, had been given to Mrs. O'Brien and that the rest of the drug was scattered throughout her system in the blood stream.

Not a Dangerous Sedative.

Other medical authorities yesterday said that the sleeping powder was not known as a dangerous sedative and that large quantities of it might be taken without causing death. The physical condition of a person taking the drug would have much to do with a possibly fatal result, they said.

On three occasions within the last month Dr. O'Brien threatened to kill his wife, Mrs. Wanda Conklin, 4037 Melrose street, Mrs. O'Brien's sister, told the coroner's jury. She testified that Dr. O'Brien had beaten and struck his wife on the three occasions.

On cross-examination, however, Mrs. Conklin admitted that her sister had threatened to commit suicide "several times."

FUGITIVE CLERK RETURNS, ADMITS THEFT OF $4,800

Harold Sievert, 31 years old, 2444 South Spaulding avenue, surrendered yesterday and admitted embezzling $4,800 of the funds of Greenebaum Sons Investment corporation, 9 South La Salle street, where he formerly was a clerk.

Sievert's arrears were discovered July 2 and he fled the city. He visited St. Louis and Kansas City, he said, but returned on the plea of his wife and walked into the company offices yesterday. He then surrendered to police. He told the company's auditor, Edward L. Pokorny that he had stored $4,000 worth of the bonds in a vault.

On his way to the bureau he told Sergt. Rocco Filetti that "the nigh clubs got me. I spent all my money in them." Sievert is the father of a two year old daughter.

Depression Perils Monticello As Nation's Patriotic Shrine

New York, Aug. 8.—[Special.]—A nation-wide call for help in saving Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson, at Charlottesville, Va., is forced upon the board of governors of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial foundation, by the present economic depression, it was announced today by Stuart G. Gibboney, president of the foundation, in New York City.

"When the depression set in," explained Mr. Gibboney, "we decided to make no further public appeal for funds for Monticello while these conditions lasted. However, the depression has continued so long that we now face the problem of raising the money to make mortgage payments and to meet debts of the foundation. Just when we are so close to the final goal, and only a comparatively small sum is needed to complete the work which has been carried on so successfully for almost 9 years, the whole achievement is now in jeopardy and may be lost entirely if the public does not come to the rescue of Monticello immediately."

Legal Title to Monticello.

The Thomas Jefferson Memorial foundation was organized on Jefferson's birthday, April 13, 1923. It acquired legal title to Monticello, the home of Jefferson, on Dec. 1, 1923, on which date Jefferson's estate, situated on the mountain top overlooking Charlottesville, Va., was opened to the public as a patriotic shrine. The property acquired by the foundation included 650 acres of land together with the magnificent mansion, outbuildings and many important relics of Jefferson, including what is left of the one horse gig or carriage in which he rode from Monticello to Philadelphia in 1776 to attend the continental congress for which he drew the Declaration of Independence.

The price, conditions on which the property was purchased by the foundation unanimously were approved by the board of governors of the foundation by written ballots signed by such outstanding citizens as the late Dr. Edwin A. Alderman, who was then the president of the University of Virginia, founded by Thomas Jefferson.

Gift of Original Relics.

The purchase price was $500,000, of which only $100,000 remains unpaid. A sum of $324,883 has been spent for the maintenance of the property as a patriotic shrine, for essential repairs and improvements, and also for insurance, interest and other charges. Many gifts of original relics, furniture, furnishings and belongings that were once the property of Jefferson and his family have been received at Monticello. These donations have been valued by the foundation at over $100,000, making the total value of what the Thomas Jefferson Memorial foundation has accomplished thus far over $800,000.

But they still need $127,000 more before the property will be clear of debt and the foundation free to carry on its work of preserving and maintaining Monticello as a patriotic and educational shrine for the children of America.

Children Give Pennies.

"Millions of school children," stated Dr. George J. Ryan, "have given their pennies to establish Monticello as a national patriotic shrine. The children of far away Hawaii joined with the children of New York, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Virginia, and other states and cities in making their sacrifice in behalf of this great shrine. Surely the nation will not permit this great work to fail at this time, especially in view of the fact that we can proudly point to so much that has already been achieved, and to the fact that comparatively only a very small sum is needed to reach the final goal."

In the appeal issued by Stuart G. Gibboney, as president on behalf of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial foundation, patriotic citizens are asked to contribute any sum they please, no matter how small it may be, by sending it to the National Headquarters of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation at 70 Pine street, New York City.

BUSTER KEATON'S WIFE WINS DIVORCE AND CUSTODY OF TWO SONS

Los Angeles, Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Mrs. Natalie Talmadge Keaton was granted a divorce from Buster Keaton today by Judge Joseph Sproul. A property settlement has been made out of court, as was an agreement that Mrs. Talmadge should have custody of the couple's two sons.

Corroborated by her sister, Constance Talmadge Netcher, former film star, Mrs. Keaton charged her husband neglected her and caused mental suffering by his impulsiveness. She testified that on April 4 he had attempted to fly to Mexico with their sons, despite her objection. Keaton stayed away from home two or three nights a week, and refused to offer an explanation, she testified.

Mrs. Netcher testified to the film comedian's irregular habits and that Mrs. Keaton had often asked her to come and stay with her when Keaton was on an unexplained absence.

MUSSOLINI AT SEA TO WATCH FLEET AT WAR GAMES

Ships Seek to "Destroy" Convoy from Africa.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Aug. 8.—The Mediterranean waters and the air between Tripoli and Taranto tonight were being thrashed with the propellers of 130 Italian warships and 200 Italian bombing and pursuit airplanes. These war machines are divided into two groups, which are taking up positions for three days of mimic naval warfare.

Premier Mussolini, accompanied by Giuseppe Sirianni, minister of the navy, aboard his private yacht, Aurora, is somewhere at sea steaming toward the scene of operations to witness the prowess of his fleet.

It is expected that the games will demonstrate the powerful position Italy has assumed in the Mediterranean and make the smaller fry Mediterranean powers, such as Egypt, Syria, Turkey, Greece, Rumania, Bulgaria, Albania, and Jugo-Slavia, sit up and take notice.

France Eyes Maneuvers.

The French are also watching the games closely. The theme of the maneuvers apparently has driven the French to the conclusion that they are aimed pretty close to home. The maneuvers pretend to show the possibility of fast cruisers and destroyers cooperating with airplanes in destroying convoys going from the African mainland to the coast of Italy. If one substitutes Tunis and Marseilles for Tripoli and Taranto, one gets the French slant at Italy's maneuvers.

In the present maneuvers, one section of the fleet, consisting of the fastest and most modern cruisers and destroyers and supported by airplanes, represents Italy. It is concentrating tonight around Taranto and the east coast of Sicily.

The other section represents the enemy and is made up of some fast ships, but mostly of older battle cruisers which Italy got from Austria and whose speed is low but whose gun range is greater.

Enemy Protects Convoy.

The enemy is concentrated off the coast of Tripoli. Its objective is to protect an imaginary convoy of mercantile or troop ships which is seeking to dash across from Tripoli to Taranto, about 36 hours' steaming. The first section of the fleet will seek to destroy this convoy.

The Italians were irritated tonight at reports from Paris representing this experiment as really postulating an Italian attack on French convoys of troops from Algiers and testing the feasibility with fast cruisers and planes of obstructing French mobilization of her colonial troops in time of war.

Sentiment here was also exacerbated by recent comment by British naval critics that the Fascists are secretly building ships without announcing them in parliament.

High School Boy Kills Chum at Target Practice

Clifford Jensen, 17 year old Tilden High school boy, was killed accidentally yesterday by his chum, Arnold Gabel, also 17, while they were shooting at a target in the basement of Gabel's home, 2423 West 43dd street. A rifle bullet fired by Gabel glanced from the target and struck Jensen, who stood near by. The dead boy's father, Herman Jensen, 1157 E. 54th street, is manager of the Logan theater, 2643 Milwaukee avenue.

REVEAL SEIPEL DIED POOR MAN; HAD ONLY BOOKS

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, Aug. 8.—Msgr. Ignaz Seipel, thrice chancellor of Austria and her greatest post-war statesman, for whose funeral last Friday a quarter of a million fellow citizens lined the streets of Vienna, left property consisting of a library of religious, economic and political volumes, a gold watch, a few bank notes which remained of his last month's stipend, and that is all.

His whole will, written in his own hand on one sheet of note paper, bequeathes the library to the Congregation of the Sacred Heart, of which Msgr. Seipel served as pastor. The simple furniture of his workroom and his summer quarters in the outskirts of Vienna belonged to the congregation.

ILEANA AWAITS STORK; 2 QUEENS ARE AT HER SIDE

MOEDLING, Austria, Aug. 8.—(AP)—This Viennese suburb was excited tonight by the expectation of a birth in the villa occupied by Archduke Anton and his wife, Princess Ileana of Rumania.

In the same house was the dowager Queen Marie of Rumania, mother of Ileana, while the villa next door was occupied by Queen Marie of Jugo-Slavia, Ileana's sister.

The villa in which the Hapsburg newcomer was expected hourly is owned by a Lieut. Col. Zwilling, whose name in German means twins.

HEAD OF CANADA BATTLES BRITISH SINGLE HANDED

Struggle for Domination in Empire Trade.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 8.—"This is the critical day in the British imperial conference," said one of the leading delegates to THE TRIBUNE this morning.

"This is the beginning of the critical week in the imperial conference," said another leading delegate.

Pay your money and you take your choice. It is the most critical day, week or month or year in the history of the British empire—that is, if the conference is extended. All pretense now has been abandoned that the economic negotiations are anything but a struggle between Canada and Britain for domination.

PREMIER BENNETT.

The British Team.

On the one side are Stanley Baldwin, a calm and phlegmatic British statesman, with J. H. Thomas, British minister for dominions, labor leader, economist and supreme negotiator, as his chief aid; Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, and expert in finance; Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, and one of Britain's greatest ship owners, and Lord Hailsham, minister of war and one of Britain's greatest lawyers.

On the other side is R. B. Bennett, Canada's prime minister, and no one else.

It is fair to say that since the conference began no Canadian delegate has been heard from but Mr. Bennett. Like Premier Mussolini of Italy, Bennett keeps all the strings in his own hands. He is fighting for his political life. He has gone as far as he can in his offer of tariff preferences in the Canadian market to Britain and, by so doing, has antagonized large sections of the Canadian industrialists.

Asks Duty on Foreign Wheat.

The Canadian premier is now pleading with Britain to grant a duty on foreign wheat and the exclusion from the British market of Russian lumber in order to clinch the vote of the farmers and lumbermen to whom he must look for continued support.

The British reply to Canada's offer was handed to the Canadians this afternoon and they are now studying it. Its terms are being kept secret, but there is no attempt to conceal the fact that it is a cold refusal of Bennett's proposals and a merciless exposure of the futility, from the British point of view, of his figures.

It is reported that it also makes some counter suggestions of advantages that Bennett might offer and which the British would consider useful.

At the same time the British informed all the delegations that when the preference which the dominions enjoy in Britain under her 10 per cent revenue tariff expires on Nov. 15, it will be renewed only to those dominions which have proffered the mother country something really worth while.

Struggle Over Currency.

While Canada and Britain have been engaged in this bitter conflict on preference the committee on currency and monetary questions has been struggling to produce some order in the chaotic currency situation within the empire. The committee speedily discovered that the schemes for an empire pound and an empire central bank were futile. The committe now is concentrating on finding a plan by which the values of the various empire currency units might be assimilated with each other.

This would mean raising the valuation of the Australian and New Zealand pound to something near par with sterling and keeping it there, and devaluing the South African pound and the Canadian dollar to meet the other currencies.

Irish Delegate Departs.

The first breakaway from the conference came today when Dr. James Ryan, minister of agriculture for the Irish Free State, and two of his experts left for home. It was at first reported that President Eamon De Valera had recalled the entire Irish delegation and that it had refused to go. This was strenuously denied by Vice President Sean T. O'Kelly, who told THE TRIBUNE that Dr. Ryan had been anxious to return to his ministry for some time.

Vice President O'Kelly and Sean Lemass, minister of industry and commerce, the other two Irish delegates, will remain until the end of the conference.

FIREMAN DIES OF INFECTION.

Louis Schultz, 50 years old, a city fireman, died yesterday in the Evangelical hospital of an infection suffered several weeks ago when he was repairing a washing machine in the basement of his home at 8440 Justine street.

HAY FEVER and ASTHMA
CAUSE DISCOVERED

Those who suffer from hay fever or bronchial asthma will be gratified to learn that at last science has succeeded in discovering the basic cause of these two maladies.

Fortunately for all who suffer from these diseases, a way has also been found to overcome this basic cause in the individual instead of merely treating the surface symptoms, as has been done in the past.

Because of this discovery, thousands of people have been freed of their asthma and hay fever.

Full information and an important booklet on the discovery of the cause of hay fever and bronchial asthma will be sent free to readers of this publication. Simply write to L. P. Highley, Mgr. Dept. 8116, 26 S. Meridian St., Indianapolis, Ind.

PASTOR'S POEMS FEATURE QUIZ IN DEATH OF WIFE

Burning Verse Alleged Written to Another.

Muskogee, Okla., Aug. 8.—(AP)—A clergyman's love story, part of it told in burning verse, was unfolded today to a grand jury investigating the death of his first wife.

The Rev. S. A. Berrie, 52, remained in jail "for investigation" while the jury, peering into events surrounding the death of his first wife last March, heard terse testimony from his bride of less than three months, Ide Bess Berrie, former Sunday school teacher in his church.

Twenty minutes after the 19 year old bride had entered the grand jury room she departed, calm and dry-eyed. Only last night she was released from custody on orders of County Attorney Phil K. Oldham, who said he felt she was a "victim of circumstances."

Amorous Poems Shown.

Amorous poems, said by officers to have been penned by the preacher wh Berrie's former wife was living, were taken before the jury, along with medical testimony concerning the alleged poison death. The notes, authorities declared, were found in a bookcase at the home of Berrie and his bride.

Both have vigorously denied any guilty knowledge of the first Mrs. Berrie's death, although investigators said they admitted the authenticity of the missives, one of which ended:

"I do not care what the world may say,
If your love for me is true,
I do not mind the toils of the day,
If I know at the end I'll see you.
Will you wait these days to welcome me
As I come to you at rest?
And whisper low, 'Dear heart I know
That I love, I love you best'."

Berrie also was quoted by Oldham as saying his former wife had hinted at suicide and that she had shown indications of jealousy.

Autopsy Reveals Poison.

She collapsed at a church lecture March 21, dying the same evening. Officers said she had swallowed a capsule, presumably containing a sedative, prior to the lecture. Last week the body was exhumed and, officers said, was found to contain poison "sufficient to kill."

Berrie and his present wife were married May 17.

Mother Is Killed

Lady, a Boston bulldog pet of performers in the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus, died yesterday after having been run over by a truck as the show was leaving Freeport Friday night. She left six hungry puppies which were immediately adopted by some of the women performers, who procured nursing bottles and warm milk and reported last night that the little dogs had taken to the new form of feeding satisfactorily.

RYAN'S SON LETS MANY DEBT SUITS GO BY DEFAULT

New York, Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Filing of another judgment today against John Barry Ryan revealed that, since April, 1931, the poet son of the late Thomas Fortune Ryan has let no less than twelve collection suits for sums aggregating hundreds of thousands of dollars go against him by default, whereupon the judgments have been paid out of the trust fund left him by his father.

The judgment filed today, thirteenth in line, was for $7,371.90 for purchases from Cartier, Inc., 5th avenue jewelers, April 6, 1931. The claim had been assigned to Marel Works, Inc.

Included among the purchases were listed two gold and lacquer lipsticks at $95 each and four silver and lacquer lipsticks at $42 each, backgammon sets ranging from $40 to $250, and a large assortment of religious jewelry and medals.

Among large judgments so far obtained—and being collected from income on his trust funds—it was learned today were: Tiffany's, $75,000; Charles Scribner's Sons, $61,461.08; printing house of William Edward Rudge, $5,050; Francis V. Hurley, $25,584.

Policeman Child Accused of Rape Held Innocent

Lincoln Park Policeman William J. Gruber, 38 years old and the father of ten children, was discharged by Municipal Judge John Sbarbaro yesterday on a charge of rape made by a 14 year old girl. "I am satisfied this is not the kind of case to go to the grand jury," said the court. "Even the girl's mother is reported to have declared she is not truthful." In a social service report handed the judge the girl was described as "having a bad reputation."

DEFENSE OPENS IN MURDER TRIAL OF BRITISH FLYER

Aviatrix Describes Her Loves and Losses.

Miami, Fla., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—The state late this afternoon rested its case against Capt. W. N. Lancaster, British aviator charged with the murder of 26 year old Haden Clarke, an author and his rival for the affections of Mrs. Jessie Keith-Miller, noted aviatrix.

Stormy verbal passages between State's Attorney Vernon Hawthorne and Mrs. Keith-Miller, who was recalled to the stand as a state witness after having testified for the defense, marked the day's session.

MRS. J. M. KEITH-MILLER.

Under questioning the diminutive woman flyer, appearing tired and worn, repeated and elaborated the strange story of her affection for the two men and of the love nest in which they had lived on terms of apparent amity until Clarke was shot to death last May in the room he shared with the Briton who is accused as his slayer. The defense contends that Clarke committed suicide.

Loves Disillusion Her.

In part of her testimony Mrs. Keith-Miller painted herself as a woman who had loved much and had been thoroughly disillusioned.

"I no longer love even the memory of Haden," she said. "As for Capt. Lancaster, I have not loved him for two years. I am terribly fond of him and we are the best of friends—that is all."

Prosecutor Hawthorne asked the difference in her relations to the two men. She replied:

"Bill and I were pals. We had been adventuring together for years. With Haden I experienced a wild physical thrill."

At one point she declared she would "still die for Bill."

"Weren't you a traitor to him?" cried the prosecutor. "If you weren't how could you have written letters to him telling of your love while he was on a western trip trying to raise money for you? You say you didn't love him, but you sent those letters?"

Accuses Prosecutor.

"You couldn't understand our situation," was the retort.

Mrs. Keith-Miller then accused Mr. Hawthorne of breaking confidence with her. She said she had laid bare her story to him and that he had remarked to her: "I have looked into Lancaster's soul and have seen an honorable man, incapable of shooting Haden Clarke."

She then went on to tell how she had learned since Clarke's death that he had lied to her about many things and had even upbraided her for wrecking his health in dissipation. She denied that she was responsible for his physical troubles.

She admitted that a woman of bad character had come frequently to the home she occupied with the two men and that she knew at the time Clarke was living a life of debauchery.

As Mrs. Keith-Miller left the stand she wept and fainted.

During the afternoon a defense motion to dismiss the case on the ground that nothing had been produced to show Clarke was not a suicide. Judge H. F. Atkinson overruled this motion.

Capt. Lancaster took the witness chair and told his life history. He said that he was a commissioned officer in the Royal Air Force in 1916, and had served in the war. He first met Mrs. Keith-Miller in London in 1927, he said. Then he continued:

"I told her of my plans for a flight from London to Australia. She was an Australian and she suggested accompanying me and putting up half the money for expenses. Relations were friendly but businesslike between us until we reached Singapore. There we became a little more friendly. We were wrecked on a small East Indian island, but when we finally reached Australia we were well received and made money.

"We sent a third of this money to my wife in England, I kept another third, and the rest went to Mrs. Keith-Miller."

He then told how they came to the United States and made a motion picture in Hollywood. They planned a flight from New York to Europe but it failed. In 1929, he said, he paid for flying lessons for Mrs. Keith-Miller.

"We came to Miami by invitation," he declared. "Clarke was to write a biography of Mrs. Keith-Miller and the three of us took a lease on a house, scene of the tragedy. Mrs. Keith-Miller paid the first $100 rent and I paid the next $50."

SIX SUBURBAN CHIEFS PLAN UNIFORM CODE FOR MOTOR TRAFFIC

Six suburban chiefs of police, meeting yesterday afternoon at the Oak Park police station, formulated a set of recommendations for the better handling of automobile traffic. These will be presented later to the Police Chiefs' association.

They urged a uniform system of road signs and, wherever possible, uniform speed regulations in all villages and towns. It was also suggested that bonds exacted for the same offense be made the same in all jurisdictions. The chiefs also felt that the mayors and police of each village should get together and adopt fair policies that would keep traffic moving as speedily as possible with safety.

As for the speed traps operated in various parts of the city, the chiefs asked that committees be appointed to investigate charges of officiousness and dishonesty against arresting officers. In discussing the fixing of tickets given motorists, the chiefs felt that no hard, fast rule could be enforced. They indicated outside the meeting that they would continue to fix, but only for their friends, not for friends' friends.

Present at the meeting were Chiefs Benjamin Barsema of Oak Park, William O. Freeman of Evanston, John Shupryt of Calumet City, Arthur Leeseberg of Melrose Park, John Miller of Glenview, and Charles Holmes of Niles Center.

GETS FIVE YEARS FOR DEFRAUDING 2 U. S. WOMEN

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 8.—After a trial of only a few hours, Robert Arthur Cooper was sentenced to five years' imprisonment at St. Albans today for obtaining money under false pretenses from Mrs. Elizabeth Walsh of New York, and Mrs. Annie Walton, a widow, of Lyndhurst, N. J.

The police disclosed that Cooper, who had won the friendship of the two women in Winchester cathedral and the love of Mrs. Fisher's daughter, Kathleen, and had spent over 25 years in jail since 1903.

INDICTMENT OF MRS. POLLAK TO BE ASKED TODAY

Search for Hidden Wealth Moves to Loop Banks.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Neither safety deposit boxes nor bank records yielded any further clews yesterday to the cache in which police suspect is hidden the wealth of the slain Joseph Pollak, money lender and alcohol merchant. A canvas of south side side institutions was made yesterday by Sergts. Arnold Bloom and Jack Whedon without result. The search was hampered by the fact that Pollak, shot by his wife, Dorothy, two weeks ago in their home at 1936 Garfield boulevard, used numerous aliases. Loop banks will be checked today.

MRS. POLLAK.

Despite the failure to obtain any definite proof that Pollak possessed large sums, which might have led to animosity between his wife and himself, Prosecutors Frank Mast and Harry Gabel announced that they would no longer delay presenting the evidence to the grand jury.

Ask Indictments Today.

Witnesses will be heard this morning and true bills asked for Mrs. Pollak, who has been in the county jail since the shooting, and for her cousin, Mrs. Victoria Schultz.

While the indictment of Mrs. Schultz, an eyewitness of the tragedy, will be asked as accessory before and after the murder, the status of Simon Mysza, the widow's father, remained problematical. Under the Illinois statute, no immediate relative of a defendant can be charged with being an accessory after the fact of such a crime. Mast therefore announced yesterday that the law on the matter will be read to the grand jury and the conflicting facts as to his testimony submitted. It was said he probably would be held as a witness, but not named in an indictment.

Father Remains in Jail.

Mysza remained in the county jail yesterday, although his daughter's attorney, W. W. O'Brien, had indicated that he would seek a writ of habeas corpus for him. Witnesses had reported to the prosecutors that Mysza accused Mrs. Pollak in Polish of having killed her husband in cold blood, but he could not be induced to admit he made such an accusation.

Whether he was in the Pollak apartment at the time of the shooting remains a puzzle to the assistant state's attorneys. The day following the death of his middle aged son-in-law he was quizzed in Polish by Assistant State's Attorney Michael Ostrowski, assigned to the coroner's office. Ostrowski asserts Mysza said he was present and saw the shooting. At the coroner's inquest on Thursday he denied ever making such a statement or that he was in the flat at all within an hour of the shooting.

HOME LOOTED OF RUGS.

Harold Wishnick, a dress manufacturer reported yesterday to police that his home at 6324 Kenmore avenue had been looted of rugs and clothing valued at $3,250 during the week-end.

GLENN DEDICATES FLAGPOLE ATOP TRIBUNE TOWER

A new flag was unfurled to the breeze atop Tribune Tower, 546 feet above Michigan avenue, in sunny weather yesterday, through which the Michigan shore could be vaguely discerned.

After a dedication address by United States Senator Otis F. Glenn the 20 by 30 foot flag was raised to the top of the new 90 foot pole by Col. W. H. Burt, chief of staff of the 6th corps area. Sergt. H. M. Marsh of the 3d field artillery blew "To the Colors" and Lieut. G. S. Smith, aid de camp to Gen. Frank J. Parker, commander of the corps area, stood at attention while the flag ascended.

W-G-N Orchestra Plays.

Military marches played by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Delos Owen, before and after the dedication and flag raising at 12:30 p. m., were broadcast over station W-G-N and from ten loud speakers around the tower to the street level below.

The ceremony was held on the 35th floor of the tower, where the platform of the new flag pole is located. This point is 458 feet above Michigan avenue. The flag pole, as explained by Quin Ryan, chief announcer of station W-G-N, rises 90 feet above this point and extends down 20 feet into the building. It is of tubular steel, 22 inches in diameter at the bottom and 4 inches at the top.

Site of Fort Dearborn.

"History has been made where this flag shall henceforth fly," said Senator Glenn. "The first founders of Chicago settled on the land where the Tribune Tower now stands. Fort Dearborn was here—almost within a stone's throw Abraham Lincoln was nominated for the presidency. Here from a swamp has grown a great, strenuous, vital city, teeming with four million vigorous, progressive Americans.

"This flag is raised in the hope that it will continue to be an inspiration for those things which it typifies. Love of country, religious freedom, freedom of assembly, freedom of the press, freedom of speech, the right to labor and to hold against confiscation the fruits of such labor, protection against unjust, confiscatory and discriminatory legislation; tolerance, humanity, and, above all, for liberty in its broadest and most comprehensive meaning.

A Vigorous Institution.

"It is appropriate that this flag is being raised by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, a pioneer institution in this region and far reaching in the scope of its influence, that has stood vigorously, unswervingly, courageously, through all its years and under all its publishers, for this flag and the Americanism and the America which it represents."

Col. Burt told how flags and similar emblems, since the beginning of history, have symbolized loyalty to a cause. He described briefly the awe inspiring standards of the ancient Egyptians, the flag of the Persians, with the sun as the representation of their divinity, the representation of the crescent moon that once saved Constantinople on the flag of the Turks, and the cross, standard of the Christians.

"As this flag rises here today it is symbolic of the rededication of this great newspaper to the principles of sturdy Americanism that have characterized it throughout its many years of splendid public service," said Col. Burt.

Survivor Tells of Chicago Man's Death in Jungle Trip

New York, Aug. 8.—[Special.]—The survivor of a search for gold in the jungles of Ecuador, Harold Foard, twenty-nine-year-old chemist of Bramwell, W. Va., arrived in Brooklyn today on the Grace line Santa Clara with a story of the death from starvation of his companion, Thomas Walsh Jr. of Chicago.

The two young men were employed by the Cerro de Pasco mill at Oroya, Peru, but they were laid off when the force was reduced in October, 1931. For some time they had believed there was gold in the Paute section of Ecuador, and when they lost their jobs they started up the Huallage river in a canoe.

Their maps were inaccurate, and after many days travel toward Monzon, the small settlement in the jungle from which they intended to operate, their canoe was smashed. They went on with only such equipment as they could pack on their backs. Walsh weakened rapidly and on July 29, after they had gone seven days without food, Foard shot a bird, gave it to his friend and went back into the jungle to hunt further.

Finds Friend Dying.

"When I returned Walsh was lying on the ground," Foard said. "At first I thought he was sleeping. Then, when he failed to answer my call, I realized that he was very ill. He died in a few minutes. I scraped a shallow grave and in it I buried my friend.

"Then I set out in the hope of finding Monzon. I was down to my last cartridge, and went without food for a couple of days rather than use it. Finally I decided to try to bring down a bird. I shot and missed, and a couple of hours afterward a big, fat deer stopped within eight feet of me.

Disaster Turned to Rescue.

"The irony of that drove me out of my head, I guess, for I don't remember a thing until I woke up in a native hunter's hut. This hunter had been stalking the deer that I saw, and he found me. He took me to his hut and nursed me until I got back my strength."

Before Walsh died he wrote a letter, which Foard brought out of the jungle and mailed from Ecuador to his friend's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Walsh. They received it several months ago, and today they met Foard at the pier. The letter asked them to adopt Foard and to assist him in marrying "Clarissa."

"I presume that he wrote the letter while he was delirious," Foard said. "I can't very well be adopted because I have parents of my own. I don't know anything about this Clarissa business. It was just delirium in poor Tom's case, I guess."

ROOSEVELT ROAD JOB IS RESUMED AFTER 2 WEEKS

Contractor's Aid Blames Labor for Tieup.

BY HAL FOUST.

Work was resumed yesterday, following two weeks' suspension, on the construction of a grade separation in Glen Ellyn at the intersection of Roosevelt road and Illinois route 53, a new north and south highway. And last night Eric Bolander, superintendent for the contractor, S. J. Groves & Sons company of Libertyville, gave his explanation for the delay that brought little attention from the state highway department, although it aroused protests from motorists forced to ride the slow and dangerous detour.

"The Du Page County Building Trades council three weeks ago refused to let my foreman fire three laborers who were not earning their wages," said Mr. Bolander. "So we shut down the entire job for a couple of weeks until the union council agreed to give us some authority over our employés."

State Makes No Inquiry.

"No," he continued, replying to a question, "the highway department hasn't made any inquiry of this office as to why we shut down. I suppose the department's engineer on the job reported that there was labor trouble, and it has always been the policy of the state not to take any hand in a controversy between a contractor and a labor union."

S. J. Groves & Sons company turned its first shovel of dirt on this project last September. Today the simple structure, costing $70,583, is only 40 per cent complete. The contract specifies Oct. 1 of this year as the completion date. Mr. Bolander said that the improvement would be open to traffic by that time.

First Delay Explained.

"Our first contract for this job was awarded about Sept. 1, 1931, under the 'prevailing wage act' passed by the legislature," said Mr. Bolander. "After we had been excavating for a month the state Supreme court nullified the wage act and thereby nullified our contract. So we stopped work.

"In November we were awarded a new contract. Last winter we did as much excavating as possible without closing Roosevelt road. We couldn't close Roosevelt until a run around was constructed. We paved the run around, later to be used as ramps for the grade separation, as soon as weather permitted last May. On June 1 we were at work on the main job and have been continuously engaged ever since with the exception of this layoff for the labor trouble.

"We are working 64 men on the job in two six hour shifts. Until this week we used one eight hour shift."

At the state highway department offices in Springfield yesterday Chief Engineer Sheets could not be reached, but his assistant in charge in his absence, not knowing of the two weeks' shutdown nor of the resumption of work, said the department will investigate the cause of the delay. Incidentally the Springfield office had an erroneous report that 52 cubic yards of concrete had been poured on the Glen Ellyn job last week.

SUBPŒNA OWNER OF WAREHOUSE IN BLAZE FATAL TO 2

Herrmann Fails to Attend Inquest.

Joseph F. Herrmann, 8743 Cornell avenue, was subpoenaed yesterday to explain to a coroner's jury his delay in complying with city orders to remove fire hazards from his warehouse at Branch and Cherry streets on Goose island, where two firemen were killed and two others seriously injured while fighting a fire on Sunday night.

The subpoena was issued by Deputy Coroner Raymond Conerty when the warehouse owner failed to appear at the inquest which was opened at the Shakespeare avenue police station. The inquiry was continued until Aug. 19 to await the testimony of Herrmann.

Lieut. Victor Strubbe, 1425 Glenlake avenue, and Pipeman James Murphy, 2512 North Oak Park avenue, were the firemen killed. They lost their lives when a four story wall collapsed. Firemen Frank Narucki, 1132 North Winchester avenue, and Jacob Pozdal, 3327 North Karlov avenue, suffered serious chest injuries. They will recover, physicians said.

Order Fire Danger Removed.

Acting Fire Commissioner Carmody said that baled cotton had been smoldering in the warehouse ever since a fire which occurred on May 23. At that time Herrmann was ordered to remove dangerous walls and floors, and tore down the two top floors of the warehouse. On July 6 he was ordered by the city building department to complete the wrecking within three days.

On July 28 the city sent Hermann another order to complete the removal of the fire hazards, Acting Commissioner Carmody said. He said nothing had been done and as a result he had ordered that court action be started today.

Fire Attorney Makes Inquiry.

Fire Attorney Thomas J. Sheehan said he would ask the coroner's jury to recommend that warehouse officials be held to the grand jury on charges of manslaughter if it is shown that negligence brought about the blaze. According to Sheehan, records show that firemen responded to 42 calls at the warehouse between the fire on May 23 and the Sunday blaze.

Tentative arrangements for the funerals of Lieut. Strubbe and Pipeman Murphy were made yesterday. Both will be buried in All Saints cemetery on Thursday, according to present plans. Services for Lieut. Strubbe will be held at his home, while rites for Murphy are to be in the chapel at 5023 West Chicago avenue.

City officials said that an ordinance provides for the placing in trust a total of $10,000 for the three orphaned children of Murphy. Lieut. Strubbe was a bachelor.

Vatican Issues New Rules to Govern Confirmation

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

A dispatch from Rome last night informed the Catholic world of a new Vatican ruling that the sacrament of confirmation must precede first communion. Chicago priests said they regarded the edict as the inauguration of another means to restore early day practices of the church. The decree was issued yesterday by the congregation of the sacraments at Vatican City. It ruled that the sacrament of confirmation must not be conferred on children below the age of seven. In addition, it denies first communion to children until they have been confirmed.

Representative priests of the local archdiocese pointed out last night that the change was in the interest of world-wide conformity with the practice of the church in New Testament times as recorded in the Acts of the Apostles. The decree, it was said, is now practicable because of the new world-wide availability of bishops, who alone, under the Catholic canons, are authorized to impart the sacrament.

In Missionary Areas.

It was explained that the decree issued by Pope Pius X., about 25 years ago, which admitted children 6 years of age to first communion prior to confirmation was given in the primary interests of the children in missionary areas where the visitation of bishops, by necessity, was infrequent.

"The expansion of Christianity in earlier centuries ran far ahead of the apostles and their successors," a Chicago priest explained last night. "The result of this was the development of the practice of confirming and baptising children, as well as others, in almost simultaneous rites. This practice still prevails in sections of South America and in Spain. But now that bishops are available for confirmations almost everywhere in the world, it is best to return to the practice of the church's earliest tradition.

Eastern Orthodox Churches.

The general practice of confirming and baptising children simultaneously remains universal throughout the patriarchates of the Eastern Orthodox churches, in Greece, Russia, the near east and certain countries of southern Europe. The decree issued yesterday, however, permits continuance of that custom among South American and Spanish Catholics of baptising and confirming children simultaneously. At the same time, the decree urged its gradual discontinuance.

Argue Over 321 Votes in Simpson-Church Contest

Attorneys representing James Simpson Jr. and Ralph E. Church in the contest over the Republican congressional nomination in the Tenth district yesterday argued before Circuit Judge Thomas J. Lynch the validity of 321 votes cast in the Third precinct of the Seventh ward in Evanston. These ballots were initialed by Attorney Hathorn McCulloch, whose status as a precinct election official was questioned by Attorney Urban A. Lavery, representing Simpson. According to the evidence, McCulloch was an election clerk who acted as an election judge. Attorney Lavery contended the ballots initialed by McCulloch should be disqualified.

BANKER RALLIES TO RELATE HOW 4 KIDNAPED HIM

Memory Clears About His Experiences.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Four men, instead of two, kidnaped him Friday night and held him for $30,000 ransom, John B. Colegrove of Taylorville told authorities today. The 67 year old former banker is recuperating in a hospital here from the effects of lying bound in a weed patch for 24 hours a few miles north of Springfield, where his abductors threw him.

Mr. Colegrove made his first coherent statement today to Chief T. P. Sullivan of the Illinois bureau of criminal investigation. His story makes it possible for State's Attorney Harry Grundy of Christian county to charge two men held for the crime with kidnaping for ransom, a capital offense in Illinois. Mr. Grundy said he will make every effort to send them to the electric chair.

Two Suspects Under Arrest.

The two suspects, James Gammaltoni, a depositor in Colegrove's defunct bank, and Amelio Buzzoti, were arrested near their Springfield home at midnight Friday, two hours after Colegrove was kidnaped. Their clothing was bloody, blood stained the seat of Gammaltoni's automobile, and Colegrove's purse was found in Gammaltoni's room. The latter lost $6,000 in the bank crash and tried to shoot the ex-banker two years ago. Colegrove is under a one to three year prison sentence in connection with the failure.

Mr. Colegrove told Chief Sullivan today that two men assaulted him in his home, covered his head with a blanket and carried him to an auto where two other men were waiting. He was bound and pitched into the weed patch after an hour's driving and three of the men left the fourth to guard him, he said.

Demands $30,000 Ransom.

This guard demanded $30,000 ransom, Colegrove said, and threatened to torture him if it was not paid. He stayed with Colegrove from midnight Friday until noon Saturday, then left as a storm was approaching. Colegrove struggled with his bonds another twelve hours before he could release himself. He walked to Springfield, arriving there about 3:30 a. m. Sunday. At St. John's hospital it was found that he was suffering from a severe blow upon the head, inflicted by a blackjack; from partial paralysis of the right arm, caused by his bonds; and from general exhaustion. He was somewhat recovered today.

THE advertising cost of The Philadelphia Bulletin is one of the lowest in the entire history of newspaper advertising.

And this low cost buys thorough coverage of Philadelphia's great billion dollar market.

Back of this value in newspaper advertising stands an unusual record of growth: The Bulletin, in 1895, was the smallest of thirteen Philadelphia newspapers. Through a generation it has grown, steadily and carefully to an acceptance in nearly every home—with a circulation of 517,056 (July, 1932 average).

In this growth, The Bulletin has sought for accuracy, timeliness .... and reading interest all the way through the newspaper. It has tempered news with judgment; avoided sensationalism in handling news; used no premiums, prizes or circulation contests.

How well that program has met with the approval of Philadelphians .... how completely The Bulletin has filled the newspaper wants of this community .... is reflected in present-day circulation figures.

WHAT NEWSPAPER DO PHILADELPHIA BUSINESS LEADERS READ?

Business leaders in Philadelphia obviously are in the upper income brackets. The tabulation below shows how The Bulletin reaches these income groups, in the Philadelphia Urban Area.

Incomes of $5,000 to $9,999 .. 52,781
Bulletin readers 48,490
Coverage in per cent. ...91.87%

Incomes of $10,000 and over 12,448
Bulletin readers 11,755
Coverage in per cent. ...94.43%

From Philadelphia Newspaper Reader Survey, compiled by American Association of Advertising Agencies. Write for information on income groups and newspaper coverage, as revealed by this survey.

The Bulletin is by far the largest of Philadelphia newspapers—with more than two and one-half times the circulation of any other evening newspaper; with more than all morning newspapers combined.

A sound business policy of keeping advertising costs down, a policy of one rate and impartial treatment to all—plus a record of producing results—have given The Evening Bulletin more individual retail store advertisements than the total of all other Philadelphia newspapers, morning and evening, daily and Sunday, combined.

There is opportunity and economy in Philadelphia's billion dollar home market—where The Bulletin offers an advertising cost, and an advertising efficiency, which are in line with the times.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

FIELD OF IOWA.

Henry Field, the Iowa radio seed man, beat Smith Wildman Brookhart for the Republican nomination for the United States senate, as Arthur Evans has pointed out for TRIBUNE readers, by taking the flap or the doodle or both out of flapdoodle. Mr. Field will say for himself only that he is a middle aged business man with pretensions to common sense. Mr. Brookhart had many pretensions, but none of them of that quality. He had dispensed with it for himself and evidently was convinced that his constituents were done with it at least for his lifetime.

Mr. Field's success in carrying a campaign of common sense to a nomination will carry some encouragement to other states than Iowa. In it there is an escape from the conclusion that the American electorate is inevitably fascinated by the type of politician and the brand of politics designed to do it the worst injury. It does not, it seems, follow that the greatest numbers are attracted by the most preposterous proposals and that a politician need only consider what would be most damaging to his constituents to be assured of their continued support. Very likely the puncturing of folly needs only a sane man with some incisive flashes of common sense and wit.

Mr. Field said he found people were sick of the extremes of radicalism and were willing to listen to a man who told them he wanted to look at government affairs as a sensible average business man would. A majority of the Republican voters in Iowa agreed with him that bureaucracy, taxation and government interference caused by radical pumping of money into oppressive activities and enterprises had become intolerable. Mr. Brookhart's family pay roll at Washington furnished Mr. Field with an illustration close at home.

The Iowa Republicans revealed what is probably a general feeling, and good for the country if it is. The radicals have become ridiculous and the condition of the people they have deluded has become pathetic. Mr. Field had the native good sense to perceive this and the most extreme of the midwest buckaroos retires to private life.

CRIME AND RESTRAINT.

Perhaps the people of Michigan are satisfied with the law which permits them to support the rapist-murderer, Francis Nash, for the rest of his life. We doubt it. The crime was the natural product of a vicious character. The criminal has been shut up and will stay shut up, certainly if he is friendless, not so certainly if at some later time, when the memory of his crime has faded, influences operate for him. It has cost the life of an innocent young girl, atrociously ended, to accomplish this result. Is the result satisfactory? We think it is not. A vicious brute has been put under durance and society is protected from him. But there are others like him. Has his fate impressed them in any degree sufficient to restrain the impulses of such men? We doubt it.

The school of humanitarians who object to capital punishment allege that it is no deterrent of criminal violence of this kind. Their theory is that such criminals are unable to control their impulses and incapable of restraint through fear of consequences. Their theories are theories only. We know from ample evidence that with rare exceptions criminals fear death and prefer even life imprisonment to execution. The theory that criminals are all insane and irresponsible is not supported by the best scientific opinion, and it is certainly sensible public policy to resolve such scientific doubts as exist in favor of the greater security of the innocent public. That is provided by the death penalty and by that alone. The mere seclusion of dangerous brutes is inadequate as a deterrent, and neither sentimentalism nor speculative experiment should prevent society from providing for itself the maximum protection.

WINNING THE OLYMPIC GAMES.

The United States, having had two unsatisfactory if not bad experiences in the Olympic games of four and eight years ago, came back this year in the track and field to its old form. In twenty-three events the American individual athlete or team took eleven firsts. That's for men. In the five women's events the American girls took four firsts. Stella Walsh, living in the United States and running for Poland, won the hundred meters. In the men's events the other twelve firsts were broadly distributed, three to Finland, two to Great Britain, two to Ireland, and one each to Italy, Poland, Argentina, Japan and Canada.

It is the American custom to compute the results in another fashion which makes an even more impressive showing by counting points for other than first. In this fashion the United States carried the meet with 218 and its nearest competitor was Finland with 53. If it were not for the Ottawa conference the British empire might be credited with five firsts and 125 points, but try to merge Ireland, Canada and England. It would require a wheat tariff to get Canada's two firsts and a renunciation from George V. to get the Irish two. It was not without meaning that Ireland won the hammer throw and certain that Canada could have won the throwing of the monkey wrench if that event had been on the Los Angeles card.

The American scoring is calculated to take advantage of the numbers entered by the United States and the fairness of it might be questioned, but in other primitive ways we do more to sour the international athletic brotherhood. We select the sports in which we regard it as desirable to excel and wash the rest of the program out. The games are comprehensive, covering a great spread of competitive endeavor from fancy hemstitching to bloody soccer. The sports of many peoples are included, but China could sweep the field in the rice and chopsticks and the superior attitude would indicate what of it. America will dabble in fencing, weight lifting, other than its own kind of football, wrestling, saber dancing, pole climbing, gymnastics, etc., but will ignore the fact that a string of victories in freehand penmanship, Volga boat hauling, gang singing, tatting, chess, native dancing, fish spearing, tattooing, crag jumping, curling and head hunting might easily carry another nation to the front before the games are over. We select what wins the meet and tell the world. Unquestionably it is irritating to the competition.

IN TRIBUTE TO A SANDWICH MAN.

Some people can see no one but panhandlers on the streets these days and nothing but abject surrender among the unemployed. We have no wish to create the illusion that there is little suffering in the community or to take the position that the hard times are tonic in that they bring out the better traits in human nature, but for every bum begging there are scores of self-respecting men and women who have not surrendered and couldn't surrender if they wanted to.

For example: There is a sandwich man in the loop these days who is attracting the attention of the observant. He is clean and neatly dressed. If one may judge by appearances, he is well above the average in intelligence. It is altogether likely that he has a college diploma. It is just possible that this isn't his first job in the advertising business; at any rate, he belongs to the generation which flocked from the colleges to the advertising offices and found good jobs.

The business of being a sandwich man places no strain on the intellect and it requires no social grace or important family connections. The young man in the loop walks with his jaw set, and there is that in his face which suggests that he hopes none of his friends and classmates happens to come along. He is paying a staggering price for the bread he eats, but he has the satisfaction—and that, too, is evident in his face—that the bread has been earned honestly. He is not too proud to be a sandwich man, but he is too proud to be a bum.

Too much attention has been paid to the shiftless. Too little attention has been paid to the resourceful and courageous men and women who have bucked hard times and won't be licked. For every bum there are hundreds of men in Chicago who have continued to look for work day after day for a year and more and have not hesitated to take any job, however mean, at which they could earn a few dollars. You never hear of them because they mind their own business. They are not picturesque in their rags; they do not whine and beg. They are the salt of the earth.

THE BUILDING CODE.

During Chris Paschen's administration of the building commissioner's office there were frequent announcements that a new building code for Chicago was in preparation and would shortly be submitted to the city council. The new code never appeared. Subsequent revelations suggest that Mr. Paschen was well pleased with the operations of the old code or, at least, that the mere promise of a new code was sufficient for his purposes.

Chicago is in need of a new building law. Since the Chicago code was enacted shortly after the Iroquois fire great changes have taken place in construction methods and materials. These changes have been reflected in some part in amendments to the ordinance with the result that the code as it stands today is a hodgepodge of confusions and conflicts. The building department is therefore often able to approve and disapprove the same set of plans and specifications and cite the code in justification of both positions. In the hands of honest men the administration of the code presents needless difficulties; and in the hands of dishonest men the code is a gold mine. It is ready made for the purposes of shaking down the prospective builder.

A change in the code during boom times in the building industry might have worked some hardship, but today, when building is virtually at a standstill, there is no reason why the law cannot be revised by impartial experts, with a minimum of interference from special interests and politicians serving them.

Editorial of the Day

NO INGRATITUDE.

[Grand Rapids Press.]

No lack of gratitude toward the veterans who served it in time of war may be charged against the government of the United States either because it refused to cash in full their adjusted compensation certificates thirteen years in advance of their maturity or because it finally was compelled to use force to eject from the capital the army of bonus pleaders.

America, in fact, has been more generous with its ex-service men than any other nation in the world. While this country expended in the past fiscal year a total of $1,127,935,312 in pensions and other relief to veterans, foreign countries were paying only a fraction of that amount. Great Britain's allotment to its former service men this year is only $174,802,000, France's $286,722,000, Italy's $69,800,000, Canada's $61,100,000, and Germany's $298,700,000.

Under present laws, American payments will continue to expand and in the next ten years more than $11,000,000,000 will be paid out. But in other nations the peak already has been reached and the ex-service demands from now on will decrease annually. Furthermore, foreign lands limit their benefits in almost every case to those who actually suffered injury or were disabled in the war. But thousands of American veterans are entitled to pension for disability having no connection whatever with their service. Many American veterans also receive free hospitalization for ailments not war connected.

It would be incredible and ridiculous, in view of a generosity greater than that of all our major world war allies put together, to regard the United States as "ungrateful" toward the patriots who offered to serve and if necessary die for the country. No land ever felt or showed by action any finer gratitude.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

SPEED.

We knew the path that love goes down,
And so we walked behind her,
Pocketing the dreams she lost
The while we tried to find her.

We thought that we had lots of time
And so we didn't hurry.
The stars were green, the moon was gold,
The nights were soft . . . Why worry?

Pan's mended pipes played lovely songs
That echoed all around her,
But we were heart-blind to the charm,
At least, we never found her.

I must admit that we were slow
Never to have passed her—

A MESSAGE TO JAYHAWKER.

Yes'm, I was in your country once, though not on the Bar None ranch. It was years ago, but still quite vividly I recall the sand, the sage brush, the cactus and the mesquite. The sage brush that studded the plains like dried mops stuck on end in the ground; the cactus, monstrosity of gruesome vegetation; mesquite, straggling dwarf of misshapen shrubbery, and mostly the sand, sand, sand. It was in your eyes, in your teeth, in your lungs, in your brain, if you tarried long—alkaline, gritty, agglomerative.

Treeless plains, lonely mesas, mocking mountains in the unattainable distance. Arroyas, those uncanny phantom rivers of perpetual drought that lie dead and dry, except in rare times of flood . . . Sand-visaged Navajos, with the birthmark of the barren desert upon their sandblasted brows, driving sorrowful goats forth to feed upon tares . . . Too much space, too much time—engulfing infinity and eternity awaiting just over the haunting horizon. You sizzle in the sun and shiver in the shade. Did you ever observe the moon through a telescope? It's like that. Bleak, weird, unearthly.

And back in Illinois and Indiana and your native Iowa the goodly hosts of corn and wheat marching across fertile prairies. The cool, calm forests. Brave streams of running water that never flag nor fail. Mellow sunshine, revivifying rain. Hospitable horizons that beckon to fair Beyonds. Unbranded steers, contented cows, sheep instead of goats, men, women, movies, autos—life that lives. Yes'm, I have been in your country where, as a bright little girl once said, there's nothing to see but "far."

HOW ONE ADDICT WAS CURED.

A GROUP of Cornell university research men, under the leadership of W. D. Bancroft, have been investigating the effect of drugs on the albuminous portions of the cell protoplasm for some time. It is their theory that certain drugs tend to solidify this protoplasm and other drugs to liquefy it. Different diseases or symptoms result from the protoplasm becoming too firm, and others are due to its becoming too fluid. They sought to relieve those conditions caused by too great firmness of the protoplasm by remedies which tend to liquefy it, and vice versa. The terms used are not accurate, but they are close enough to it for our purposes. The terms which the investigators use for the action in this particular instance are sodium rhodonate peptizes, the protein colloids that are agglomerated by morphine.

Having done the basic scientific work, the investigators were ready to apply their theory. They gave some dogs morphine until they had become addicted to the use of the drug, after which they stopped giving them morphine and kept them comfortable with sodium rhodonate. This experiment having proved successful, they were ready for a clinical trial on a human addict.

They found an addict who was using 25 grains of morphine a day. Among some who treat the morphine habit this man had the reputation of being "a mean case." They put him in a hospital, took all his drug away from him, and made certain he could get no more. For a day, or thereabouts, they gave him the dose they said he was accustomed to taking, to check on his statements, since addicts are prone to mislead on this point.

This one appears to have told the truth. The next day the dose was cut in half. As a rule drug addicts take nearly twice as much drug as they need. The daily reduction was continued. By the ninth day the man was no longer getting any drug. As his dose was decreased day by day the dose of sodium rhodonate was increased in proportion to the need. The report is that the man did not suffer, that he went through the week with practically no discomfort, and that he did not know on what day he got his last injection—one of a fraction of a grain of morphine.

The authors give it as their opinion that the so-called drug hunger is not a hunger at all, but is a result of changes in the chemical constitution of the body cells, brought about by the drug. When the antidote is used the habit is broken without any of the feelings that go by the name drug hunger. They also think that a person cured by this method may not have the craving for the drug during the months-long period of convalescence that is so perilous for the reformed addict.

SUGGESTS HYSTERIA.

A Subscriber writes: I am going to have my first baby at the end of the month. After the first three months I began to have spells, some of which lasted half an hour and in which I became unconscious. Something seemed to choke me and I could not breathe. At times I seem to be crazy and struggle with my husband when he is trying to revive me. After these spells I drink about two glasses of water and sometimes more. What is the cause of these spells and what can I do to help myself?

REPLY.

Your description suggests hysteria. You want to be the center of attention. The description fits neither eclampsia nor epilepsy. If your physician finds your trouble to be hysteria the remedy lies in training. You must gain self-mastery in order to qualify as a mother trainer.

BADLY BALANCED DIET.

A. B. writes: 1. Will three or four pints of milk and six oranges a day keep an adult nourished and strong?

2. Will the above diet build up a very anemic person without taking iron pills also?

3. Will clabber and orange juice be harmful because of the different acids if a glass of each is taken for a lunch?

4. Which is most nourishing and which has most iron—tomatoes or oranges?

5. Why does evaporated milk, equal parts water, make me bilious when fresh milk does not, yet evaporated milk is claimed to be easier to digest?

REPLY.

1. No. It is a very badly balanced diet.
2. No. Milk is low in iron and orange juice is not very rich in it.
3. No.
4. Neither has many calories nor much iron. Tomato and orange juice are usually given for their vitamins and minerals.
5. I do not know what is biliousness.

BUTTERMILK.

J. T. writes: 1. What is the caloric content of an ordinary glass of buttermilk?

2. Does it vary?

3. Are milk and buttermilk constipating ordinarily? I find them so.

4. Is a buttermilk diet considered healthful?

REPLY.

1. Six ounces of buttermilk (about a glassful) has about 65 calories.
2. Yes. Butter, ounce for ounce, is twice as rich in calories as sugar. The amount of butter in buttermilk varies greatly according to the method of production.
3. No. Is no other cause present?
4. There is no standardized buttermilk diet, therefore the words are without meaning.

REPLY.

It probably means nothing more than that you are sweating freely or that you are not drinking enough water.

ERRONEOUS ADVICE.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—X has a one year lease on an apartment. After living there six months his wife became ill and it was necessary to send her to another climate. X went to a lawyer and asked whether his wife's illness was sufficient grounds for him to break his lease.

1. The lawyer informed him that it was and said if he vacated his apartment the landlord would not be able to collect rent on the balance of the lease. For this advice X paid the lawyer a fee. X, upon the strength of the lawyer's advice, broke his lease and moved away. Later the landlord sued him in court and recovered for the balance of the lease. X has been informed that inasmuch as he broke his lease upon the counsel of a lawyer to whom he paid a fee, the lawyer must respond in damages to X.

2. Kindly state if, in your opinion, the lawyer is liable to X for damages. T. H. M.

1. Such an answer is so conspicuously and clearly wrong that we doubt your statement that you secured such advice from a lawyer. It seems probable that he was either relying on additional facts or that you misunderstood him.

2. Yes, if you can prove the facts stated in your letter.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

UNNECESSARY DELAY.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A. issues a check to B. in payment of a bill [having sufficient funds in the bank to cover] and B. holds the check for two days, then indorses it and gives it to C., a large concern, which holds the check for seven days and then submits it to the bank for payment. The check bears only the stamp of C.'s bank, and has been held by C.'s bank for three weeks. Several other checks issued by A. at the same time have been paid without trouble. 1. Is the original maker liable on the check? That is, is A. liable to B. or C.? 2. Is B. liable to C.? 3. Or did C. incur the risk of the bank closing by keeping the check an unreasonable length of time in business procedure? 4. If C.'s bank delayed in sending the check through the clearing house, does that absolve A. of liability? B. G.

1. No.
2. In general the party who held the check past the period in which it could be collected is the loser.
3. Yes, if the loss was due to his delay.
4. See preceding answers. Sec. 185 of the negotiable instruments law is as follows: "A check must be presented for payment within a reasonable time after its issue, and notice of dishonor given to the drawer as provided for in the case of bills of exchange, or the drawer will be discharged from liability thereon to the extent of the loss caused by the delay."

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 9, 1916.

LONDON.—The Russians have won a great victory south of the Dniester, in Galicia, opening up a breach fifteen miles wide in the Austro-German lines east and southwest of Stanislau. The Russian cavalry has pushed across the Stanislau-Kolomea railway, and, according to Petrograd, is pursuing the Teutons to the southwest of that line. The Russians in their drive captured the town of Tlumach, which brings them within 18 miles of Stanislau, an important railway junction on the main line to Lember, about 70 miles southeast of the Galician capital. Berlin admits the withdrawal of the Austro-German lines on the Tlumach-Ottynia front to previously prepared positions. Ottynia, on the main line railway 15 miles southwest of Tlumach, also has been captured by the Russians.

ROME.—Italian troops have scored their greatest victory since the opening of the Austro-Italian war. Official announcement was made that the Goritz bridgehead, where the Austrians have defended themselves with the greatest stubbornness for more than a year, has been captured by Italian troops. At the same time it was announced that Monte Sabotino and Monte St. Michele, scenes of almost equally bloody fighting and strongly fortified Austrian positions, have fallen before the new Italian offensive on the Isonzo. More than 8,000 prisoners were taken on Aug. 6 when the fighting in these sectors reached its greatest ferocity.

PARIS.—Notable gains have been made by the French in the Somme battle, according to the official statement by the war office. In two days they have carried German trenches along a front of more than three and a half miles to a depth of 300 to 500 meters.

WASHINGTON.—By accepting the principal conditions imposed by Carranza, President Wilson today, following the cabinet meeting, opened the way to a pacific settlement of the Mexican dispute. By the action the United States consents to have the commission consider first of all the question of the withdrawal of American troops from Mexico. After that is disposed of, Carranza's representatives give assurance the United States can talk about anything it pleases—so long as it does not concern further encroachment or interference with Mexico's internal affairs.

CHICAGO.—Charles Evans Hughes announced his political convictions and purposes to Chicago last night at one of the biggest and most stirring meetings ever held in this city. In a busy day here he made the people know him as they never had known him before and the culmination of the visit was the Coliseum assemblage of perhaps 15,000 people. This great audience heard the Republican nominee for the presidency solemnly and with striking power absolve himself from doing politics in the partisan sense.

CHICAGO.—Exciting scenes attending a sharp rise in the price of wheat are looked for today on the board of trade as the result of one of the most pessimistic crop reports issued by the government in recent years. The report predicts that the total yield of the leading cereal crops of the country will be nearly 1,000,000,000 bushels less than last year. Sensational losses in the spring wheat crop are shown, and further shrinkage in winter wheat is indicated. The corn crop, too, is now estimated at 250,000,000 bushels less than last year.

VON PAPEN.

Mundelein, Ill., July 30.—Your editorial "Capt. von Papen in the U. S." smacks of the spirit of '17. You say: "He has proved to be an active participant . . ." etc. Was anybody, accused of pro-Germanism in the years of war-madness, not found guilty? How could it have been otherwise when bands were blaring "Over There" within earshot of every jury; when every jury was exhorted to find a verdict of guilty for patriotic reasons? There were no impartial panels, thanks to the primary selection of its members which made their examination in court meaningless. Though the United States Supreme court must have been aware of the impossibility for the accused to obtain a fair trial, writs of certiorari were refused in every instance.

You still harp on Von Papen's reference to "those idiotic Yankees." I have heard American diplomatic agents use harsher terms when referring to other nationalities. Can it be that your own secret doubts of American intelligence cause your unwillingness to forget and forgive Von Papen's remark? Are we wiser than Europeans? Idiocy caused the war and every participant's entrance into it. The idiocies of the original belligerents were caused by desperation. There are many versions of the causes of our idiocy.

When we turned the tide of battle we committed the greatest idiocy of all. We permitted the treaty of Versailles.

ALBERT WEHDE.

THE OCTOPUS.

Oak Park, Ill., July 31.—Your article in Sunday's TRIBUNE, "Return to the American Form of Government," to my way of thinking, is the best editorial appearing on the present day dilemma. The evils that have crept into government have been growing like barnacles on a ship's bottom. Our next job is to clean ship. How on earth this can be done is beyond my comprehension. We are confronted with an octopus of patronage that has its tentacles wrapped around our institutions, churches, schools, industries, and last, but by all means foremost, our newspapers.

I was surprised to read this editorial in THE TRIBUNE. THE TRIBUNE is a Republican newspaper. The Republican party has been in power when most of this rotten bureaucracy has been established.

You have a big job on your hands, the biggest you ever tackled, even beyond the battle of trying to get the 18th amendment repealed. I wish you the best of luck and there are millions more in the country that feel just as I do.

E. P. FAHEY.

CHICAGO'S TAXES.

Aledo, Ill., Aug. 2.—I notice a letter from an automobile owner who is both surprised and incensed that he has been asked to pay a personal property tax on his automobile, after meeting his various obligations to the government, state, and city. I wonder if it is possible he does not know that downstate every one pays and always has paid personal property tax on automobiles regardless of other forms of taxation.

Not only are our automobiles assessed but all other personal property is assessed, and not only assessed but it is paid. Chicago, with over half the automobiles of the state, is said to pay on less than any one of a half dozen other counties in the state. If Cook county was assessed on its personal property and paid its taxes as other counties pay it would not need to look to Washington and Springfield for so much help.

L. McW.

GLANDS AS A CAMPAIGN ISSUE.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—One of the most exhilarating news stories in many a day was Arthur Evans' reporting of the election campaign by the goat gland specialist of Kansas. The spectacle of the old razorbacks with toothpick whiskers fawning about the prairie nymphs is an idyl which no doubt brought many a robust chuckle from folks who like news stories to give them a smile in these days. Long live Pegler and Evans.

G. UFFAW.

A CONTRAST.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 1.—Imprisonment is the penalty for operating insolvent commercial banks. Why is the same penalty not applicable to federal land banks? Federal land bank officials lobbying in congress laid bare a virtual state of insolvency of their banks, though still functioning. Instead congress condoned their administrations by appropriating $125,000,000 of public moneys to the banks to insure their jobs and an uninterrupted continuity of bond interest payments. And orderly and penniless B. E. F. lobbyists are run out of Washington with bayonets and bombs.

P. E. JOHANNSEN.

NORSE SURVIVALS.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—In Sunday's rotogravure section you had an interesting picture showing the carrying out of the old ceremony of reading the laws out in the open on the Isle of Man, off the English coast. I wonder how many of your readers know the origin of this ancient open air parliament.

The Isle of Man, along with the Shetlands, the Orkneys, and parts of the coast of England and Scotland, were for a long time jaridoms of the kingdom of Norway and in these parts the Norse introduced their parliaments, just as they did in Iceland, which recently celebrated its millennial as the oldest free and equal parliament in the world.

On the Isle of Man the three estates still gather each year and no laws are considered valid unless proclaimed in the presence of the collected people from Tynwald hill. The old ceremonies from Norway still prevail at these times. The village names such as Colby, Greenby, Sulby, Kirby, and Derby are Norse, just as is the case with so many similar names in England. The "by" ending in Norse means town. The place of assembly was called by the Norwegians the "Thing," and the old mounds where these first parliamentary gatherings took place are still seen in Dingwall and Tinwald in Scotland, Dingwall in Essex, and Thingwall in Cheshire.

H. P. DIDRICKSEN.

DANZIG.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—May I add to Donald Day's Danzig articles?

Prof. Amedeo Giannini [University of Rome] has shown that the Danzig port traffic has increased from 2,112,101 tons [1913] to 8,001,608 [1931]. It is the only port in the world to have almost quadrupled its pre-war trade, thanks to Polska [English miscalled "Poland"], which provides 90 to 95 per cent of the total.

Germany, the professor stated, "did her utmost to take the Polish traffic from Danzig for the benefit of German ports . . . yet Danzig did not, and does not, protest against this traffic; it protests only against that of Gdynia."

The ever growing commerce of Gdynia surpassed 5,000,000 tons last year. It is the one national port of a vigorous nation numbering more than 32,000,000 people.

The ancient Polish inhabitants of Danzig [Gdansk] were butchered by the treacherous Teutonic knights who slew 300,000 natives of East Prussia to seize that country for themselves, where before the year 1225 no German ever lived.

In 1920, "during her defense against the bolshevik invasion, Poland saw herself prevented from importing munitions so necessary for the preservation of her existence" by Danzig, declares Prof. Giannini. This absolute proof of the need of independent communication, coupled with other incidents and the insufficient facilities for her increasing trade, compelled the construction of Gdynia as a national requirement. F. W. P.

IT DIDN'T.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—I would like to make comment on the kindness of the two very young policemen, car No. 161, who stopped the car at Adams and Robey streets to assist a blind man across the street. Such an action on the part of these two men should not go unnoticed.

'Night Flight' Is Something New in Books

Describes Man's Battle with Powers of Darkness.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Night Flight," by Antoine de St. Exupery. [Century.]

A CLASSIC of imaginative literature of the age of the airplane is offered to us today by the Century company and the Book of the Month club [who are combining it with another modern French classic, "Saint Saturnin," as their August choice]. "Night Flight" is unlike any other book yet written. It is truly something new under the sun—or rather under the moon and the stars and the black clouds of night and the roar of a cyclone through the blackness, for it is not with the bright reality of day that the book deals but with the mysterious power of the night.

ANTOINE DE ST. EXUPERY.

The scene of the book is the airport of Buenos Aires, toward which the air mail planes from the continent are converging to feed the plane which is to make its night flight to Europe with their cargo and the night through which one of them flies. The "hero" of the book is the chief of the airport, a man apparently made of tempered steel, a psychological Gibraltar who dares allow himself no human feelings lest he lose his power not over man but over "forces."

Riviere brooks no sentiment, brooks no humanity. The night flight must be made at whatever cost, for only by conquering the night can progress be made. He feels that once weakness is shown, once human frailty is admitted, the "forces" will conquer, and only his own almost inhuman will can battle those forces. It is his destiny to make his pilots and his mechanics fear him more than they fear the forces of nature, his destiny and his dream. Only thus, he feels, can he insure safety to them.

The psychology of Riviere is by the author's skill made brilliantly clear despite its complexities.

In contrast to Riviere are those who are human souls with sentiment and passion and dreams of life other than conquest of the forces of nature. Poignantly the author sketches the love of Simone Fabien for her pilot husband, the yearning of Robineau for some human relationship with his men and with life. And unforgettably M. de St. Exupery pictures the grasping at reality of the pilot hedged about by the horror of night. The presence of a little light—just a lamp in a farm window—gives him human contact with the world out of his aloneness in eternity with his radio operator.

With a power rare in words the author describes the attack of the cyclone on the fragile plane, the pilot's fight with the elements, his conquest of his own fear, and his final conquest of the blackness of the night. Never before in words has been set down a description to compare with the one in "Night Flight" of a storm in the air. Storms at sea have illumined many pages of fiction. This is the first aerial picture of the horrors of an elemental barrage.

Oddly enough, the memorable battle in the book is not the physical one between the pilot and the elements so much as it is the psychological one between the elements and the chief of the airport. Not even in the loss of his pilot, not even in the last moments of the struggle between man and nature which he can and does imagine poignantly does the chief of the airport allow himself to be conquered. Defeat is turned by his iron will to victory and as the book closes the night plane to Europe is started on its way and "Riviere went back to his work and, as he passed, the clerks quailed under his stern eyes—Riviere the Great, the Conqueror, bearing his heavy load of victory."

For Riviere is not by nature a hard man. Once he told his inspector, "Love the men under your orders, but do not let them know it."

The author is himself a pilot. There is an extremely laudatory preface to the work by André Gide. The volume is translated by Stuart Gilbert.

Becomes Bride Today

Great Variety Is Offered by Single Costume

BY RHEA SEEGER.

WHETHER our best clothes designers have finally bowed their heads before the unanimous demands of all buying females with a thirst for new clothes and allowances that are shadows of what they used to be . . . or whether they think this is the time to show superlative artistry in economical models, they have at last sent us some of the most unusual ideas we have ever dreamed about . . . the new coats and dresses that consist of a single smart skeleton of an affair, to be used as the perfect basis of a distinctive fall and winter wardrobe.

Begin with the news about street clothes . . . look out for the wool dresses that come into view with the newest trick ideas in collars and scarf effects, a leather belt and also matching cuffs. Everything on these dresses is removable . . . and so denuded, it becomes groundwork for your own pet ideas in the way of evolving new costumes. And some breath taking results can be achieved!

Fashion's newest pet is gleaming metal costume jewelry . . . very different from anything you may have collected in the past . . . necklaces and longer choker effects of silver or gold are combined with balls and oblong beads of bold colored composition.

New metal belts will click and sometimes clank rather noisily around the slim fall waistline . . . some are made of heavy cords, braided and woven in interesting designs . . . others are of suede with chains and heavy clips and buckles.

Its going to be a grand season for scarves . . . if you think you have used scarves before and probably know quite a bit about these feminine accessories, you are, nevertheless, going to learn some more clever trickery about them . . . how a simple black or deep blue frock can start out in the morning demurely scarfed in white . . . changed at noon with a sophisticated and wrap around scarf and matching cuffs, or collared for street with a tight short shoulder curving capescarf collar and wide deep cuffs—an outfit that will make you look demurely devastating and quaintly reminiscent of certain tintypes of your clothes collecting grandmother, when she was young and wise.

You can even go economical with the new coats . . . most of them have fur collars and deep capes that can easily swing from your shoulders when you wear a bright green or red heavy wool sports dress. These capes are all lengths and practically every fur is available for such a double life.

One gorgeous rich brown mink cape hangs to the waistline of a thick velvety looking black winter coat . . . think what a knowing quick change clothes hound could do with that cape. It could be worn with great distinction with a brown suit . . . or decorate an almond green thin wool one piece frock . . . you could sling it over your shoulders when you go to tea, dressed in one of the new crinkled crêpe silk dresses in that lovely grape red color, and lastly wear it for evening over any and every colored evening gown in your wardrobe.

Other capes of sleek black caracul, Persian lamb, gray kidskin and leopard offer you all the inspiration for this fascinating new accomplishment that is being encouraged by most of the famous and suddenly frugal minded designers.

N. U. Professor to Study Air Temperatures of Eclipse

Dr. Oliver J. Lee, associate professor in astronomy at Northwestern university, will go to Fryeburg, Me., to make observations in an attempt to find the changing temperatures and pressure in the air at a series of specific altitudes during the total eclipse of the sun on Aug. 31. Captive balloons and an airplane will be used in the experiment. Balloons equipped with aerological instruments will be stationed at altitudes of one thousand, three thousand, eight thousand, and fifteen thousand feet. A United States navy plane will be used in study of conditions from 25,000 to 30,000 feet.

Bishop Sheil Confirms 300 at Outdoor Mission

Bishop Bernard J. Sheil of the archdiocese of Chicago last night officiated at the confirmation of 300 persons at the open air mission being conducted at St. Celestine's church, 76th court and Wellington avenue. The mission is regarded as unique because it is being conducted in a park adjoining the church.

Visiting Buyers Are Cheered by Newest Styles

Winter Fashions Receive Warm Welcome.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

THERE was more than "a hint of autumn in the air" last night. There was La Winter Mode herself, a winner, from the start, strutting down a runway in the packed ballroom of the Hotel Sherman to riotous applause, and earning it. Something like 2,000 buyers from midwest states, the men she'll make or break, tossed misgivings to the winds in the first five minutes, as the most stunning models in Chicago tripped forth in trios for inspection. Thereafter the preview of the Interstate Merchants council was a series of triumphs.

It wasn't any wonder. For the debonair spirit that sparkled through the various "runs" is the most diverting and becoming milady has sported since the days of that rakish young person with so much zest for life—the flapper, long deceased. Her reincarnation for the fall of 1932 has all her fascination, none of her faults, and a subtlety the poor girl never dreamed of in those postwar days.

She swaggered into the ken of the visiting buyers—this lady of the style revue—in simple little frocks that somehow captured the very essence of smartness without an unnecessary frill or plait or button.

She no longer cuts a swath, in yardage, toning down the voluminous gored skirts of recent months to only a slight flare, if any. Her daytime hemline has dropped a bit, an inch or two. Her silhouette is wide shouldered, rib hugging, figure fitting, gracefully proportioned below the waist as to both length and fullness.

Inevitably, she elects the colors of the autumn leaves. But of the old favorites, she has nominated ruby red for special favor, and what a break the brunettes get there. It was the sensation of last evening, as it promenaded forth in luscious velvets and slinky crepes, in lustreless satins and sheer woolens. Brown was high in favor, too, but to appease the blondes, sooty black and snowy white were paired again for contrast and for chic.

There was many a high neckline to be observed and applauded. Both in the practical sports and business dresses of crêpe and woolen, Russian fashion, and in the semiformal and formal types, cut modestly up in front, and fraudently low in back. There were sleeves of the popular straight, tight fitted kind; of the revived "leg o' mutton," tapering from fullness at the shoulder to a narrow width at the wrist, long "bishop" sleeves, and brief puffed sleeves. There was an occasional wide, tight girdle of satin or leather as contrast to the body of a dress.

And what an assortment of fashion tricks this new mode teaches madame or mademoiselle. In true anti-depression attitude, she learns to make her clothes do triple duty. A foundation dress, simple but stylish, for one costume. She tosses a circular short cape over her head and it drops around her shoulders, creating an "I've never seen you wear that before" impression. Off with the cape and into a slipon jumper effect, with a change of accessories, for another. A separate jacket creates a street suit. So it goes.

She'll have feathers on the brain, most likely. Pert little excuses of millinery created especially to clap on to the top of her head and drape with one of those wispy, loose and coquettish short veils. The nose veils, by the way, are almost ubiquitous.

One dinner ensemble that created a furor last evening was of Russian inspiration. A toe length skirt of black velvet with a Russian blouse in flame crêpe, traced with gold thread. The cap sleeves were of silver fox. The hat was a cap of black velvet with a stiff net halo in black.

The finale of the show was a wedding party in white transparent velvet, each one in the group a brunette to set off the contrasting color—American beauty. The wedding gown of Directoire influence was worn with a lengthy tulle veil with a wide white rose of the velvet set saucily at one side of her little cap of the tulle. Bridesmaids wore gowns with the new circular capes closed with American beauty buttons, and satin sandals to match, with caps of the same shade of velvet topping short veils of tulle.

Tired of looking at beautiful but dumb ladies and handsome, lame-brained young men in lavish settings? Are you bored with torrid love scenes, misunderstood wives, machine gunning gangsters, and the numerous other standard shots that make up most movies? Would you like to see something SMART for a change—something with laughs but no legs? Then proceed without hesitation to the Roosevelt!

There you'll encounter Martha Hicks, a larcenous lady who has accepted the hospitality of some of the best prisons in the land. But she's a polished old jailbird if ever you saw one! She's an out-and-out crook, who asks no quarter and gives none. She fleeces smoothly and flees quietly.

Alison Skipworth plays this shrewd old bluffer, and does a marvelous piece of work. It's refreshing to encounter a bit of genuine acting ability these days!

In need of money after being released from jail, the "Countess" blows regally into a small town in Wisconsin in which her long forgotten husband runs a small and bankrupt hotel. Her intention is to collect on his desire to keep her identity a secret and depart immediately. But on arriving there she finds several things of interest to her, among them the love affairs of her two daughters.

Unknown to any one but her uneasy spouse, she settles herself comfortably and takes the situation in hand. Incidentally, situations aren't all she's able to take in hand. She appropriates just about everything she has any desire for.

The dialogue is unusually clever and the direction equally intelligent.

The situations in this plot would have allowed ample opportunity for sticky sentimentality, but the author wisely kept his principal in character.

Miss Skipworth is ably assisted by Richard Bennett and the other members of the cast. But the picture's hers, and may she come again!

Swedish Throng Cheers Garbo as She Leaves Ship

[Copyright: 1932: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

GOTHENBERG, Sweden, Aug. 8.—Ten thousand vociferous countrymen, held in line by a hundred policemen, welcomed Greta Garbo, nee Gustafson, back to her homeland today.

For her homecoming Greta wore a yellow knitted suit, gray shoes and gray toque. A gray coat hung on her arm.

After waving a greeting to the crowd—and receiving a big cheer in return—she climbed into an automobile beside her brother Sven and departed. Her immediate destination was said to be the home of an old friend, Mimi Pollack, Swedish actress, in Stockholm.

Just before leaving the motorship Gripsholm, in which she traveled from the United States to Sweden, Garbo summoned a group of reporters into the smoking room and broke the silence she had preserved during the voyage. Meanwhile the gangplank had been lowered and the multitude was clamoring for a peek at the home grown celebrity.

"I am not returning to the United States in the near future," she volunteered to the reporters. "I hope for a long rest and quiet somewhere in Sweden."

Another revelation came from the lips that have made thousands sigh. Garbo does not hate reporters. She's just modest, that's all. And she denied she had been the author of numerous literary bits.

"I am tired of picking up English, French, German, and other newspapers sent to me in Hollywood and of reading my alleged views on love, cosmetics, and health," she said.

"I have never written a word in my life. I used to be amused by reading these alleged memoirs, but now it has become tiresome."

Dedicate Two Buildings at Camp Wooster Sunday

Two new buildings, one the William D. Stein hospital and the other a rustic cabin for exhibits of the nature study classes, will be dedicated on Sunday at Camp Wooster, maintained for underprivileged boys by the Young Men's Jewish charities. The camp is located on Lake Wooster, near Round Lake, Ill. Mrs. William D. Stein and Philip Stein were the donors of the hospital, a six room structure with an emergency operating room, laboratory, two bedrooms, and a staff of two physicians. The cabin was donated anonymously and has been furnished with rough hewn furniture made by the boys in the camp workshop.

Many Guests to Attend Inland Lakes Races.

BY JUDITH CASS.

LAKE GENEVA will be at its gayest next week, when the Inland Lakes regatta will be held there and every house will be chockfull of guests and there will be parties galore for the visiting sailors and their wives.

Thee trailers bringing the boats from Lakes Pewaukee, Minnetonka, White Bear, Pine and Delavan will start arriving at Lake Geneva the middle of this week, and by Sunday [the first race will be sailed on Monday] most of the boats that will race in the regatta will be anchored in the lake, but undoubtedly there will be a few that won't arrive until next week, for it is rare when all the trailers that carry the boats to an Inland Lakes regatta arrive on time and without accident to their precious cargoes.

Getting a boat from one inland lake to another is quite a task, but no real inland lake sailor ever was known to pass up a regatta if he possibly could rent, beg or borrow a trailer to attach to his car and so get his boat to the regatta.

There were almost forty entries last week, including the fifteen boats that sail regularly on Lake Geneva, and there probably will be others before Monday, so it looks as if the regatta is one thing that won't be affected by "the change."

Among the social affairs planned for the entertainment of the visitors are a dance at the Big Foot Country club on the 16th, a dance at the Lake Delavan Country club the next night, the Commodore's dinner at the Big Foot club on the 18th, and a dance at the Lake Geneva Country club on the 19th. Two guest boats will follow all the races, in addition to all the speed and motor boats on the lake, and a big circus tent is to be pitched beyond the yacht club for snacks between races and informal luncheons.

Many Guests Will Attend.

The trophies to be raced for include the Inland Lakes Yachting Association Foundation cup, the President O. L. Schmidt cup, the P. A. Valentine cup and the Three Bell Challenge trophy. Among the guests at Lake Geneva next week will be the Chester Shepards of Menasha [she was Barbara Granger Cowles of Lake Forest], who will be with the Chauncey B. Blairs at Casa Bonheur during the regatta; Miss Margery Riach of Evanston, who will be the guest of the E. P. Ellwoods, who also will entertain Miss Mary Crosby and Benjamin Summers of St. Paul; the Frederick G. Wackers, who will go up from Lake Forest to visit the junior A. F. Gartzes, and the Frederick Weyerhausers of St. Paul. Mrs. Weyerhauser was formerly Vivian O'Gara of Chicago.

The junior Carter H. Harrisons, by the way, just returned to Barrington yesterday from what was intended as a week-end visit to the Weyerhausers, but what lengthened itself out to a ten day visit. Mrs. Weyerhauser's brother, Alfred O'Gara, motored back with the Harrisons.

Last week-end was gay at Lake Geneva, too, for the junior Albert F. Madleners gave a dinner dance for about 50 at the Lake Geneva Country club. Mrs. Madlener's sister, Mrs. Phillip Miller, and Dr. Miller were with the Madleners for the week-end, and John H. McIlvaine spent Saturday and Sunday with the Henry P. Ishams.

Ralph N. Isham and John P. Porter cut short their fishing trip to Canada [they went by airplane] in order to return to Lake Geneva and get their boats ready for the regatta. They landed at Lake Geneva Sunday. The Daniel Winters, who have been occupying the guest house of the Henry Ishams at Lake Geneva, left last Friday for a stay of several weeks in northern Wisconsin before returning to Lake Forest.

Delavan Lake Garden Show.

If the weather is pleasant on Friday a number of garden lovers will motor from Chicago and Lake Geneva to Delavan for the annual flower show of the Delavan Lake Garden club. The exhibition, which is always an important event on the summer program of the vacationing colony at Delavan, will be held on the grounds of the country club overlooking the lake.

Mrs. E. C. Berriman, general chairman, is being assisted by Mrs. Clyde G. Stevens. Committee heads include Mrs. S. K. Wheeler, in charge of wall pockets; Mrs. W. R. Abbott, luncheon tables; Mrs. Fred Sauter, porch arrangements; Miss Elsie Borcherdt, specimen exhibits; Mrs. R. E. Troike Jr. and Mrs. W. N. Williams, flower arrangements in bowls and baskets.

Two weddings in the east of interest here that are taking place today are those of Miss Elisabeth Crossett and John Leland Mothershead Jr., in Wianno, Mass., and Miss Margaret Ayres Watkins and Howard Elting Jr., in New Rochelle, N. Y. Miss Crossett is to become the bride of the young Pasadenan at the summer residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Clark Crossett of Chicago, the Rev. Duncan Browne of St. James church here and of Wianno, officiating. Miss Carolyn Crossett will be her sister's honor maid and another sister, Mrs. Edward S. French [Ruth Crossett], herself a bride of last spring, will be the other attendant.

Morris Mothershead will be his brother's best man. The bride is to wear her mother's wedding gown of ivory satin, trimmed with rose point lace, and the two attendants will be gowned alike in aquamarine blue lace gowns and leghorn hats, and will carry talisman roses. The bridegroom's parents and the bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. James A. Rankin, have gone east from Pasadena for the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Mothershead will sail tomorrow to spend a year in Europe, dividing the time between Paris and Germany to study languages. Later Mr. Mothershead will take a 2 year post-graduate course at Harvard for a degree of doctor of philosophy.

A STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE

I Like You So Much

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Gold Franklyn calls Dr. Elverton, who has a surgery in a poor district of London, to attend her indolent, dependent young half brother. The doctor offers to give Barney Pierce, a well to do accident victim, a lift to his destination, and Pierce waits while the doctor makes his call. He catches a glimpse of the pretty creature who summoned the doctor. Pierce determines to help the plucky young orphan girl. The doctor is to sail the next week to New York and Havana on a leave, taking the ship doctor's place. Mrs. Doria Hathaway, a widow, friend of Pierce's, is to sail on the same boat. She wants a maid-companion for the Atlantic crossing. The doctor sends Gold to see Mrs. Hathaway and she gets the job. Pierce regrets putting Gold under the demoralizing influence of Doria. He decides to sail himself. On the boat Doria meets David Dorrance, who wants to interest Pierce in a business deal. Gold is angered by Pierce's cynicism and distrust of women. Gip Alen, Gold's half brother, stows away on the boat. Pierce overhears Gip threatening Gold and, unknown to her, arranges to get Gip third class passage. Doria invites a good looking youth from steerage to dine with her and give an exhibition tango. The youth is Gip Alen. Barney again takes Gip in hand and arranges to give him a six months' tryout in his Texas lumber camp. Gold accepts Dorrance's offer of a position as his secretary on the Havana trip. On their arrival in New York he sends her to a small hotel near Washington square. In the evening he takes her out to dine and dance in a colored night club in Harlem. Doria expects Pierce to call and has ordered dinner to be served in her hotel suite. Dr. Elverton calls before Pierce. Pierce arrives in search of Gold. He learns where Dorrance has taken her and follows.

INSTALLMENT XXXVIII.

MASTERFUL TREATMENT.

They were beside him in a moment or two.

"Pierce, this is splendid!"

Barney realized that Dorrance was entirely unconscious of offending.

He rose, and bowed to Gold.

The girl smiled back frostily; and yet her eyes were not cold. Questioning, appealing, puzzled youth—what was it in her eyes?

"I hope you don't mind my joining you. I looked in——"

"Alone!" said Dorrance in astonishment.

"Crazy as it seems—alone."

They sat down, the girl between them. Who had given her the orchids?

"Well," he said to her, "what do you think of a world like this? It's new to you?"

"Quite new."

He waved aside the manager who was suggesting supper.

"Dorrance," he said, "you ought to have brought Mrs. Hathaway. She would have liked it."

"Well . . ." Dorrance mused. "Tell you what," he said, "now you've come, shall I telephone the Vanderbilt and see if she's in and if she'd care to come out here?"

"I wish you would."

"I hope you don't mind my joining you. I looked in——" "Alone!" said Dorrance in astonishment.

Pierce had little doubt but that his quickly conceived plan would work. And when Dorrance returned, saying: "She's tickled to death. I told her you wouldn't eat, drink or dance till she arrived; but she wants to be fetched," he said at once: "Take my car, my dear fellow. It's waiting round the block."

"But won't you . . . ?" Dorrance began.

"My dear fellow, I've only just come. And since the invitation is yours——"

"Excuse me, then, Miss Franklyn," said Dorrance amiably. She would excuse him, of course, she was his secretary, couldn't be persnickety. He was off. But he was puzzled as he got into the limousine, exactly as to what Pierce's game was. Still lovers' quarrelling with the pretty but quick tempered widow, and so more trustful of an envoy than of himself?

But Dorrance, in his prevailing good humor, did not mind the trouble he was taking for another man, anyway.

"So you don't like this sort of world," said Barney at once to Gold.

"No."

"Then you shall not live in it a moment longer."

"What d'you mean?"

"I'm going to take you away."

"You can't!"

"Why not?"

"You must see—I'm with Mr. Dorrance."

"You were with Dorrance; you're now with me. What do you suppose I came here for?"

"Because it amuses you as it amuses him, I suppose," she said.

"I came here to take you away."

"You didn't know I was here."

"Yes. I knew. I have been to the Tree Hotel and to the Plaza to find out."

His look held her speechless.

"Come along," he said.

"How can I? Why should I?"

"Because you hate this mucky place as much as I do."

"As you do?"

He lifted her coat to her shoulders.

Still she protested. There was Dorrance.

"That will be all right," said Barney more gently than he had been speaking. He summoned the manager.

She did not hear the instructions he gave. She had suddenly, with his coming, lapsed into a conviction of weariness, nervousness and disgust. With Dorrance she had played her part of enjoying it all.

"Mucky place," Pierce had called it.

It was much how she had thought of it herself on her entrance—astonished, staggered by the scene that, harmless in its way, yet looked to her eyes like a strange revolting orgy that must pollute all who looked upon it.

Now suddenly, walking beside Pierce out of the restaurant, she felt again safe and clean.

"Mr. Pierce," she said, and he thought with a melting of the heart that never had she allowed herself so to droop, to show so trustful and so young. "I'd like to go straight back to my hotel."

"I'm afraid it will be a taxi. Our friend took my car."

In the taxicab he added: "Don't worry about that part of it. He'll have a charming lady to finish the evening with, just as, with a charming lady, he began it."

"What will Mrs. Hathaway think?"

"Don't worry about that either. I have already called on Mrs. Hathaway. I think Dr. Elverton will be dining with her tonight."

"Then she won't be able to come to that Harlem place!"

"We must leave the task of persuasion to Dorrance."

"Listen! I ought to go back."

"That you won't do!" he said, putting his hand over hers.

"Yes, I will! Stop the taxi!"

"Wait a moment," he said, "if you go back where will you go? Do you know the name of the place or even the street it is in?"

"Why . . . no!"

"A girl often just doesn't bother where she is being taken, I know. She just drifts along with the tide."

"You banked on that!"

"I hadn't thought the question of going back would arise; but since it has arisen, I bank on the fact that you can't drive all over Harlem by yourself looking for a nameless beastly nightclub."

He had outwitted her. She had been dazed and frightened by Harlem night life, well as she had disguised it from Dorrance. Barney Pierce had supposed she would come with him, and in spite of the relief it became rather galling that he should be so right. She repeated quietly what she had said to him before, on the ship:

"How you despise us, don't you?"

As quietly he replied with a question: "And yet I do what I am doing?"

She thought for a minute, but gave that up. "You like riddles," she said, as if indifferent. "Asking them amuses you. I don't have to answer. Where are we now?"

The taxicab turned east and came into Park avenue.

She had not listened to the direction Pierce had given the driver any more than she had listened to the directions he had given the restaurant manager. When the cab stopped, she exclaimed:

"But where's this?"

"You've been trusting men all the evening," he said, "trust just a little longer."

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Winnie's Got Her Number

Enjoy Your Children as You Go Along

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

We don't want to be exactly emotional, this lovely August day, at least, it's lovely at this moment as I write, but isn't it nice to have children? Do you stop and feel this often enough? Sometimes I think we who want to be modern and capable parents do too much intellectualizing about our children. Or we do too much planning ahead of their education or careers. Or we spend ourselves too hard on the business of life as it concerns them and their welfare.

Sometimes, to use a trite simile, we don't see the woods for the trees. I mean, we are so absorbed in the practical details that affect our children that we don't actually see our children as much as we should to enjoy them. We get awfully "mental" about this job of being a mother, sometimes, when we might do well, often, to feel about it.

Savor your children . . . as a friend of mine said to me one day, "I have to remind myself sometimes that this is the moment for which I live, now.

"Now, this moment, the present, is the only thing that is actually within my grasp. This time won't come again in my child's life or my own."

It's something to think about.

Life is rich ahead and the past may be rich, too, but we must be sure to live the present. "Gather ye rosebuds while ye may" we learned to memorize at school. The rose is lovely later on, but it won't fold up and be a bud again, and the bud, this early childhood, has an interest, a bloom and beauty all its own.

Savor your child as you go.

Girl Fails to Understand the B. F.'s Actions

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I've been keeping company with a young man for two years. He has been very good to me and says he loves me. We had a quarrel last Friday. I didn't hear from him all day Saturday. Sunday he called twice and I hung up on him. When he called a third time, we talked for an hour. By that time we were the same old pals as before.

"A few days later I asked him what he'd done on Saturday. He told me that he picked up a girl and had an affair with her. This broke me completely. How can I forgive him? Am I old fashioned, or something? He should have been faithful to me. Do men always do things like that to hurt the girl they profess to love?

"I still love him, but there is something missing in my feeling now. Can a breach of the sort be forgiven? When I speak to him about it he says he came back and that should satisfy me." ANN.

You have to get down to the quarrel if you're seeking reasons for the man's behavior. Whose fault was it? Were you to blame, Ann? Did you misjudge the man's motives? And why weren't you willing to make up on the first call?

We're not trying to condone the man's affair. But they're a queer body, some men. They do things differently when they are mad. Girls stay home and nurse a grouch. Men go out and get drunk, or carry on with another girl just to show how little they care! Caring, all of the time! You'll have to ask a psychologist why they do this. I don't think the men themselves can tell. I suppose it's their misdirected way of showing the Anns!

But why two things? Why do men come back and explode their bad behavior? Why try to shift the burden of their guilt on a woman's shoulders? And why, when this is done, and the deed forgiven [it must be when the fellow continues] why keep harping on it? It's a crude way your friend has of trying to appease you, "Ann." Telling you you should be satisfied that he came back. On the other hand, since you've taken him back because you want him back, why keep the issue alive by speaking about it?

Fashion Is Now Focusing Attention on the Neck Line

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The style magazines report that attention is focusing on collars, right now. Haven't you noticed how the right collar line flatters? How the wrong one for you can make your neck look shorter and thicker; your face, even, look broadened, and your body look heavier.

Of course, you've noticed also how dainty neck trimmings give you the same fresh, crisp feeling they give the dress. It's little details like collars and lines and crispness thereof that snap up one's appearance.

Thank goodness, the bead orgies of a couple of seasons back have abated. Women used to load their necks with beads that made them look heavy, sometimes cheaply dowdy. I think it was the younger generation who discovered necks didn't have to be ringed with gee-gaws. They first started the fad, anyway, of letting a neck speak for itself.

And the fad grew until today when necks are dressed with bead, scarf, or frill, they're done with a view to flattering the neck and the whole silhouette, head included. At least, that's what you have to study for. Especially, if your throat doesn't happen to be kin to the elegant swan's. If it's scrawny, hollow around the base, there are fascinating things to be done with dress necklines that cover up shortcomings.

If it's short, you can add the look of length with a cleverly chosen neckline. And whatever you do to improve the neck apeparance has an improving effect on the face and on the head silhouette. You've seen women who, from the manner in which they dress their neck, look as if some one had bashed them down from the top of the head.

Just study this collar line thing a bit. See if you're doing the most flattering thing to yours. So long as fashion is focusing attention here, you may just as well do a bit of beauty focusing, too.

Name Winners in Crosswords Puzzle Contest

Award Chicago Woman $500 Prize.

"Melodies in Crosswords" to the tune of $2,500 in prize money, as worked out in the solving of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S 42-crossword puzzles contest, are adjudged and the lucky winners listed below. TRIBUNE crossword puzzle fans sent in all kinds, shapes, and sizes of entries to this contest, many with notes emphasizing the enjoyment of solving the puzzles.

Whole families tried their luck at the game, each member sending in an individual offering, thus instituting a little contest among themselves as to which "contrib" would pull the largest plum.

From among the 198 awards offered the first prize of $500 cash was given to Mrs. Elsie B. Pomerene, 7025 Osceola avenue, Chicago. Her very simple entry, exceptionally well done, demanded first place, in the opinion of the judges.

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

Diagonal seaming gives a becoming slimness to the hips of the fitted gored skirt of this attractive dress, and it's easily made. Of course you will use cotton—perhaps one of the lovely white batistes, showing vivid blue dots. And a plain blue batiste ruffling on the edge of the cape collar will make a lovely finish.

The pattern, 3182, comes in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years and 36 and 38 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material.

How to Order Clotilde Patterns.

Write your name and address plainly on dotted lines, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Inclose 10 cents in stamps or coin [coin preferred; wrap it carefully] for each number, and address your order to Clotilde Patterns, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central station, New York City.

Note—Clotilde patterns are made in New York exclusively for THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE. They are perfect in fit, up to date in style, and the easiest of all patterns to use.

ENGAGEMENT

Mrs. Paul Watkins of Winona, Minn., announces the engagement of her daughter, Florence Eugenie, to Roy Willard Walholm of Chicago, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. V. Walholm of Galesburg, Ill. Miss Watkins was graduated from the Emma Willard school at Troy, N. Y., and from Wells college. Mr. Walholm attended Knox and Colorado colleges.

WEDDING

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Xenia Duchich, daughter of Mrs. Saro Duchich of Gary, Ind., to Dr. Nikola Lalitch on July 27 in the Russian church in Paris. After a honeymoon at Fontainebleau the couple will reside in Paris.

The former Miss Duchich was graduated from Northwestern university in 1929. She is a Phi Beta Kappa and Delta Delta Delta member. Because of her exceptional scholastic credits she was permitted to begin study for a doctor's degree without the usual examination and preliminary work, and is the first American girl to be so honored. Dr. Lalitch is a Serbian by birth and holds several degrees from the Sorbonne, where he has taught classes.

Gains of Cubs Add Interest to Party Plans

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

The Cubs are certainly making long, steady strides toward that pennant, aren't they, girls and boys? At this writing they are but a game and a half behind the Pirates who are leading the exciting race and at the rate they're going one could almost prophesy great things!

It is all due to Charlie Grimm's baton waving, or Lon Warneke's pitching, or Riggs Stephenson's slugging streak, or—what? You must have your own ideas on the subject and I'd like to hear them in the letters you write me.

And, in the meantime, the Boston Braves, whom we will see at Wrigley field on Thursday, Aug. 13, for our second Cubs party this summer, are moving forward, too. They will be no small competition for Charlie Grimm's boys. Won't that be an exciting game!

And we're to see it from box seats where we won't miss a single play. Mr. Veeck has generously offered them for one hundred of you and that hundred must consist of real baseball fans. If you belong in that category I want you to compete for an invitation to this party, even if you were invited to the last one we had at Wrigley field.

As you all must know by this time, the way to win an invitation to one of these exciting parties is to write a letter telling me why you'd like to come. The hundred boys and girls who sound most enthusiastic about our plans for that particular week will be invited. You see, I want to have as my guests those of you who will have the best time.

Now there are some rules, simple and few, which you don't always follow. I'm going to remind you of them again. Every boy and girl must write his or her own letter—don't ask in yours for an invitation for your brother, your sister, or your best friend. Two children may not sign their names to one letter. Then, you mustn't fail to tell me your name, address and age, and send it in time to have it reach me no later than Thursday morning.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

"My 6 year old son and I are stranded here and we are planning to hitchhike back to Denver and want to start right away. His mother left me and I don't know where she is. Back west I have relations who will take care of the boy. He has almost no clothing and I wonder if you could get some for him. He needs blouses and stockings more than anything else. E. F."

Here's a sturdy little fellow who seems to be none the worse for this rather irregular mode of traveling and living. He needs the clothing frightfully and would be happy and fairly comfortable with those your small son is discarding.

Return from Sailing Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Carpenter returned to Lake Forest on Sunday night from a two weeks' sailing trip with Mrs. Carpenter's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence James Gamble of Philadelphia, who spend their summers at Harbor Point, Mich. The Carpenters met Mr. and Mrs. Gamble at Harbor Point and then sailed with them to Big Traverse bay and back.

Mrs. William H. Hubbard has rented her apartment at 26 Scott street and is with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Cooke, in Geneva for a visit before going east for the late summer and early autumn.

Mr. and Mrs. "Frits" Ruppel [Margaret Gaylord Brunker], who had expected to come to Lake Forest late last month for a visit with the Sidney Strotzes, have had to postpone their trip because of the press of Mr. Ruppell's business, but no one objects to giving up a trip because business is good; it is only when it is bad that it is hard to stay at home, isn't it?

Mr. and Mrs. Otis L. Hubbard landed in New York yesterday from a trip to Europe, but they will not return to Lake Forest until the end of the month, for they went directly to Camden, Me., for the wedding of Mr. Hubbard's sister, Miss Helen Kent Hubbard, which is to take place tomorrow and is to be one of the largest and most fashionable weddings ever held in Maine, so our correspondent from there writes.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Osgood of Pittsburgh, who are visiting Mrs. Osgood's mother, Mrs. Thomas B. Marston, in Lake Forest, will remain there until about Sept. 1.

Mrs. and Mrs. Laurance H. Armour and their son, Larry, are at the Keego club in Wisconsin for this month.

Enjoy Motor Trip in East.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Pattou of Lake Forest, who left about ten days ago for an eastern motor trip, will return the first of next week. They are visiting at several places in New England and at Southampton and Yonkers.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKenna of 23 Bellevue place are being congratulated upon the birth of a daughter, Alicia Burton, on August 5 at the Passavant hospital. Mrs. McKenna is the former Katherine Thayer.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Williams are back in Lake Forest from a visit with Mr. Williams' sister, Mrs. George A. Ranney, at Harbor Point. Accompanying them from Michigan was Mr. Williams' brother, Wheeler Williams, the sculptor, who lives in New York now but who is on his way to California and from there on a trip around the world probably.

He drove to Harbor Point from New York and after a few days there and a few more in Lake Forest he was off for the west the end of last week in the same little car, anxious to reach Los Angeles in time to see some of the Olympic games before they end next Sunday.

Mrs. Leandre La Chance and her daughter, Miss Helen La Chance, have joined Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. La Chance at Swampscott, Mass., where the younger La Chances have been since the latter part of July with Mrs. La Chance's mother, Mrs. William G. H. Logan.

From Pittsfield, Mass., comes word that Mr. and Mrs. Charles Prentiss Andrews and William H. Mitchell are guests of Mrs. Warren M. Salisbury at her Pittsfield residence, Tor Court. Mrs. Cyrus Bentley, who has been with Mrs. Frederick T. West at Court Hill, her country place in Pittsfield, is visiting friends on the north shore of Massachusetts, but will join Mrs. West again this week.

Mrs. Edward Hines will return in a week or ten days from Ohio, where she is staying with her son-in-law, Howell Howard, and his little daughter and son, Loretta and Howell Jr., until Mrs. Howard and the new baby, Lillian, who was born on July 29, are ready to go home to Maxwellton, the Howards' residence in the country near Dayton. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hines are spending the summer with Mrs. Hines in Evanston.

rence Watkins Jr. of New Rochelle, and Mr. Elting, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Elting of Chicago and Ulster county, N. Y., will take place at the residence of the bride's parents. The Rev. Frederick Walmsley will read the service in the presence of a small company of relatives and close friends.

Miss Elizabeth Watkins is to be her sister's only attendant and Mr. Elting Sr. will be his son's best man. The wedding is taking place now instead of in the autumn, as planned when the engagement was announced the first of July, because Mr. Elting has been assigned to the post of vice-consul in Istanbul, Turkey. He and his bride will sail tomorrrow on the Manhattan to visit his sister, Mrs. Carol Elting Donner, in Paris, before going to Istanbul.

Show Season to Open Here on August 25

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

A change of plans for the play called "Cynara," announced yesterday, has advanced the date for the opening of the new theatrical season in Chicago to Thursday, Aug. 25, at the Grand Opera house. This English comedy with Philip Merivale as its star had been selected to inaugurate the American Theater society's subscription season at the Erlanger theater on Oct. 3, but yesterday's announcement will cause a revision of program by the latter organization.

"Cynara," which takes its title from Ernest Dowson's poem about the heartbroken roué who had been faithful to his ideal love, "in my fashion," was written by H. M. Harwood, author of the easily remembered "Man in Possession." It had a year's run in London, and then, with another cast, proceeded to duplicate that hit in New York. It was included in Burns Mantle's list of the ten best plays of the last season on the American stage.

Philip Merivale's last acting for Chicago audiences was done in "Death Takes a Holiday," to which he contributed a masterly character study. Phoebe Foster, last seen here in the murder-mystery play called "Interference," and since then active in Broadway casts, will appear as the heroine. Sir Guy Standing, who figured in the success of "Mrs. Moonlight" last year, will be another important member of the cast of thirty players.

The dramatization of Pearl S. Buck's novel, "The Good Earth," will be placed in rehearsal by the Theater Guild next week. Earl Larimore, brilliant leading man of many Guild casts, will be prominent in the company.

Harriet Hoctor, who is now generally regarded as the First Dancer of the American theater, has been engaged for the next edition of Earl Carroll's "Vanities" revue, which is scheduled for a Broadway premiere in September. Helen Broderick, comedienne of "The Band Wagon" last season, has also signed a Carroll contract.

Dainty Petits Fours Can Be Made at Home

Applying Curlicues Fun for the Amateur.

BY MARY MEADE.

How many times haven't you—haven't we all—dropped in at our favorite French confectionery on Sunday afternoon for a cup of refreshing amber tea and a serving of those delectable little affairs which Jean or Pierre, or however our host is styled, offers us with our orange pekoe and calls "petits fours"?

These crusty or fluffy little cakes—the type depending on the recipe used—have always had that dainty "made just for you" look that renders them delightful accompaniments for partified desserts or afternoon entertainments. But, as you've discovered if you've ever tried to purchase them, the price asked is usually such a strain on any moderately equipped pocketbook that most of us go home and decide we'll serve sandwiches or sponge cake—though our hearts long for nothing so much as petits fours.

But, after all, why give in to the only apparently inevitable? The answer is—home made petits fours. We have let the professional touch scare us all these years and have been quite sure that our frosting wouldn't go on smoothly and that we could never think of all those darling curlicues Jean and Pierre lavish so artistically on their little cookies. Actually—while, of course, ours will be fairly simple at first—there's no reason why with a bit of practice petits fours can't come out of the kitchen of the amateur cook and be every bit as dainty and tempting as those offered by the adroit French chef who himself had to learn by observation and practice.

I spoke above of two different styles of petits fours. Both are respected members of the family, but start out with a different recipe. The first is simply fluffy butter cake baked in a large, shallow pan so that the sheet of cake is only one and one-half inches thick when done. When our cake has thoroughly cooled it will be cut into small squares, diamonds, rounds, or finger shapes, frosted neatly and cleverly trimmed.

The other branch of the petits fours family starts out like an ice box cookie. Same ingredients—same method of mixing—same chilling. Then the dough is rolled thin, cut in as many fanciful shapes as we like, and finally trickily decorated.

But that's diving ahead too fast. First for the recipe for the fluffy petits fours:

PETITS FOURS.

2-3 cup sugar.
4 eggs.
4 tablespoons melted butter.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 cup pastry flour.
1½ teaspoon baking powder.
1 teaspoon vanilla or almond extract.

Beat the eggs until lemon colored and then stir in the sugar. Cream two minutes with a wooden spoon. Fold in the melted, cooled butter and then the dry ingredients, which have been sifted together three times. Add the flavoring. Turn into a large, shallow pan lined with three thicknesses of waxed paper and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] about half an hour.

Let the cake cool fifteen minutes, then, after stripping off the paper carefully, let it stand until quite cold. Petits fours may now be cut out with a sharp knife or with a deep cookie cutter. Make them about one and one-half inches across—either round, square, triangular, or diamond shaped. And don't worry about the leftover scraps. Plus a sweet fruit sauce, they will turn up as a delectable pudding the next day.

For an icing, use your best boiled frosting. Frost the sides and top of each little cake carefully and as quickly as possible. Use a spatula dipped in hot water for the spreading, and keep the supply of frosting over hot water in the double boiler while working.

And now for the excitement and fun. As soon as the frosting has set and cooled, apply decorations to suit your fancy. Some things it's well to have on hand are a pastry tube, chocolate sprinkles, shredded cocoanut, candied cherries, crème de menthe cherries, strips of angelica, and a supply of large sugar crystals. Shredded cocoanut may be bought in delicate pastel tints. These and the chocolate sprinkles are best applied before the frosting cools. Pastel tinting of the frosting with vegetable coloring matter gives another chance for variety.

Simple but attractive flower designs may be made with a pastry tube deftly wielded. Tinted, uncooked frosting is the best for this purpose. Candied cherries cut in thin strips make flower petals, while simple leaves may be put on in tinted frosting. Ground nuts form another topping, or blanched almonds cut in strips with a little yellow frosting center form a charming daisy on a pale green cakelet. All styles may be the same, or you may choose to offer a variety of colors and patterns.

CUBS' HOPES FOR PENNANT SOAR; AND WHY NOT?

Now if They Can Beat Giants Today—

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 8.—The Chicago Cubs, thank you, enjoyed this Monday off much more than they did the day's layoff last Monday, the reason being quite obvious. Last week the Cubs were trailing the Pirates by six games; today they are in arrears only one game and a half.

A week ago the Cubs were none too cheaty about the prospect of thriving against the rampaging Phillies; today they were able to reflect on three stirring victories in four games played in Philadelphia.

A week ago the Cubs, ten times victims of the Pirates this season, never dreamed that the Pittsburghers could be slapped down in a protracted losing streak, but today the Chicagoans reveled in the knowledge that the league leaders have an unfinished run of nine losses.

Tinning to Oppose Hubbell.

It is true that tomorrow the Cubs will have a tough job on their hands, for Carl Hubbell, ace of the New Yorkers, who has been quite severe with the Cubs so far this year, will pitch. Carl has won 14 games thus far, and he rather fancies the Cubs. Hubbell will be opposed by Bud Tinning.

Tinning was given only one start under the Hornsby régime, and that opportunity wasn't given until well past the half way mark in the season's endeavors. It will be different under the Grimm rule, if Bud makes the showing he is expected to make.

Manager Grimm has expressed his opinion that both Tinning and Leroy Herrmann are qualified to start games whenever it is felt that any one of the big four—Warneke, Bush, Malone, and Root—is in need of additional rest or for any reason is indisposed.

Veterans Go to Bull Pen.

Although there was no specific announcement on the status of Grimes and Smith, it was taken that the decision to give more frequent chances to the youngsters. Tinning and Herrmann, means that the two veterans are to be more or less definitely assigned to the bull pen duty along with the ever faithful and hard working Jakie May, the team's only lefty.

Kiki Cuyler, who was switched to right field in the double header here yesterday, will continue in that position indefinitely, Grimm said. Cuyler, it will be recalled, was a right fielder during the rule of Joe McCarthy, and Boss Charley agrees that the sun field is the best spot for the veteran. The switch is pointed out as a happy solution, for Johnny Moore and Frank Demaree are center fielders by trade, are faster than Cuyler, surer on long ground balls, but don't look up into the sun as well as Ki does.

Respect for Dodgers' Record.

In contemplating their success plans, the Cubs are entertaining a wholesome respect for the Brooklyn Dodgers, who have won 13 out of their last 16 starts. The Dodgers are in fourth place, but they are only four games behind the league leaders and playing at the top of their game, with three former Cubs, Hack Wilson, Danny Taylor, and Lefty O'Doul, furnishing most of their power.

Some of the Cubs rate the Dodgers next to the Cubs as the class of the league. Those who question this appraisal point to the uncertain quality of the pitching staff, what with Vance complaining about one thing and another all the time; Watson Clark suffering from periodical attacks of nosebleed; Phelps too fat and lazy to go nine innings; Mungo uncertain, and Thurston erratic, etc. The Dodgers may find the going a bit tough when they hit the western trail next week.

It All Helps Box Office.

The tightening up of the race during the last week has been a source of delight to the box office fellows as well as the players. After having a sweet race the first half of the season it appeared a week ago that the Pirates had wrecked the show. With five contenders back in a red hot race business is bound to be good, the nabobs say.

There is no way to dope the outcome on past performances. There never has been greater lack of con-

MILLER SHOOTS 155 FOR MEDAL IN AMATEUR GOLF

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Peter Miller of Cherry Hill, who was runner up in the recent national public parks tournament at Louisville, Ky., was medalist in the qualifying round for the Chicago district amateur championship at Medinah yesterday, and today meets Ed Maurerman of Channel Lake, in the first round. Pete shot 78—77—155 and was three strokes lower than his nearest competitors, Oliver Schmidt, Medinah; Bill Chambers, Sunset Valley, and Don Armstrong, Aurora, who tied at 158.

Rappaport Wins Playoff.

Of course, no qualifying round could be complete without a playoff and Ed Rappaport, Bunker Hill and Clayton Unger, Naperville, shot one hole in the dark for the last place. Rappaport won with a 5. Unger shot into the woods and used three strokes to get out.

Nearly every player dubbed this No. 3 course at Medinah the hardest golf course he ever saw. Since it has been revamped, No. 3 is a real championship layout. The fairways are narrow and sloping and trees line every one except the 10th. And the rough! The greens, with two exceptions, are fast as lightning.

77 Enter Qualifying Round.

A field of 77, containing just about the cream of the Chicago district, shot in the qualifying grind. Jack Westlund of Sunset Ridge, champion, was exempt from qualifying but he did not send in his entry blank, and thus forfeited his title.

Thirty-two qualified for the championship flight, 16 for the first flight and 16 for the second flight. Today two rounds will be played and two tomorrow with the 36 hole final on Thursday.

Peter Miller, Cherry Hill [155], vs. Ed Mauerman, Channel Lake [164].
Johnny Banks, York [159], vs. A. B. Peterson Jr., Edgewater [165].
Yonts Bonnett, Bloomington [163], vs. C. S. Bishop, Glen View [170].
Dick Martin, Sunset Valley [159], vs. J. L. Garard, Flossmoor [166].

E. O. Schildberg, North Shore [164], vs. Ed Rappaport, Bunker Hill [172].

Pairings for the first flight, first round:

EVEN THE FISH ENVY HER

Babe Didrikson Tries Golf; Yes, She's Good at That, Too

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 8.—Of all the remarkable characters in these Olympic games, the one of whom you undoubtedly will be hearing most in time to come, is a working girl from Dallas, Tex., who can run, jump, throw the discus, javelin, baseball and eight pound shot, sew, knit, cook, wash dishes, dive from the thirty foot tower and hit a golf ball 200 yards from the tee.

She can also play croquet, basketball, and football, and her only failure thus far occurred this afternoon at a ping-pong table on the veranda of the Brentwood Country club after 18 holes of golf. She was too enthusiastic for ping-pong and couldn't keep the ball on the table.

Will She Turn Pro?

Babe Didrikson is 19 years old. Her parents came from Norway to Port Arthur, Tex., where she and six other children were born. She holds a job in an insurance office, but may not go back to it now because Hollywood is infested with the kind of people, mostly touts, who want to manage ready made attractions in various phases of the show business, and she may not be able to stand them all off. She doesn't want to turn professional, really, but one windy optimist tells her he can make $350,000 for her, and, of course, himself; another one wants to make a syndicate author and movie star of her, and so forth.

This is all new to her and some one might talk her over from the amateurs into the professional side of the sport business against her favorite wish, which is to win a certain basketball championship back home. Promoters, of course, promise everything and more often than not, pay off in promises, and this new babe of the sport pages, as great a babe as Ruth, is a little confused and tempted, and, I suspect, wobbling slightly.

Wants to Learn the Game.

She showed up at the golf course looking much more feminine than she had seemed in her flannel track overalls at the Olympic stadium, and as the round loafed along, the Babe belting long drives from most of the tees but dubbing some of her iron shots, her personality became clearer. She hit a long one at the eighteenth and turned around to say, "Gee, I sure would like to learn to play this game."

Before that, on one of the tees, a dozen players and caddies, including several girls, gathered around to watch the Babe hit. This was only the eleventh time she had played golf, but, as she says, she plays best at any game when she is under pressure. She whaled one. It flew straight from the club more than 200 yards and they began comparing her with Helen Hicks.

What a Record, Folks!

In the Olympic games, Babe Didrikson set records in the javelin throw and eighty meter hurdles and got credit for a high jump of 5 feet 5½ inches, finishing second because she was adjudged to have crossed the bar in a dive, not a jump, at 5 feet and 5¾ inches.

Two years ago she had never competed in any athletic event. One afternoon, in a sporting goods store, shopping for a pair of gym shoes, she picked up a 50-pound weight and did tricks with it. This caused talk and was, she says, the first feat of her athletic career, as it brought her to the attention of one Melvin J. McCombs, the man who employs her. He had been an athlete himself and now became her coach. Nobody else had anything to do with her athletic development. Several coaches have been admitting responsibility for this lately, but the Babe disowns them all.

Sure She Can Sew.

"Melvin J. McCombs was my only coach," she said. "If there is any

BRAZIL WATER POLO PLAYERS ATTACK REFEREE

Team Barred from Competition.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 8.—Helene Madison crowned a three year campaign of swimming feats today with a long sought Olympic championship over the fastest field of girl swimmers ever assembled, but she had to share the spotlight with a riot which developed when Brazilian water poloists attacked the referee of their game with Germany.

Miss Madison churned the blue-green ripples of Olympic pool to a new Olympic record of 1:06.8 in the 100 meter free style event. All six place winners, three of whom were American girls, thrilled a crowd of 12,000 into thundering cheers by finishing the race in time faster than the Olympic record of 1:11 which was set in 1928 at Amsterdam.

Dutch Girl Second.

Closely pressing the Seattle mermaid in the women's feature race was 14 year old Willemijntje Den Ouden of Holland, whose time was 1:07.8.

Two American girls, Mrs. Eleanor Garatti Saville of San Francisco and Josephine McKim of Los Angeles, touched the finish tiles third and fourth, with Frances Bult of Australia fifth and Miss J. Maakal of South Africa sixth. Mrs. Saville made it a race with the two leaders most of the distance, but could not match Helene or "Willie" in the finishing spurt.

Fight Over Water Polo.

A fist fight provided a dramatic interruption to the day's water polo program, in the first game of which Germany won from Brazil, 7 to 3. The Brazilians early evinced anger at rulings by B. Komadji of Hungary, referee, and once when an official warned Serpa of Brazil out of the pool for a foul, the player refused to go. The spectators sided with the protestants, particularly after more than 30 fouls had been called on the South Americans, to five for Germany.

The battle started when DeSilva, big Brazilian goalie, climbed out of the water at the conclusion of the game. He struck Referee Komjadi, while another player kicked the official with his bare feet. The other Brazilians arrived to back up their teammate, while support for Momjadi came in the person of officials and police.

Two Officials Struck.

Dr. Leo Donath, one of the Hungarian swimming officials, and Les Henry of Pasadena, an American official, both were struck in attempting to aid police. Komadji was knocked into the pit in an end of the enclosure and was kicked before a police escort formed around him.

Komjadi later said the Brazilians have no idea of how to play water polo.

"They don't know the international rules. Because of the bad feeling between Hungarians and Germans, I would have sided with the Brazilians, if I had been picking sides."

Brazil's team was disqualified from further participation in the Olympics following the attack on Komjadi. At the same time L. Da Silva, goalie; Serpa, left back, and Branco, a reserve, were barred from the other swimming events of the games.

Riley Wins Diving.

Mickey Galitzen of the United States, who competes under the name of Mickey Riley, won the spring broad diving championship this morning by a margin of less than three points over Harold Smith, his teammate from the Los Angeles Athletic club.

Richard Degener of the University of Michigan made it one-two-three for the United States by finishing third, well in advance of Alfred Phillips of Canada.

Riley, who was third in the 1928 Olympic games competition, had a point total of 161.38, Smith had 158.54 and Degener 151.82. Phillips collected 134.64.

Veeck Returns, Confident Cubs Will Win Flag

William Veeck, president of the Cubs, who last week gave the baseball world a shock by turning over Rogers Hornsby's athletes to the care of Charley Grimm, seems about ready to start the printers at work on the world series tickets.

Veeck returned home yesterday after trailing the team for two weeks. He predicted that nothing can stop the Cubs now. He rated them the most peppery outfit he'd ever seen. He said all the pitchers are clamoring for work. These same fellows, Warneke excepted, have had their caps knocked off in most of their recent starts, but the change in management apparently has restored their courage. Veeck also repeated that Grimm will be retained as manager for 1933.

The Cubs' boss didn't wait to be asked whether there was anything more he wished to add to the Hornsby dismissal. He came right up with a declaration that the Hornsby case was closed and that there was no necessity for reopening same. As for front office interference with playing field affairs, which precipitated the break, according to Hornsby's version, Veeck said:

"Grimm is the manager of the team."

"What about Hemsley?" he was asked. The youthful catcher, it will be recalled, was fined $100 and shipped to Chicago a couple of days ago because he happened, by request, to stray into a Jersey jail house.

"We'll let him cool his heels for a time and then probably restore him to the pay roll if he promises to take care of himself," was Veeck's reply.

Hornsby also had his troubles with Hemsley and fined him $100 last spring for his first offense, with a promise that the fine would be doubled for each succeeding escapade.

Fonseca Finds Minor Stars Spoken For

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Lew Fonseca, the singing tenor who manages the White Sox, bounced back into town from the ivory jungles yesterday and was delighted to find that he would have to do no master minding until today, when his team resumes relations with the champion Athletics.

The afternoon of leisure, caused by the playing of a double header on Sunday, gave Fonseca time to unfold to Vice President Harry Grabiner some of the ideas he collected while peeking around grandstand corners at American association athletes who might have some major leaguing in their systems.

Ideas, of course, were all that the Sox boss fetched home. He had hoped to bring along one or two players, but they may come later and meanwhile the south side troops can try to win on ideas, if not base hits.

Good Prospects Are Tied Up.

The explanation for Fonseca's failure to bring down even one prospect with his jungle gun is that about everything he wanted to bag was posted with a "I saw him first" sign. In other words, practically all the outstanding athletes he observed with satisfaction were tied up to big league clubs. Some of these claims will be relinquished later and thus certain fellows will be available via purchase, but they'll not be the cream of the lot.

When Fonseca takes a look at his charges today he'll not know them unless they shake off the pleasing habits developed during his ten day absence. They've actually been playing a lot of ball, winning three of their last six starts and taking one of the defeats by the skinny margin of 1 to 0. Good pitching explains this. Then again it is barely possible the boys have awakened to the fact that the season is rapidly waning and they will have to do something in regard to assuring a fair wage claim for next year.

Gregory Is Probable Choice.

For today's game with the Macks, who still are champs, although they don't look it, Fonseca thinks he'll use one of his kid pitchers, possibly Paul Gregory, the Atlanta graduate. Gregory has been around long enough to have a fairly good idea of what the big leagues are like and might as well be given an opportunity to prove that he's profited. George Earnshaw probably will be Connie Mack's pick for this afternoon.

The Macks conclude here tomorrow to be followed by the Browns on Thursday, Saturday, and Sunday.

"We're Through with Track," Say Tolan, Simpson

Columbus, O., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Eddie Tolan and George Simpson, two of the world's most brilliant sprinters, are through with track and athletics in general. Simpson said today in a telephone conversation with members of his family here.

Simpson had announced his retirement from competition in a letter to his family from Los Angeles today, and then over the telephone he told of Tolan's retirement. Neither Tolan, who finished first in both the 100 and 200 meter sprints in the Olympic games, nor Simpson, who finished fourth in the 100 meter dash and second in the 200 meter dash, has plans for the future, but they expect to remain on the coast until the games are completed.

In emphasizing his retirement Simpson told of receiving many requests to run in exhibition meets, all of which he has refused.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COBURG, Ont., Aug. 8.—John Van Voorhis' Cayuga of Rochester, N. Y., today was adjudged the winner of the 160 mile yacht race from Rochester to Coburg for the Freeman cup. Her corrected time was given as 20 hours 33 minutes and 10 seconds.

The race started Saturday and ended yesterday, but, due to a complicated handicap system of timing, the announcement of the winner was delayed.

The Patricia of the Royal Canadian Yacht club of Toronto was second in elapsed time, but the handicap system pushed her back to third place.

3 Year Old Wins Hinsdale Purse at Hawthorne.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Three year olds are knocking the stuffing out of the older horses at Hawthorne these days.

Faireno's victory in the handicap still is fresh in the memory of all Chicago racegoers. Along came Cee Tee, a 3 year old from Charles T. Fisher's Dixiana stable yesterday, to whip a band of older horses and capture the Hinsdale purse.

His victory was a thriller, for in the early stages Mowris, the big bay from J. H. Manheimer's stable, circled his field on the club house turn and sailed out into the lead as if he intended to kill off all those behind him with his spectacular early pace.

Mowris Folds Up.

But the pace was too fast for Mowris instead of being too fast for the others, and by the time the small field of five was rounding the bend he was all out and ready to fold up. So Cee Tee, Annimessic and Impish flew on past him and the only horse Mowris was able to beat was Abraham Bartelstein's Kibitzer, which was pulled up by Jockey T. P. Martin after he began to show signs of lameness coming down the stretch.

It was the second victory Cee Tee has scored at Hawthorne in three starts. He showed plenty of speed and hung on stubbornly in the desperate drive down the stretch in which Impish and Annimessic challenged most of the way. But when they moved up Jockey Tilden urged Cee Tee on to greater speed and he had both of them thoroughly whipped by the time they were nearing the line of finish.

When they thundered past the winning post Cee Tee was a neck in front of Impish, which led Annimessic home by three lengths. Cee Tee had run the mile and a sixteenth under the light impost of 104 pounds in 1:47, not particularly fast, but fast enough to win this kind of a race. Impish had been the favorite and Annimessic was the second choice, so Cee Tee despite the fine form he has displayed here, paid off at $8.36 in the $2 mutuels.

Sir Anthony Pays $37.58.

There were a couple of two-year-old races on the program which created a lot of interest among the spectators, and when two Chicago youngsters bobbed up as the winners of them the crowd of some 9,000 was in a happy mood.

It was Sir Anthony, from young Jim Norris' Peconic stable, which captured the first of the juvenile events. Mr. Norris is a broker and even in a bull market he could hardly have done better than to back this son of Black Toney in the 5½ furlong dash.

When Jockey McDermott got him up in the last jump to beat Little Gertie, a Kentucky filly, by a nose, he paid off in the mutuels at $37.58 to win, $40.18 to place, and $9.30 to show. There had been quite a tip among Norris and friends in the club house section that Sir Anthony was going to run a whale of a race, so a few of the folks made small wagers on him.

Miss Melody Easy Victor.

The other Chicago 2-year-old to win was Miss Melody, from Stuyvesant Peabody's stable. She took the Desdemona purse in right easy fashion by two lengths from Tabaku and the Kentucky star, Jessie Dear.

Miss Melody was a heavily backed favorite. In the early stages Tabaku, with a flash of early speed that carried her far to the front, was the pacemaker. Soon after the stretch run started Jockey Critchfield brought Miss Melody around on the outside and challenged Tabaku.

The brush between the two fleet fillies was a dingdong affair for about a furlong. Then Miss Melody displayed more gameness and went to the front. She drew steadily away in the late stages. In the mutuels she paid $5.10 to win, most everybody in the crowd holding a ticket on the daughter of Prince of Wales, which looks like and runs very much like her famous daddy did a few years back.

Spanish Play Must Carry 120 Saturday

Spanish Play must carry top weight in the Illinois Owners handicap, a $10,000 mile and a sixteenth race, to be run at Hawthorne Saturday. His impost is 120 pounds, two more than Polydorus is asked to pack. The weights as announced last night by Racing Secretary Joe McLennan are as follows:

Jockey H. Robie, among the leading riders in the country last year, has joined up with the Chappel brothers stable of Rockford. They bought his contract from John Marsch of Chicago yesterday.

The idle baseball players helped to swell the crowd at Hawthorne. Lew Fonseca, Eddie Collins, Bing Miller and about a dozen other White Sox and Athletics lined the rails.

TROTTERS AND PACERS RETURN TO CHICAGO

LASKY PAWS AND MAULS JONES FOR BOXING VICTORY

Art Lasky, Minneapolis heavyweight, pawed and wrestled better than Tom Jones, Chicago Negro light-heavyweight, and won a ten round decision in the windup of the boxing show at White City last night. After the third round there was little action, the boxers appearing too weary to continue past the limit prescribed for amateurs.

Jones was down for no count and a two count in the first round and in the fourth was shoved through the ropes for a nine count. In the tenth he was floored again for four seconds.

Buck Everett, Golden Gloves graduate from Gary, fought an eight round draw with Dick Daniels, Minneapolis heavyweight, in the best bout of the show. After piling up an early lead, Everett was bounced off the canvas for a count of nine in the fourth round.

About 1,200 attended. Receipts were $970.

GRAND TIME WINS FROM LITTLE LAD BY HALF LENGTH

Stewards Disallow Claim of Foul at Saratoga.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—William Ziegler Jr.'s Grand Time, which landed second back of Happy Gal in The Flash on opening day, captured the Saratoga Sales stake this afternoon. The test was at five and one-half furlongs and is for two year olds, which were sold as yearlings a year ago.

A son of High Time and La Grande Armee, Grand Time brought $3,000 as a yearling and earned $3,375 by his victory today. In addition a cup was presented to the owner of the winner by E. J. Tranter. There was some doubt after the finish to whom Mr. Tranter would do his presenting.

Pascuma Claims Foul.

Grand Time scored decisively enough by half a length and going handily, but Tony Pascuma, rider of J. J. Robinson's Little Lad, which finished second, lodged a claim of foul. The stewards called Jockey H. Elston, rider of the winner, but made no change in the order of finish.

Little Lad was impeded, but no fault could be attached to Grand Time as Elston's ride with the horse was within the rules. Taking the lead as the result of a smart break, Elston hung close to the rail but not right alongside it as the mud was deeper there. Pascuma attempted to go up through this narrow opening and was bothered at the far turn.

Heads Into Stretch.

Continuing in front Grand Time swung into the stretch still with something to spare and still a slight distance off the fence. Once more Pascuma mad the risky move of attempting to slide through Between Grand Time and the rail and once more Grand Time was there as a partial block.

O'CALLAGHAN OUT OF OLYMPIC RING; THUMB IS INJURED

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Dr. Patrick O'Callaghan, Ireland's colorful all around athlete and two time Olympic hammer throwing champion, today exhibited a severely sprained right thumb to explain his withdrawal from the Olympic boxing championships.

"I got that sparring with just a middleweight," the big Irishman complained. "It also kept me out of the decathlon, in which I think I could have placed at least among the first four."

Dr. O'Callaghan, offered a committee post for Ireland by the International Amateur Athletic federation, declined with thanks, saying he had "too many other things to do."

CUBS' HOPES FOR PENNANT SOAR; AND WHY NOT?

Now if They Can Beat the Giants Today—

Take the three cornered situation among the Cubs, the Phils and the Pirates, for instance:

The Pirates this year have beaten the Cubs 10 out of 17 games, and the Cubs have beaten the Phillies 10 out of 15 games, but the Phillies have beaten the Pirates 11 out of 15. It's like trying to figure a championship from comparative football scores.

Here's Another Odd One.

And here's some more contrast: The Cubs have beaten the Braves 9 out of 13 games; the Dodgers have beaten the Cubs 9 out of 16 games; but the Braves have beaten the Dodgers 12 out of 18 games.

The Cubs so far have won five of the seven season series in the following ratios:

Cubs vs. Boston—Won 9, lost 4.
Cubs vs. Philadelphia—Won 10, lost 5.
Cubs vs. Giants—Won 7, lost 5.
Cubs vs. St. Louis—Won 8, lost 7.
Cubs vs. Cincinnati—Won 9, lost 8.
Cubs vs. Pittsburgh—Won 7, lost 10.
Cubs vs. Brooklyn—Won 7, lost 9.

No other team in the first five in the league except the Cubs has lost more than 6 games to the Pirates, and the Cubs are the only team in the first five which has lost as many as nine games to the Dodgers. The Cubs' one game advantage over the tail end Reds and the seventh place Cardinals is not consistent. Briefly, the ability of the Cubs to beat the contending Phils and Braves has made them what they are today.

BLACKHAWK PARK SEEKS 2D TITLE IN TRIBUNE SWIM

'31 Team Champion Puts 57 in Competition.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Blackhawk park will try for another team championship in THE TRIBUNE'S 100 yard races, which will be held Sunday at the Lincoln park lagoon. Last year in the second annual races Blackhawk scored the greatest number of points.

Blackhawk park is located in the northwest park district and the 57 swimmers are from that section of Chicago. The team entry was filed by Frank M. Kalteux, a park commissioner. The team is coached by Elwood Peavey and Isabella Smith.

Among the stars on the squad are T. Gorydon of Loyola university, runnerup in the Central A. A. U. 50 yard race; James Dawson, 50 yard breast stroke champion from Austin High school; William Swenson, Austin High, 220 yard free style titleholder; Mike Valentine, Carol Magee, I. Cornelies and Frank Kalteux Jr.

Cy Dwarkin, captain of the Schurz High school 1928 city championship swimming team, will represent the O'Keefe Boosters in class E of THE TRIBUNE races. Ray O'Keefe, who swam the fastest race in his division last year, although beaten in the finals in slower time, will be back.

Two former champions who have moved up to advanced age divisions also will compete for the boosters. They are Robert Brundage, winner in boys' class C in 1931 and Mike Howlett, winner of boys' class C in 1930. Among the best of the class E swimmers is Henry Griffin, three times winner of the national high school 220 yard free style title.

Although some of Chicago's fastest swimmers will try for the gold medals, the first place awards, the lower age divisions are wide open. For one thing, little is known of the abilities of the boys and girls from 11 to 15 years of age. This naturally stimulates competition. For at least 90 per cent of the entries THE TRIBUNE races will be their first competition.

Each contestant who completes his or her 100 yard swim will receive a gold merit button. Fifteen hundred of these buttons have been ordered. These prizes are in addition to the thirty medals and the team trophy.

More than twenty entries have been returned because the slips did not have the age division checked. These should be returned not later than tomorrow at midnight, the deadline for entering the meet. No post entries will be accepted.

Contestants' numbers will be given out Sunday morning at the Lincoln Park Boat club between 10 a. m. and 12:30 p. m. The first preliminary heat in boys' class A will start at 1:30.

Senators Send Indians Into 3d Place, 7-6

Cleveland, O., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Slipshod work afield cost the Indians their first defeat in their last seven starts today, Washington scoring a 7 to 6 victory on only five hits. The defeat sent Cleveland back to third place, a half game behind the idle Philadelphia Athletics.

Monte Weaver got credit for his 18th victory of the season, although the Tribe batted him off the mound in an eighth inning rally that fell just one run short of tying the score.

The Senators scored five times in the second on three hits, two walks, and errors by Averill and Burnett. During the excitement Sam Rice executed one of the rarities of modern baseball, a clean steal of home.

WESTERN ELEVEN BEATS EAST, 7-6, IN OLYMPIC GAME

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—A team of western collegians from Southern California, Stanford and California won from a similar Harvard-Yale-Princeton eleven, 7 to 6, in a hard fought effort to exemplify American varsity football for the foreigners attending the Olympic games tonight. Forty-three thousand turned out to witness the game under lights in the stadium. The west scored its touchdown late in the fourth quarter when Gaius Shaver bucked over on four successive tries from the east's 4 yard line.

Shaver's touchdown crowned a 65 yard march on straight football, in which the Trojan star carried the ball on eight of the 15 plays, and featured by bucking through the eastern line into the open field for a 21 yard run to the 4 yard line. Kerwin place kicked the seventh point, which won the game.

The east scored on the second play of the last quarter when Mays of Harvard tried a 22 yard field goal, which rolled off to the right and two western players, instead of falling on the ball, fiddled with it in an effort to scoop it up and run.

Strange of Yale finally did scoop it up and rolled across the goal with it for the eastern touchdown, but May's attempted drop kick was blocked.

Cards Score Double Win Over Phillies

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 8.—(AP)—The Phillies' pennant hopes were given another jolt today when they dropped two games to the St. Louis Cardinals for their fourth successive defeat. The world champions won the opener, 7 to 6, and then took the nightcap, 6 to 4, in 11 innings.

Two three-run rallies, one in the eighth and the other in the ninth, wiped out a 6 to 1 lead established by the Phillies in the seventh to give the Cards the first game. Jimmy Collins' 18th home run with Jim Bottomley on base in the eleventh provided the winning margin in the second.

In the first game Sylvester Johnson sailed along for six innings, holding the Phillies to one hit. The Philadelphia sluggers got busy in the seventh and, with Don Hurst parking his 20th home run in the bleachers, and George Davis also hitting one, the Phillies scored all their runs. Phil Collins, Jumbo Elliott and Berly were unable to hold the advantage.

Elliott took the mound again in the nightcap but failed to hold a four-run lead and was relieved by Collins. Dizzy Dean replaced Derringer in the box for the Cards in the sixth and allowed the Phillies only two hits in the last six innings, striking out seven men. Scores:

SWIMMERS DENY MARRIAGE; ADMIT THEY'RE ENGAGED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 8.—Margaret Ravior of Philadelphia and George Young, long distance swimmers, denied today that they are married, but admitted they are engaged.

Rumors have been prevalent around Johnny Walker's camp, where both are in training for the Canadian national exhibition swims, that they were married secretly at Hamilton.

NEWS TO FATHER.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—"It's news to me," said George Ravior today, when informed that his daughter, Margaret, was engaged to George Young of Toronto. Ravior added that he doubted whether Miss Ravior would become engaged without his knowledge or consent.

Ravior is a traffic policeman here.

Woods and Waters By Bob Becker

Outdoor fans who take cross-country hikes in Chicagoland and commonly observe woodchucks in the fields, along hedgerows or drainage ditches, may wonder why this marmot is not called field hog instead of woodchuck. It appears that he likes the fields as well as the woods.

However, a few days ago when we were hiking through a patch of oak timber west of Wheaton, Ill., we were given a demonstration of how this animal behaves in the woods. We started through the timber to see if we could see any crows. Suddenly we caught a fleeting glimpse of an animal going up a small tree as if it were very much at home above the ground. The vegetation was quite dense and we were puzzled at first. The animal was too large for a squirrel, and not dark enough for a raccoon. Running up to the tree we found a young woodchuck hugging the trunk.

Apparently we had surprised this animal while it was browsing through the woods and, being some distance from a burrow, it had taken to a tree for safety. About 100 yards from the spot where we ran into this woodchuck was a depression in the woods partially filled with rubbish where groundhogs excavated their burrows. Possibly this young animal came from this colony.

Looking over the history of the groundhog, first described by Linneaus in the year 1758, we find an Illinois naturalist reporting that the animals were scarce in northern Illinois many years ago. Then they increased rapidly. One reads in a scientific treatise on woodchucks written many decades ago that ' they are inhabitants of the woods, where they occupy the place that the spermophiles do on the prairies." Then the naturalist continues, "here [in Illinois] I have most commonly observed them in the heaviest timber."

Horseback riders in Chicagoland dislike the woodchuck, for, in riding across a field or through a patch of woods the horse may step into a woodchuck hole. These holes may be entrances to elaborate systems of underground burrows and galleries. One enterprising scientist in Ohio excavated nine woodchuck burrows a few years ago in order to determine just how expert these ground hogs are at the business of tunneling. He found the longest system 47 feet 11 inches in length, including all burrows and galleries, while the shortest was 6 feet 8 inches.

Tramblie and Saltis Finish Drills for Tomorrow's Bout

Bud Saltis, Logan Square middleweight, and Ray Tramblie of Rockford, Ill., finished drills yesterday at the Arcade gymnasium for their ten round bout tomorrow night at Northwest stadium.

Tramblie sparred three rounds with Mickey Patrick of East Chicago and one against Billy Gladstone, local lightweight, who clashes with Glen Camp of Kewanee, Ill., in a six round supporting bout on the card. Patrick will leave today for Milwaukee where he boxes Tait Littman Thursday night. Tramblie weighed 159 pounds after the workout, six pounds under the agreed weight.

Saltis boxed four rounds with Bobby Allen, west side bantamweight. He sparred with Dick Daniels, Minneapolis, Minn., heavyweight, and Buck Everett of Gary, Ind., all last week to develop his right hand, which has knocked cut Ted Ross and Joe Sharkey. Bud boxed with Allen to improve his speed. After the drill he scaled 163 pounds.

There are three bouts at six rounds and two at four rounds on the supporting card.

Joe Triner, president of the West Side Boxing club, said yesterday that Ray Miller and Barney Ross, lightweights, have agreed to fight at Sparta stadium on Aug. 26. Following his match at New York, Aug. 19, Miller will leave for Chicago. Ross will head the West Side club's show next week against Tommy Grogan, Omaha battler.

The Illinois Athletic commission yesterday sanctioned Aug. 17 for the O. F. O'Brill Athletic club's first boxing show at Mills stadium. The West Side club requested the same date, but it was refused. The O'Brill club's second date is Aug. 31.

GOODMAN SIGNS FOR BOUT WITH ITALIAN BOXER

George Goodman, Chicagoland 118-pound amateur boxing champion, today agreed to become a member of the Chicago team which will face Italy's team at the Chicago Stadium a week from next Monday.

Goodman was Intercity Golden Glove champion in 1931 and was a member of this year's team that boxed the Germans several weeks ago at Soldiers' field. He lost the decision to Ziglarski, only because he was floored in the first round. Despite this setback, Goodman came on like the champion he is, and in a sensational rally all but squared accounts.

CHOCOLATE WILL TOUR EUROPE, BUT SEEKS TITLE FIRST

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Kid Chocolate, world's junior lightweight champion, is contemplating a trip to Europe, where he will participate in a number of bouts.

First, however, Chocolate's manager, Luis Gulterrez, hopes to arrange a battle with Tony Canzoneri for the lightweight championship. Gulterrez said today that if his plans for the affair with Canzoneri fall through he will take his boxer to Europe in a short time.

Is Nurmi Pro or Amateur? A.A.U. Silent

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 8.—(AP)—The International Amateur Athletic federation today voted itself blanket power, 13 to 12, to suspend any athlete or nation from amateur competition, and then decided to reconsider the entire issue and defer final action for two years.

A committee of seven was named to consider the whole question and report at the 1934 congress of the federation.

The proposal to change the rules was an outgrowth of the case of Paavo Nurmi and the vote at today's session indicated Finland had rallied support in its opposition to the plan giving the federation power such as was exercised when Nurmi was suspended last April. He was subsequently denied the right to participate in the Olympic games, but fellow countrymen pointed out today that although the great runner remains under suspension he is still an amateur.

The United States voted for the amendment, but the delegation was not entirely in agreement.

Finland's delegates proposed to censure the executive council of the I. A. A. F. for alleged illegal proceedings in suspending Nurmi and barring him from the Olympics, but this motion was lost.

After the morning session, although no action had been taken to lift Nurmi's suspension, Finland's representatives expressed the definite stand that they would continue to permit Paavo to compete as an amateur, at home or abroad.

Avery Brundage of Chicago, president of the A. A. U., when asked whether his organization would accept Nurmi's entry for amateur competition, declined to commit himself. He indicated he did not consider the Nurmi case settled or Paavo's status quite clear.

PARKER LEADS JUNIOR NET STARS INTO 3D ROUND

Culver, Ind., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Frank Parker, blasting his way through two matches, 6-0, 6-0, led the advance of the favorites today as 100 youths opened play for the national boys and junior tennis crown at Culver Military academy.

Parker, who dropped only nine points in the first match and thirteen in the second, displayed brilliant tennis as he defeated Robert Gruber of Culver and Justin Harris of Wyomissing, Pa., who faltered under the steady rain of placement that Parker hammered across the net.

Parker's entrance into the third round was followed later in the day by the advancement of all other seeded players.

Jack Lynch, the defending champion, who is seeded sixth in the tournament draw, began the defense of his title impressively. His hard base line drives routed Paul Siemon, a Cincinnati youth, 6-0, 6-1. Charles Hunt, Marco Hecht, Jay Cohn, and Gene Mako, a group of favorites, also made their way into the third bracket today.

WILSON PRAISES MIDWEST STARS AT OLYMPICS

Kenneth L. [Tug] Wilson, athletic director at Northwestern university, returned yesterday from the Olympic games with praise for athletes of the central states. Track and field men of Big Ten and other schools of the midwest more than held their own with athletes of other sections, he said.

In his three weeks' sojourn on the coast, Wilson found no traces of a depression and in the big attendance at the Olympic games he foresaw healthy signs for the football season.

Helen Moody to Pass Up U. S. Meet; Remains in Paris

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 8.—Helen Wills Moody, the world's ranking woman tennis player, notified officials of the United States Lawn Tennis association today that she will not be present next week to defend her American title.

Mrs. Moody's message confirmed reports that she and her husband, Frederick S. Moody, would remain in Paris for several months, where she plans to take an apartment and continue her study of painting. Mrs. Moody has exhibited paintings and drawings both in America and abroad.

"Heretofore, I never could stay in Paris more than a few weeks," Helen said. "Now, with Mr. Moody here, we feel we might as well remain a while and enjoy ourselves."

She said she would keep on with her tennis and might play in some minor tournaments, both outdoors and indoors.

Babe Tries Golf, and Can She Play It!

credit in that, he is entitled to it."

"Can you sew?"

"You think you're foolin'?" the Babe said. "Yes, I can sew. I sewed me a dress with seven box pleats in the front and some more in back—a sport dress it was—that won first prize in the Texas state fair at Austin last year."

"Cook?"

"Cook some," she said. "Like gettin' dinner if I have to and such cookin'. But I'm better at washin' dishes."

Always Confident.

"Do you ever have any doubt of yourself in anything you try?"

"No, I generally know what I can do. I don't seem ever to get tired. Sleepy, but not dog-tired. I sleep more than most people."

It is my purpose to suggest that Babe Didrikson is not the boastful party that she may have seemed to be from some of her isolated remarks about herself which have found their way into print during the Olympic games. In Chicago, as a single handed team, she won the women's A. A. U. championship, but when she alludes to that she is not a feminine Joie Ray bragging. You ask to know something about her. Instead of sucking her finger and simpering, she tells you how it is. That's fair.

All Gold Medals—but One.

As, for instance, "Do you think you can dive?"

"I know I can dive. I can dive off that high tower. I am going to fancy dive. I sure love to hit that water."

"Have you a lot of medals?"

"Yes, a lot, but the collection is spoiled now. That silver medal for the high jump spoiled it. All the rest were gold—firsts."

The Babe weighs about 120 pounds and her athletic style generally resembles that of the good male athletes in all the sports which she has tried. She is lean and flat, with big arms and leg muscles, large hands and the rather angular jaw which the magazine illustrators have established as the standard for cowboys.

May Be a Golf Champion.

This chin of the Babe's, the thin set lips, the straight, sharp profile, the sallow sun-tan, undisguised by rouge, regarded in connection with her amazing athletic prowess, are at first acquaintance, likely to do her no justice. But the mouth can relax and the eyes smile and the greatest girl athlete in the world just now, with a special liking for men's games, is as feminine as hair-pins. She is a great competitor, come all of a sudden to prominence, who may yet add to her Olympic championships of the track and field and her sewing championship won in the Texas state fair a title in the fancy dives and a national golf championship.

She scored a 43 coming in and her putts were her only serious fault after just ten rounds in her life, with strange clubs, on a strange course, sometimes with a gallery looking on.

I thought you might want to make her further acquaintance to this extent, because Babe Didrikson is going to be prominently before us for quite a spell now.

touch into the solemnities of Olympic competition when one of the visiting German sports reporters plunged into the pool fully clothed.

His object in doing do was to win a $100 bet from another German, but the stands at the swimming stadium jumped to the conclusion that one of the diving judges had fallen in, and cheered. The diving formalities paused until the wagerer finally swam out himself. Attachés threatened him with arrest, but the German merely smiled and nothing more was done about that.

Record Beaten Four Times.

The Olympic record crashed four times in five heats in the qualifying round of the 400 meter free style. A 19 year old Japanese youth, Takashi Yokoyama of Waseda university, led the record onslaught with victory in 4:53.2. He was followed by James Gilhula, American who placed second in the heat in 4:53.3, and Jean Taris, Frenchman, who won another heat in 4:53.2. Buster Crabbe, American, and A. [Boy] Charlton, Australian, won other heats in 4:59.8. The world record of 4:47 will be threatened tomorrow and Wednesday in the concluding heats.

H. Barthels, United States, did not compete, having been removed to a hospital because of sudden illness, and A. Zorilla of Argentina, Olympic champion of 1928, also was scratched. The Olympic record, which was so conclusively superseded today, stood at 5:01 6-30. It was set by Zorilla four years ago.

U. S. Loses in Field Hockey.

As a result of the preliminary heats, three Japanese, the two Americans, two Italians, two Australians and one each from France and Canada survive for tomorrow's semi-final swim.

In the day's other events the Japanese field hockey team downed the somewhat makeshift American eleven, 9 goals to 2, after leading, 4 to 0, at half time.

The gymnasts of six nations massed in the stadium grass oval for day's first colorful pageant, and in the individual free exercise competition, Pelle of Hungary was victor with 28.8 points, Meiz of Switzerland second with 28.3, and Lertrori, Italy, third. The best showing by an American was that of F. Haubold, who tied for fourth with Neri of Italy with 27 points.

Rowing Starts Today.

The eight oared crews entered for the Olympic championship all took a turn over the 2,000 meter course in Long Beach harbor today, and the other members of the Olympic navy also unlimbered for tomorrow's opening rowing events, in which four-man shells with coxswains from seven nations will face the starter.

The University of California crew which, as lineal successor of the championship Golden Bear eight of 1928, is representing the United States in the big boat race, devoted most of the day's practice to starts. Coach Ky Ebright said the Berkeley boys probably would row twice tomorrow, and might take a short row Wednesday morning before their race on Wednesday afternoon.

8,500 OF ILLINOIS TROOPS IN FIELD AT CAMP GRANT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Bugle blasts, sounding in a dozen unit areas this morning, started the thousands of Illinois National Guardsmen at Camp Grant upon the first day of a two weeks' schedule of intensive training.

All over the reservation citizen soldiers only a few hours away from office desks, machine shops, farms, and other civilian occupations, were marching in close order drills, horses champed at bits in stalls, artillery harness, saddle leather squeaked, and a buzz of activity proclaimed that once again the 8,500 peacetime members of the 33d Division had taken the field to further familiarize themselves with the duties of national defense.

Program Not Completed.

Meanwhile, at division headquarters, where planes of the 108th Observation Squadron drone above at intervals, Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn and members of staff already were turning their attention to arrangements for governor's day, to be held on Saturday, Aug. 13.

Though the complete program has not been outlined as yet, time of the divisional review, at which Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, as commander-in-chief, will inspect the troops, has been set for 11 a. m. Maj. Frank Parker, U. S. A., commanding the Sixth Corps regular army area, will also inspect the division on governor's day at 3 p. m. On governor's day there will occur the judging of the best soldier in the camp and the awarding of the Milton J. Foreman trophy to him.

March to Kishwaukee River.

Infantry organizations today were making preparations for marching to the rifle range on the banks of the Kishwaukee river where they will fire their regular training courses.

Artillerymen this year are denied the opportunity to fire their guns since there is no range here suitable. In other years the artillery brigade has trained at Sparta, Wis.

The 108th observation squadron's senior officer and youngest enlisted man are father and son. Maj. Merrill D. Mann's son, Henry, a graduate of Culver Military academy, a sophomore at Purdue university and a second lieutenant in the officers' reserve corps, is a private in the observation squadron.

SWIFT ESTATE IN EAST BOUGHT BY MRS. MOORE

Prides Crossing, Mass., Aug 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Ada Small Moore, widow of William H. Moore, New York financier, today purchased "Swiftmoor," the $1,500,000 estate of the late E. C. Swift, member of the family of Chicago packers.

The property, one of the show places of the North Shore, adjoins Mrs. Moore's summer home, "Rookmarge." The Swift estate was sold under foreclosure proceedings last Wednesday to a Boston bank which held a mortgage on the property.

"Swiftmoor," up to the time of the foreclosure sale, was in the hands of Mrs. Alex Christian Presen Wichfelt, daughter of the packer.

HAROLD TEEN—JOSIE SPEAKS OUT OF TURN

COMPOSER LEFT $100,000 ESTATE, HIS WILL SHOWS

Fortune in Royalties Owed Malie.

Instead of being penniless, Tommy Malie, the armless composer of popular song lyrics, left an estate of $100,000, it was discovered yesterday when his will was offered for probate before Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Horner. His fortune, however, consists of uncollected royalties on his compositions.

Attorney Carlyle S. Guibor appeared for Willard Herring, 1616 North Harding avenue, to whom Malie left all his property in a will executed only a few months before his death on July 31 in the county hospital.

Unpaid Royalties.

The lawyer said that he wished to expedite the will action because government agents are investigating books of song publishing companies alleged to have withheld the royalties.

The will was not approved yesterday because of a technicality which may rob Herring of the estate because Herring's wife, Carmen, was a witness to the will. The estate may revert to the State of Illinois, if no heirs are found.

Estate Left in Trust.

The will of George C. Bour, south side real estate broker, disposing of his $435,000 estate, was approved by Caplan yesterday. After making bequests of $500 each to three grandchildren, and leaving his personal effects to a daughter, Mrs. Abbie C. Phillips, 6736 Jeffery avenue, the will created a trust with the residual estate. The income and eventually the principal will be divided among Mrs. Phillips, her three brothers, Joseph, James and John, all of whom reside with her, and her daughter, Maude. The trust terminates in 15 years.

DAVID S. ROSE OF MILWAUKEE, EX-MAYOR, DIES

Democratic, He Served Five Terms.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Death ended the career today of David Stuart Rose, 76 years old, five times Democratic mayor of Milwaukee.

Mr. Rose died in the Milwaukee General hospital after an extended illness. Two amputations, one that of a toe on July 12, and the other that of his right leg last Friday, were performed in an effort to stem the spreading of gangrene.

Organizes Torch Light Parade.

As candidate for mayor and as mayor seeking reëlection, Mr. Rose organized torch light parades, marching clubs, and conventions, and these colorful strategies, coupled with a vote getting personality, carried him to Milwaukee's municipal leadership time and again. He came out of a political nowhere—so far as Milwaukeeans were concerned—in 1898 when, 42 years old, he announced himself as a Democratic candidate for mayor. Milwaukee was Republican.

Yet his entrance was opportune. Dissension split the Republican ranks. Mr. Rose was elected. He was returned to the mayoralty chair three successive times, in 1904 defeating Guy D. Goff, former United States senator from West Virginia.

Defeated by Becker.

In 1906 Mr. Rose took his first beating, at the hands of Sherburn M. Becker, the "boy mayor," but returned two years later and was elected again. In 1910 he lost to Emil Seidel. Fourteen years later he essayed a comeback against the present mayor, Daniel Hoan, but was defeated.

As mayor Mr. Rose was aggressive, doing the unexpected thing at the opportune time.

Practices Law in California.

After 1910 Mr. Rose went to California, where he practiced law, organized Pacific steamship lines, and generally made himself prominent. He also went to the orient.

Mr. Rose was born at Darlington, Wis. He became a lawyer and before coming here served two terms as mayor of Darlington and one as county judge. He practiced law in Milwaukee before running for mayor. He was married three times, his third wife being Rosemary Whitney, an actress, who divorced him in 1929 and who now lives in New York. A son and daughter survive.

YOUTH AND GIRL ARE KILLED AS CAR OVERTURNS

Louis Dezaro, 20 years old, 524 North Marshfield avenue, and an 18 year old girl were killed early this morning when their automobile, containing a second man, swerved to avoid a city garbage truck at Ashland avenue and 23d street, and overturned.

In their early investigation the police were unable to identify the dead girl definitely. Gus La Rocco, 22 years old, of 1327 West Erie street, the third passenger in the car told Maxwell street police that he knew her only as Sylvia, but from other sources the police said they had information that identified her tentatively as Sylvia Semenzia. La Rocco was not hurt. He was held for the inquest.

These two deaths and three others increased the Cook county motor toll for the year to 694 since Jan. 1. The other victims:

William Austin, 2633 North Drake avenue. Killed yesterday when his automobile was hit by a Michigan Central freight train near Matteson. The crossing is protected only by sign posts.

Oliver Howell, 36 years old, colored, 6029 South Racine avenue. Died in the county hospital. The automobile he was driving overturned Sunday when he was stricken by a sudden illness at Halsted and 114th streets.

Barrows, chairman of the department of geography, will speak at the funeral services. The body will be cremated in Oakwoods cemetery.

Funeral Today for Fair Employe Killed by Bolt

Funeral services for Marvin J. Mullen, 28 years old, 6318 North Western avenue, an employé of the Century of Progress, will be held today at St. Timothy's church, Washtenaw and Devon avenues, with burial in Calvary cemetery. Mullen was killed by lightning last Friday while on duty on Northerly island. Six fellow employés will serve as pall bearers.

Byrd's Aid on South Pole Trip Dies in Rowing Trip

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Wenzel Voitech, who shared the dangers and hardships of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's expedition to the south pole, met his death yesterday in a rowing trip on the Elbe. His boat capsized and Voitech, stunned when his head struck the gunwale, was unable to save himself.

Protests Wrigley Estate Value in Arizona as Low

Phoenix, Ariz., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Neri Osborn Jr., special inheritance tax collector, filed a protest in Superior court today against the value placed by appraisers upon the estate of William Wrigley, Chicago chewing gum and baseball magnate, who died at his home here last winter. Osborn charged the appraisement of the Wrigley estate in Arizona of $1,131,846.46 "is entirely too low." He asks that a new appraisal of the property be ordered.

Total unit sales for the six months ended May 31, 1932, were 6,516, against 34,045 for the corresponding 1931 period and 13,628 for the six months to May 31, 1930.

In June, 1932, retail prices were reduced sharply. On June 16, 1932, unfilled orders totaled 1,800 cars, and orders were coming in at the rate of 170 daily. The company built 3,232 cars in June, 1932, against 3,219 in June, 1931. In may, 1932, it shipped 348 cars.

Net sales for the six months to May 31, 1932, were $8,016,000, and net loss was $144,000. Net sales for the corresponding 1931 period were $27,213,000, and net profit was $2,361,000, or $12.09 per share.

Unit sales in the fiscal year ended Nov. 30, 1931, were the highest in the company's history. Dollar volume of sales and net profit, although greater than in the preceding year, fell short of the Nov. 30, 1929, year because of lower selling prices and narrower profit margin.

Sales for the 1931 fiscal year were $37,086,000, and net income was $3,580,000, or $17.64 per share. For the year ended Nov. 30, 1930, sales were $24,114,000, and net income was $1,018,000, or $5.43 per share. Sales in the 1929 fiscal year were $37,551,000, and net income was $3,603,000, or $21.23 per share.

On May 31, 1932, current assets were $12,518,000, and current liabilities were $786,000. Cash and government securities alone were $4,249,000. The company had no bank loans.

There is no funded debt. Capitalization consists solely of 202,909 shares of stock.

Cash dividends of $4 a year have been paid since October, 1927, and additional stock dividends of 8 per cent a year since January, 1928.

The stock is medium grade.

REPORT ON FOUR BOND ISSUES OF SHERIDAN TRUST

New South Side Group Formed.

BY AL CHASE.

Four more reports on defaulted real estate bond issues underwritten by the Sheridan Trust and Savings bank were made public last night by Arthur Wirtz, chairman of the bondholders' protective committee. These were all medium sized issues, the largest being that of the Glasser building, at 4022-24 Sheridan road, an $80,000 underwriting, since reduced to $78,000. The rate was 6½ per cent.

The members of the protective committee, in addition to Mr. Wirtz, are John P. Hooker, former president of the Chicago Real Estate board and a member of the realty firm of Hooker & Slosson; Ernest Ridgeway, receiver for the bank; O. P. Curran Jr. and August Torpe Jr.

The Glasser building, which contains two large stores, five offices and twenty-eight rooms, operated as a hotel, has had its net rentals turned over to the trustee under court order. An operating statement shows $2,565 rental income for the first four months of 1932 and $2,121 operating expenses for the same period, leaving cash on hand, $444. Back taxes are in default from 1929. The building was 75 per cent rented on June 1.

Lawrence Building.

Rents from the Lawrence building, at 4044 Lawrence avenue, have been assigned, thus avoiding the expense of a receiver. The rental income from December, 1931, to April, 1932, inclusive, was $1,359; with operating expenses, $890, leaving cash on hand, May 1, $469. The three story building contains two stores and eight apartments. The original bond issue was for $52,500, at 6½ per cent, since reduced to $49,500.

The Robey-Ainslie Garage bond issue was for $45,000, at 6 per cent, and has been reduced to $40,000. The Citizens State Bank of Chicago, receiver, reports a rental income of $300 for March, April, and May, 1932; operating expenses of $50 and cash on hand, $250. The building, at 4927 North Robey street, has a capacity of 100 cars. As the Citizens State bank has closed, a successor receiver will be named.

The Kruggel Building bond issue was for $35,000, at 6½ per cent, since reduced to $29,000. The Chicago Title and Trust company, receiver, states that it found the property vacant and in poor condition and therefore has no report to make as to income. There are no funds available to apply to back taxes now in default. The two story building is at 5420 Broadway and contains stores and flats.

Paul Krueger Property.

Harry J. Reynolds, receiver for the Paul Krueger property, at 3811-17 Fullerton avenue, states that on July 21, 1932, there was $1,112 cash on hand. His statement of receipts and disbursements from April 1, to July 21, 1932, is as follows:

Receipts—
Gross income		$1,694
Disbursements—
Operating expenses	$446
Insurance premiums	136
Total disbursements		582
Cash in receiver's hands, July 21, 1932		$1,112

This was an $85,000 6 per cent issue of the Kimbell Trust and Savings bank and is secured by a three story building containing four stores and twelve apartments and in addition a six car garage. The occupancy of the property on July 1, 1932, is reported to have been 80 per cent.

Bonds were called on this issue on Jan. 29, 1932. Chester R. Davis is chairman of the bondholders' protective committee.

PIT CELEBRATES CLOSING ORDER BY SHARP RALLY

Trading Is Liveliest in Some Months.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Yesterday was the day on which the Chicago Board of Trade was to have begun its sixty day suspension as a contract market, the penalty imposed by a commission of three cabinet members because of the board's refusal to admit the Farmers National Grain corporation, farm board coöperative, to clearing house privileges.

Traders celebrated by staging one of the most active grain markets in months. Under the law the Board of Trade is permitted to operate as a contract market pending an appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. The suspension ordered to begin yesterday, therefore, was postponed pending the decision of the court.

Grain Prices Advance.

It was a day which saw the prices of wheat, corn, oats, and rye pushed to new highs for the current movement. It was also a day in which cotton soared $5 a bale on the strength of a bullish government report.

Wheat prices rose to an average of about 10 cents per bushel above the season's low and about 8 cents above quotations five days ago.

After the close Peter B. Carey, president of the Board of Trade, stated in an interview that in his opinion much of the recent strength in wheat arose from the conviction among traders that the farm board's Grain Stabilization corporation had just about completed the liquidation of its wheat futures.

Wheat Pit Jammed.

The wheat pit was jammed and there was more action in it than has occurred for months. Excitement rose to a peak at the close at 1:15 yesterday afternoon when scores of traders were frantically gesturing their last transactions just as the gong sounded.

In Mr. Carey's opinion the rise in grain prices has put new hopes in the hearts of American producers.

"Current price levels for wheat," he said after the close, "are still below the cost of production and the grain grower is still a long way from prosperity."

Although declining as an officer of the exchange to comment on possible future trends, he called attention to the fact that although wheat has risen in price about ten cents this rise started from the lowest point in many decades.

Reason for Advance.

Buoyancy in wheat during recent sessions Mr. Carey attributed to the general belief that farm board holdings of both futures and cash wheat had declined to a small amount compared with the 329,000,000 bushels held at one time.

"For the first time in three years," he continued, "the private grain trade has felt some freedom in entering the market and has been encouraged to work aggressively on the constructive side.

"For six months the agricultural trades have been struggling valiantly to help save the farmer. This fight has been in the face of vicious attacks on the marketing institutions by the farm board payrollers and the secretary of agriculture.

"Time and again in the past two years the agricultural trades have protested against farm board policies and the policies of Secretary Hyde as ex-officio member.

Piling Up of Surpluses.

"But these futile protests did not stop the piling up of surpluses, market manipulation, price pegging and other unsound policies which culminated in the ruinous grain, cotton and livestock prices which have brought foreclosures to vast numbers of farm homes.

"With the farm board's funds curtailed and its power reduced, the Chicago Board of Trade and other American markets look more hopefully to the future and strongly urge that the farm board influence and the influence of Secretary Hyde upon markets be not in any way exerted during the fight back toward better times.

"The agricultural trades feel with millions of farmers that the touch of the farm board has been the touch of death to prices of farm products."

Mr. Carey said that since the suspension order was handed down by Secretaries Hyde and Lamont and Attorney General Mitchell he had been deluged with letters from farmers and others commending the Board of Trade on its decision to fight the order.

He even received one letter from a mail carrier urging that everything possible be done to "get the government out of business."

Butter and Eggs Sell at New High for 1932

Butter and egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday advanced to new highs for the year, continuing the bullish activity of last week. The second trading day last Thursday was surpassed and a new total volume and a new egg total established. November butter shot to 21¾c, August to 21c, October eggs to 19½c, for the new high levels. Closing butter prices were ¼@⅝c higher and eggs closed ½c higher. Increased speculative support and a continued heavy covering movement again brought out large blocks of sales in October eggs. The bullish activity was accentuated by bullish storage reports, the figures again showing heavy increases in the shortages. A block of 36 cars of eggs changed hands at one time, the largest single block in recent years. Butter swept ahead despite less favorable news, enthusiastic support coming in despite storage figures showing less supplies coming out than was the case last year, and heavier receipts. Profit taking and new selling was active, but could not check the bull movement. Sales: Butter, 180 cars; eggs, 355 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 2 cars. Prices follow:

BOARD OF TRADE BOOMS ON "CLOSING DAY"

Wheat advanced in whirlwind of trading on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday, the day on which three federal cabinet officials had said it should lose its privileges as a contract grain market for denying the Farmers National Grain corporation, a United States farm board subsidiary, clearing house membership. Retail Trade Grows Better, Merchants Say

A far better feeling than has been the case for several years was noted yesterday as department store owners and buyers from all over the country began assembling at the Hotel Sherman for the twenty-second semi-annual meeting of the Interstate Merchants council.

Paul Kunning, trade promotion director of the Chicago Association of Commerce, which sponsors the merchants council, states that whereas merchants and buyers attending the meeting last year looked for the worst, this year they are looking for business.

Marvin Pool, vice president and general manager of Butler Brothers, stated that there are more buyers attending the fall showing of his company than he has seen for years. Last year, he said, they were all more or less pessimistic, while this year all are hopeful for better business.

Believes Tide Has Turned.

Fred Scott of Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., wholesale, was quoted as saying that the turn in the merchandising business was reached six or eight weeks ago and that his company is advising customers to buy substantially for from sixty to ninety days ahead. He found the wholesale dress and millinery business especially good.

Reports received by Mr. Kunning on conditions in Ohio, Iowa, and the Dakotas were especially encouraging. It was stated that conditions in the territory from Minneapolis west to Wyoming were especially good. While prices for grains are low, merchants coming from that part of the country asserted that the crops are the finest in fifteen years. They are laying in large stocks, expecting farmers to buy heavily this fall.

Mr. Kunning stated that stocks generally are so low throughout the country that any buying at all will serve to start the business ball rolling. Manufacturers will have to go to the producers for raw materials and the total of the increased business should be of considerable help to the railroads, according to Mr. Kunning.

400 Firms Included.

Some 400 firms are participating in the fall opening of the merchants council, which has a membership of 4,400 stores throughout the United States and Canada. The indications yesterday were that 2,500 stores would be represented.

The program for today includes a luncheon at the Hotel Sherman at which an address of welcome will be given by George W. Rossetter, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce. Paul H. Nystrom, professor of marketing, Columbia university, will talk on "Recent Changes in Consumer Demand and Their Meaning."

Gasoline Tax Hits Builders of Automobiles

BY SCRUTATOR.

The automobile, through its manufacture and universal use, has produced a golden flood of revenue for all divisions of government for years. It has particularly enriched state governments in recent years as the result of taxes on gasoline. In fact, that tax has proved so lucrative that the federal government this year is taking additional toll from users of motor vehicles.

However, there is evidence that the states which have been most rapacious in imposing gasoline taxes may be "killing the goose that lays the golden eggs." In the states which levy the higher gasoline taxes, the use of automobiles, based on registration figures, has declined much more rapidly than in the states imposing more moderate taxes. In addition to smaller revenues from gasoline taxes, fewer registrations mean a shrinkage in receipts from license taxes. Moreover, the smaller use of automobiles backs up into the whole automotive industry.

Results of "Gas" Taxes.

Some interesting data on gasoline taxes and their effect have been compiled by the National Industrial Conference Board and the National Association of Finance Companies. Every state levies a motor fuel tax, which ranges from 2 to 7 cents a gallon. The gross receipts from these taxes were nearly $570,000,000 in 1931, having risen from about $150,000,000 in 1925. License taxes produced about $354,

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 8.—An unexpected sharp impairment of the current crop position in cotton, coupled with the news that arrangements are being made to relieve the farm board of its holdings, precipitated an advance of $5 a bale on the New York cotton exchange today. That rally, the broadest since the depression began, added approximately $121,500,000 to the aggregate market value of supplies of cotton in this country.

When trading was halted, as is customary, for the reading of the department of agriculture report, at noon on the exchange, the price of the commodity had already advanced $1.25 a bale on the strength of the favorable news over the week-end pertaining to the farm board's holdings.

Traders Resent Delay.

Petulant traders gathered about the rostrum, expecting little startling in the report itself, and eager to return to trading on the basis of the already increased optimism.

The report actually showed that government estimates placed the crop for the year ended July 31 at 11,306,000 bales. The lowest of all private reports had gone as low as 12,000,000 bales, but the majority of such reports ran between 12,300,000 and 12,500,000

Chicago Stock Prices Higher; Shorts Suffer

The volume of trading expanded to the highest level since April 14 as stock prices continued to rise on the Chicago exchange yesterday. Shares which hitherto have not participated to any extent in the improvement were drawn into the forward movement and the volume of transactions jumped to 180,000 shares.

Some profit taking appeared during the day but it failed to check the advance. Stocks of all descriptions were in better demand and when the trading ended prices were a fraction to 3 points above last week's final quotations.

Borg Warner Leader.

Borg Warner continued the market leader. More than 25,000 shares of this issue changed hands as the price was bid up 9½ which compares with its earlier low price this year of 3¾. In belated recognition of the recent sharp advance in the common stock traders bid up the preferred stock 29 points to 85. This sharp advance developed on sales of only 150 shares.

The rapidity of the recent advance has left the trading community in a daze but most traders were only too anxious to believe that the turn has been made. Not all the tape watchers by any means have accepted the current rally as the death knell of the bear market, but there is no doubt that La Salle street's mercurial temperament has reached a new 1932 high point.

Stories of short traders who have been called on by brokers to cover their commitments were heard in many brokerage offices.

Investment Trusts Higher.

Just as investment trust shares were among the hardest hit in the defiation they have been among the first to respond in the current upturn. This was reflected on the Chicago board yesterday in a further 2¾ points gain in Continental Chicago preferred.

Active trading in Union Carbide continued yesterday reflecting the efforts of a local group to make a market for the stock here. The issue closed up a fraction at 24¾ after reaching as high as 26⅛.

PEOPLES GAS SELLS BONDS FOR $20,000,000

Premium Paid as They Are Issued.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The $20,000,000 bond issue of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company has been sold out, although formal offering does not take place until this morning. Announcement that the books on the offering were closed was made last night by the banking syndicate marketing the bonds.

The offering price of 97 on the bonds gave a yield of 6.24 per cent. During the day the bonds were quoted over the counter at a premium of 2 points over the offering price. While customarily a banking syndicate will make bids in the open market for an issue it is marketing it was said that an actual demand on the part of investors caused the Peoples Gas issue to command a two point premium yesterday.

Second Refinancing.

The sale of the bonds marks the second step in the refinancing program of the three large Chicago utility companies formerly under Insull management. The favorable response to the Edison and Gas issues is expected to lead to an early offering of $20,000,000 of Public Service of Northern Illinois bonds.

In taking a five months option on the financing of the three companies the banking syndicate provided for the possibility that market might need more time in absorbing the $70,000,000 of bonds. The response has been so favorable, however, that an early offering and the third and last of the issues is expected.

Same Syndicate Active.

The syndicate handling the Peoples Gas issue was the same which carried out the Edison financing. The group is headed by the Continental Illinois company, the First Union Trust and Savings bank, and the Harris Trust and Savings. Other members included the National City company, Chase-Harris-Forbes corporation, Bankers Trust company, Guaranty Company of New York, Northern Trust company of Chicago, and Field-Glore & Co. In coöperation with the Continental Illinois company, syndicate managers, the National City company is acting as eastern syndicate manager.

The Peoples Gas bonds are first mortgage and refunding 6 per cent liens running for 25 years. They are redeemable at any time on thirty days notice at 105 and accrued interest before May 31, 1937. Thereafter the redemption price drops a point for each five year period to and including May 31, 1952. After 1952 they are payable at 101 to maturity in 1957.

WAVE OF BUYING CARRIES WHEAT PRICES HIGHER

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Six straight days of advancing wheat prices, with the December delivery advancing 8c per bu from the low of Wednesday to the high of yesterday, failed to dampen the bullish ardor of the general public.

Attracted by the tremendous activity and sharply higher prices, an avalanche of scattered buying swept into the wheat pit and carried the market swirling upward, with the December touching 59½c on the bulge, in the face of heavy profit taking sales.

Commission house trade in wheat has been increasing by leaps and bounds in the last week. Yesterday's business was said by brokers to have been the heaviest since last fall, when the December was carried up from 47¼c on Oct. 3 to a high of 68⅛c on Nov. 8. Prices moved upward at that time for 30 straight days, one of the longest upturns in the history of the grain trade. One house claimed that its business yesterday was the heaviest in 18 months.

Surplus Quickly Absorbed.

An early break of ⅞c in the December to 57c on profit taking and the failure of Liverpool to fully reflect the bulge in North America Saturday was followed by an advance of 2½c from the inside figure, the surplus in the pit being quickly absorbed.

Numerous sharp reactions occurred from time to time as wave after wave of heavy profit taking made its appearance, but the sellers of wheat were engulfed by the persistent buying in small lots, and the close was at the top.

Net gains on wheat for the day were 1⅜@1½c, with September finishing at 55⅞@56c; December, 59¼@59⅜c, and May, 63⅝@63⅞c. Outside markets generally showed more strength than Chicago, Kansas City gaining 1¾@2⅛c, while Minneapolis was 1½@2c higher. American markets, however, ran away from the foreign, with Winnipeg up only ⅝@¾c at the last, December being 63⅛c in Canadian funds, while Liverpool was 1⅜@1⅛c higher. December in the English market was 58c at the last, or ⅝c under Chicago at the time the former closed.

At the outside figure yesterday wheat prices were the highest since June 4, while corn was the highest since May 31, and the tremendous advance in prices of grain and live stock has added over $200,000,000 to the theoretical wealth of farmers on the four major grains alone in a few weeks, as both corn and oats made their lowest figures of the season last week.

No improvement in the foreign demand for American hard winter wheat was reported, as the upturn in Chicago of late has put offerings from this country well above the prices asked for grain from other leading exporting countries. A fair business was said to have been put through in Manitobas, however. Supplies of wheat on ocean passage decreased 4,208,000 bu last week, and are down to 27,168,000 bu, or about three weeks' actual requirements of importing countries of the world. Unfavorable crop comments were again received from Russia, but news either bullish or bearish was ignored throughout the day.

The corn market after having been dormant for weeks suddenly came to life yesterday under the stimulus of the decided strength in wheat and stocks and advanced sharply, with the close at the top, with net gains of ⅞@1⅝c. September showed the least gain owing to heavy hedging sales against purchases of around 500,000 bu to arrive from the interior.

Bankers 4¼, Brooklyn Trust 8, Corn Exchange 2½, Manufacturers 2 and New York Trust 3 points. Insurance stocks also advanced.

In the domestic bond market, industrial and railroad shares were chiefly in demand, while utilities were stronger in a more moderate fashion, their recovery having begun earlier and generally higher levels than the other groups. With the exception of German issues, foreign bonds also showed moderate improvement. U. S. governments were strong and active, a few reaching the highest quotations of the year.

Gold Tide Reverses.

The reversal of the international gold movement which until a few weeks ago was moving strongly against this country was again emphasized in today's statement of transactions affecting the monetary stocks of the country. Although imports of only $1,025,300 were received, they included the first strictly exchange import from Europe, or for that matter from any gold standard country, since the run on the dollar began last autumn. The shipment, amounting to $1,002,200 came from Belgium, the belga having dropped below gold import point for a few days last week.

Foreign exchanges recovered sharply. Sterling was up ¾ cent to $3.46¾ and the franc gained 5-16 point to 3.91 13-16 cents.

Stirs Swarm of Job Seekers.

Accounts of the upturn in employment in Wall street resulting from the more active market had their inevitable result in a small army of job applicants who besieged firms in the financial district, ignoring statements from all such firms that only former employés were being considered.

The many brokers with offices in the Equitable building at 120 Broadway, for example, were forced to turn away dozens of men and women who applied for jobs, in many cases without previous experience in such work.

Many of the offices were still calling back old employés today. Elevator men saw familiar faces they had not seen for many months; long dormant acquaintanceships were revived in financial district lunchrooms. Restaurant owners smiled; the turnstile receipts at subway stations in the district crept back toward their former abundance. But Wall street had places only for its own—a part of its one time own.

LAST MINUTE BUYING BOOSTS BOND PRICES

New York, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Bonds took a whirl with the fast moving stock market today, when a flood of last-minute buying orders resulted in one of the most active sessions since last April. All categories participated in the upturn, with the rails and utilities running neck and neck for the leadership.

There were no auspicious news developments which might have affected senior securities and some dealers attributed the day's spurt partly to speculative elements.

Among the rails the day's heaviest trading took place in Nickel Plate 6s which jumped 3½ points. Gains of 1 to 4 or more points were also recorded by issues of Santa Fe, Baltimore and Ohio, Boston and Maine, Central of Georgia, Chesapeake Corp., Chesapeake and Ohio, St. Paul, Chicago and North Western, Rock Island, Colorado and Southern, Delaware and Hudson, Erie, Great Northern, Illinois Central, Louisville and Arkansas, M-K-T, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, New Haven, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, Southern, Union Pacific and Wabash.

Utilities Move Forward.

Western Unions led the utilities, with advances up to 7½ points. Conspicuous gains were made by loans of Utility Power and Light, Portland General Electric, North American Edison, Montana Power, Laclede Gas, Consolidated Gas, International Telephone, American and Foreign Power and American Water Works.

CURB MOVES UP

Continuing where it left off on Saturday the curb market today staged another vigorous uprush which was checked somewhat in the late trading by heavy profit taking. The day's transactions totaled 460,000 shares, the largest volume this year.

In the utilities late realizing slowed down the forward movement. Electric Bond & Shares issues closed at small net declines and a few other favorites in this group were on the minus side. On the other hand, Alabama Power preferred, Cities Service preferred, Utah Power & Light preferred and a host of other senior utility issues continued their upswing with undiminished vigor.

Industrial specialties were mixed, though several showed notable strength on top of their sharp gains of the last week.

GOOD ADVANCES IN LARD

Lard had good support with offerings light owing to an advance in wheat, cotton and stocks and a strong hog market with the top $5.00. The close on lard futures was at net gains of 17½ to 22½c and bellies were up 25c on futures with the cash up 12½c to $5.75 which was also the price of short ribs.

000,000. Eighteen states provide that all proceeds from motor fuel taxes shall be retained by the state and expended for state highway purposes, while the remaining states divide the receipts between the state and local governments in varying proportions. Sixteen states divert some portion of the motor fuel tax to purposes other than highways.

Some Past Experience.

Now let's see how these gasoline taxes have affected the use of automobiles, particularly in the last two years of depression. During the prosperity period from 1926 to 1929, registrations of automobiles showed about the same trend of increase in 46 states, although gasoline taxes ranged widely. So it is evident that motorists didn't feel the tax.

But beginning with 1930 a change took place. In the five states that levied a 2 cent gasoline tax, registrations increased in 1930 and held about stationary in 1931. In the eleven states collecting a 3 cent tax, registrations increased slightly in 1930 but declined nearly 2 per cent last year. In the seventeen states with a 4 cent tax, registration gained somewhat in 1930 but declined 3.3 per cent in 1931.

In the nine states collecting 5 cents a gallon, registration receded slightly in 1930 and then dropped more than 7½ per cent in 1931. In the four states levying a 6 cent tax, registrations declined 5.7 per cent in 1930 and an additional 7½ per cent in 1931.

Two states, Florida and Tennessee, impose a 7 cent tax but registrations in Florida have declined every year since 1926 and combined registrations of both states last year were fewer than in 1926.

Reduce Auto Use.

It seems clear from these figures that since the onset of the depression the gasoline taxes have materially reduced the number of automobiles in use and that each cent added to such taxes have caused the depression to affect more seriously the users of motor vehicles. It is likely this year will show still more serious effects as the result of the new additional federal taxes of a cent a gallon on gasoline and 4 cents a gallon on lubricating oil.

Estimate receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 6,000; hogs, 18,000; sheep, 9,000.

Buying on eastern account put new life into the hog market yesterday. Prices perked up directly after the session opened. The top price went back up 15c to the $5.00 line, equaling the highest spot of last week's trade, while the general average for the whole day moved up 5c to $4.30. At the start it was entirely a "shipper" market, but as the available supply of good grades commenced to dwindle rapidly, local buying orders increased and before the finish eastern representatives found it difficult to satisfy the demand at the current price.

Outsiders bought 22 per cent of the total arrivals. They took about 6,000 head, making the largest shipments in six weeks. The better tone in the market encouraged speculative buying and toward midsession some of the best action of the season characterized trading.

Small Cattle Receipts.

The second smallest Monday receipts of the year formed the stepping stone that enabled cattle to get back up to the highest level of the season on yesterday's session. The top price at $9.75 equaled the highest sale since January. This price was paid for cattle averaging 1,506 lbs. Prime 1,217 lb steers made $9.70 and numerous sales were made at $9.25@9.65. The bulk of beef steers went over the scales within a price range of $7.00@9.25, making one of the highest daily average costs in more than eight months.

However, despite the good action in top classes at higher prices, the plainer grades were slow to move and in some instances were barely steady, with the average market at the close of last week. Numerous loads of medium grades of mixed yearling steers and heifers averaging 500@700 lbs sold at $5.50@6.50, while ill bred thin stock ranged downwards from $4.50.

Several carloads of inferior Minnesota and Dakota yearlings had to go at $3.50@4.00. Some Montana grass stock sold at $4.50. Butcher stock ruled steady to strong and fed yearling heifers gained 15@25c in sympathy with the advance in steer prices. More than 300 yearling heifers averaging 600@900 lbs brought $7.50@8.00, with nine averaging 942 lbs at $8.25. Calves ruled strong to 25c higher. Bulls moved up 10@15c. The upturn in slaughter cattle stimulated country demand and stockers and feeders advanced 15@25c in value.

bales. It was the lowest Aug. 1 estimate since 1921.

The effect of the report was electric. The opening transactions immediately after trading was resumed showed gains of about $2.50 a bale. October cotton, which had closed Saturday at 6.16 cents a pound, opened after the crop report at prices from 6.84 to 6.92 cents, and rose steadily until it reached 7.22 cents, the high point of the day. This meant a gain of more than $5 a bale. The closing price, somewhat lower as a result of some profit taking, was 7:03 to 7:04 cents a pound.

100 Million Commodity Pool.

The creation by New York banks of an organization tentatively called the Commodities Credit corporation, with capital that may reach $100,000,000, as the core of a far reaching campaign is nearing completion, inspired and directed by Eugene Meyer.

The corporation, which is to make loans to consumers of raw materials to finance the purchase of stocks for manufacturing purposes, will be supplemented by projects to remove the overhanging threat of the wheat and cotton held by the federal farm board and its affiliated organizations.

A move to have the principal cotton mill interests purchase the 3,000,000 bales of cotton held by the farm board and its agencies has been under discussion between Mr. Meyer and James C. Stone, chairman of the farm board. It has been laid before manufacturing and banking interests here. It is expected that a similar plan with respect to the stores of wheat held by the governmental stabilization agencies also will be taken up.

Would Boost Commodities.

Mr. Meyer holds that the depressed level of agriculture and other raw material producing enterprises is the chief stumbling block in the way of recovery, according to bankers with whom he has talked in the last few days. Therefore, the first and most vital step in breaking the grip of the depression, he believes, must be the resuscitation of commodity prices.

The ground work for such a recovery, it is held, has been laid in two directions, first by the curtailment of production and second by a campaign of controlled inflation which the federal reserve system has been waging since early in the year.

Stone Makes Statement.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Chairman Stone of the Farm Board, said today the low cotton crop forecast would not alter the board's plan to sell 650,000 bales in the crop year that started Aug. 1.

That old familiar pest, the boll weevil, has had nature on his side throughout the present cotton growing season. The department said infestation was general throughout the belt. The difference in this year's crop and last year's, on the basis of today's forecast would more than absorb the holdings of the Farm Board and its agencies, but Chairman Stone warned that in addition to the farm board's holding of about 3,000,000 bales there were approximately 10,000,000 bales being held in storage and in compresses throughout the country.

The first ginning report made public today by the census bureau showed 70,978 running bales, counting round bales as half bales, had already found its way to the gins this season. This compares with the abnormally low figure of 7,307 for 1931 and the approximately normal figure of 78,188 bales for 1930.

St. Louis - San Francisco Railway Company

PLAN OF READJUSTMENT

Up to the close of business on August 8, 1932, holders of about $73,000,000 of bonds, or about 28% of the total outstanding bonds affected by the Plan, and holders of about 33% of the stock of the Company, have become parties to the Plan and Agreement. Holders of large additional amounts of bonds and stock have approved the Plan and agreed to become parties thereto.

The Company considers this response to the Plan very satisfactory. It is estimated that there are more than 50,000 owners of bonds and stock of the Company, many of whom are unknown, and the distribution of the Plan to known security holders has just been completed.

Holders of undeposited bonds should deposit them immediately, and in any event on or before August 15, 1932, with one of the Depositaries or Sub-Depositaries.

Holders of stock should sign and return promptly the Proxy, Consent and Agreement mailed to all stockholders.

Unless the Plan can be promptly carried out receivership is inevitable. The Plan will not be carried out unless practically all security holders become bound by the provisions thereof.

Inquiries in regard to the Plan should be addressed to C. W. Michel, Secretary of the Readjustment Managers, 120 Broadway, New York City.

New York City, August 9, 1932.

To the Holders of the Twenty-Year 5½% First (Closed) Mortgage Sinking Fund Gold Bonds Due July 1st, 1950, of Ontario Power Service Corporation Limited:

The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario (herein called "the Commission") hereby offers, subject to the terms hereof, to acquire the outstanding bonds of Ontario Power Service Corporation Limited consisting of bonds of the face value of $20,000,000 by exchanging for the same twenty-year debentures of the Commission (payment of which as to both principal and interest will be guaranteed by the Province of Ontario), on the basis of $90 of such debentures for each $100 of bonds of Ontario Power Service Corporation Limited. Any holder of bonds of Ontario Power Service Corporation Limited who wishes to accept this offer may do so by signing a formal acceptance and power of attorney and delivering such acceptance and power of attorney to Montreal Trust Company (herein called "the Trust Company"), at any of its offices, 61 Yonge Street, Toronto; 511 Place d'Armes, Montreal; Royal Bank Chambers, Halifax; 218 Portage Avenue, Winnipeg; 210 McLeod Building, Edmonton; and Royal Bank Building, Vancouver; and 6, Lothbury, London, E.C.2, England, or at the Agency of The Royal Bank of Canada, 68 William Street, New York, N.Y., on or before 1st October, 1932, together with his or her bonds, and in the case of coupon bonds with the coupons maturing 1st July, 1932, and all subsequently maturing coupons attached. Such acceptance and power of attorney must be in such form as the Trust Company may decide. Forms of acceptance and power of attorney may be obtained from such Trust Company.

As each bondholder deposits his bonds with the Trust Company a negotiable certificate of deposit, in such form as the Trust Company may decide, will be issued. On this offer becoming binding on the Commission according to the terms hereof such certificates of deposit shall be exchangeable for debentures of the Commission, when such debentures are ready for delivery, notice of which will be given by post to the registered holders of the certificates of deposit.

If by the first day of October, 1932, or by such later date to which the time to deposit is extended as hereinafter provided the holders of 90 per cent. in amount of the issued bonds of Ontario Power Service Corporation Limited shall have accepted this offer and deposited their bonds as aforesaid, then the Commission shall be bound to purchase the bonds so deposited on the terms set forth in this offer. If, however, by the said first day of October, 1932, or by such later date to which the time to deposit is extended the holders of 90 per cent. in amount of such issued bonds shall not have accepted this offer and deposited their bonds as aforesaid, then the Commission may, by giving written notice to that effect to the Trust Company, declare this offer to be void, and in that event the registered holders of certificates of deposit will be notified and the appropriate amount of bonds will be delivered to the holders of the certificates of deposit or to the duly authorized transferees thereof upon surrender of such certificates. The Commission by written notice to the Trust Company, if it so elects may extend the time for deposit of such bonds from time to time. At any time, however, either on or before the first day of October, 1932, or on or before such later date to which the time to deposit may have been extended the Commission may by written notice to the Trust Company, elect to purchase on the basis above mentioned all of the bonds so deposited whether or not the holders of 90 per cent. in amount of such issued bonds shall have accepted this offer and deposited their bonds as aforesaid. All bonds deposited shall be held by the Trust Company subject to the terms of this offer until said offer becomes by its terms binding or void.

The debentures to be issued by the Commission shall be in denominations of $50, $100, $500 and $1,000, shall be dated 1st October, 1932, shall mature on 1st October, 1952, may be registered as to principal only, shall bear interest from 1st October, 1932, payable half-yearly at the rate of 3½% per annum up to and including the first day of October, 1937, at the rate of 4% per annum thereafter up to and including the first day of October, 1942, and thereafter until maturity at the rate of 5% per annum, and shall be payable as to both principal and interest in lawful money of the Dominion of Canada at the principal offices of The Bank of Montreal in Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary, Vancouver, Halifax and Saint John, shall be redeemable at the option of the Commission on any interest payment date at par and accrued interest and shall be otherwise in such form in all respects as the Commission may decide.
